HOOVER MEETS RAIL CHIEFS ON NEW AID PLAN

Reconstruction Act Is Key in Latest Move for Recovery.

DETAILS WITHHELD AFTER CONFERENCE

U. S. Finance Leaders Also Talk With President as Drive Is Begun.

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover yesterday launched a new and definite effort, climaxed by a conference with fifteen outstanding railroad chieftains, to smooth the path toward economic rehabilitation of the Nation's rail carriers.

Although neither the President nor his many conferees of the day would discuss the details of their effort, the White House last night issued a formal statement saying the President was working toward "coordination of reconstruction activities."

However, after the conferences closed for the day, it was learned from authoritative sources that the best means of operating the reconstruction finance act as it affects the railroads are being considered.

Leaders Called.

The President first called in the heads of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, Balthaser H. Meyer, chairman of the finance division of the Interstate Commerce Commission, and Secretary Lamont, of the Commerce Department.

After Meyer left, the President summoned the railroad chiefs, who were in session here as the executive committee of the Association of Railway Executives. The last group was accompanied by E. G. Buckland, president of the Railroad Credit Corporation.

The conferences started Thursday night, when Eugene Meyer, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, and Secretary Mills, a member of the corporation, conferred with the President.

The White House statement said the conferences were continuing.

White House Statement.

The statement follows:

"The President has had conferences with the directors of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation; members of the Interstate Commerce Commission and the Department of Commerce, interested in reconstruction matters, together with the executive committee of the Railway Presidents' Association and the chairman of the Railway Credit Corporation upon coordination of reconstruction activities. The conferences are still continuing."

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation, the Railroad Credit Corporation and the Interstate Commerce Commission are the prinsipal arbiters of the railroad financial situation. The first two are loaning organizations, but the third holds the whip hand because under the interstate commerce act a railroad can not borrow money without the approval of the commission.

Scores of railroads are not earning enough to pay the interest on their bonds and have been turned down by banks when they sought renewal of short term loans.

Must Go to I. C. C.

Most of these lines have asked loans of the Railroad Credit Corporation and, failing there, the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. All

Britain Warns Irish To Keep Loyal Oath

De Valera's Pledge Also to Stop Annuities Draws Reply.

Birmingham, England, March 18 (A.P.).—The British government tonight warned Eamon de Valera, new president of the Irish Free State, that his intention to abolish the oath of allegiance to the British crown and withhold land annuities payable to Great Britain would cause the government "the gravest concern."

The gage thrown down by De Valera was taken up by Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer, in a speech here. Highest government quarters let it be known that the utmost importance was to be attached to the chancellor's calm warning.

De Valera pledged himself to abolish the oath of allegiance and withhold the land annuities in the campaign which ended recently with his election as president of the Free State's National Council.

'RED' JOHNSON QUIZ BY LINDBERGH NEAR

Friend of Betty Gow Taken to Hopewell for New Check on Story.

Hopewell, N. J., March 18 (U.P.).—Henry (Red) Johnson, friend of Betty Gow, nursemaid of the Lindbergh baby, is being brought to Hopewell for questioning and a check on his story, Col. Norman Schwartzkopf, of the New Jersey State police, announced late tonight.

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh was understood to be wanting to talk to Johnson.

Hopewell, N. J., March 18 (A.P.).—While State police and city detectives were wearily tracking down every vague tip that cropped up in the 17-day-old Lindbergh kidnaping case, there were indications tonight Col. Lindbergh himself is still pinning a hope on the activity of his confidential agents.

In his closely guarded home frequent conferences have been held this week between Col. Henry Breckinridge, Col. Lindbergh's counsel and close friend; John J. Fogarty, crack New York detective brought into the case by Breckinridge, and Morris Rosner, undercover emissary for the famous flier.

The colonel himself has presided at all of them. Authorities directing the official search for the kidnapers have been barred.

Rosner has been making frequent trips to points a considerable distance from the estate, but he returns at least daily to make reports.

These facts were learned tonight as a fresh batch of clews seemed to be leading the official investigators where all others have led—into blind alleys.

After police in Pocatello, Idaho, had quoted a burglary suspect as saying he drove the kidnaping car, and after

Government Loses Soviet Match Suit

Right to Collect Antidumping Tax Before Entry Is Denied by Court.

New York, March 18 (A.P.).—The right of the United States Treasury to prohibit entry of Soviet-manufactured matches unless an antidumping tax had been paid was denied today when the Amtorg Trading Corporation won a suit in customs court against the Government.

The action grew out of a ruling by the Treasury Department in May, 1930, whereby the importation of Soviet matches was denied unless the duty be paid on a basis of the difference between the "fair value," as defined by the tariff act, and the selling price in this country.

Judge Charles P. McWelland, in finding for the plaintiff, censured the Government's attorneys for following a policy which, he said, "seems deliberately to shut the door of inquiry against the ascertainment of the actual truth, both as to what led to the promulgation of the antidumping finding by the Secretary of the Treasury and the bases upon which the appraiser made his findings. Such an attitude is as truly Russian as the involved matches."

Mount Etna Emits Lava In Increased Quantities

Catania, Sicily, March 18 (U.P.).—Mount Etna, which recently has been active, increased its eruption today. There were many deep rumbles and the craters belched smoke, lava and incandescent material.

Prof. Gaetano Ponte said there was no danger of a serious eruption, although the lava probably will roll a short distance down the slopes.

INTERNATIONALISM IS PLEA OF CLAUDEL

Envoy Tells Chicago Group Creditor Nations Must Stick Together.

Chicago, March 18 (A.P.).—Ambassador Paul Claudel of France tonight urged the consideration of "that eternal question of debts and reparations in a spirit of business and hard facts rather than a spirit of abstract right."

Quoting the epigram of Benjamin Franklin, "If we do not hang together, we will hang separately," Ambassador Claudel said he thought that under present world conditions "the symbolical rope of the genial Philadelphian is dangling before the eyes of every responsible statesman in every country of Europe."

M. Claudel said he did not object to the "sacred right" of every nation to "blame, abuse and misrepresent each other." "But," he added, "when the business of damning is finished, time will come to see if something more practical can not be achieved.

"Whatever be the cause of the debts, the interest of all the creditors is the same, and it is not very different from the interest of the debtor himself. Instead of wrangling and fighting, it would be much better to understand that we are confronted with a big operation of salvaging, which must be conducted with a maximum use of good sense and of cool temper and a spirit of mutual concession.

"When entanglements have already taken place, it is no use to say that we should not be entangled; it is much better to try to disentangle ourselves, and instead of using the rope to strangle ourselves together with the other fellows, to use it for the best mutual help and advantage of everybody, and to extend to the whole world the beautiful motto of this great country, 'E Pluribus Unum.'"

Ambassador Claudel, making a three-day visit to Chicago, delivered his speech before the French and Franco-American societies of the city.

Speaking of the "very complicated and difficult question," disarmament, M. Claudel expressed his astonishment that "people who like so much to speak about disarmament are the same who speak so lightly about the necessity of changing frontiers."

JAPAN-SOVIET ROW IMPERILS ORIENT PEACE

Russian Resentment on Manchuria Invasion Seen Growing.

MILITARY ACTIVITY BY REDS REPORTED

Rumors of Mobilization Are Discounted by Moscow Agents Here.

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

Increasing tension between Japan and the Soviet government threatens to overshadow the hitherto peaceful adjustment of the difficulties in the Far East.

Just as Japanese troops were being ordered to evacuate their military positions in and around Shanghai and embark for home, the Soviet government is displaying sharp resentment against the Japanese invasions in Manchuria and elsewhere.

The following incidents indicate the steadily mounting anti-Japanese sentiment in Soviet Russia:

First, the official Red newspaper Isvestia in a recent editorial objected to the presence of Japanese troops so near the Soviet sphere of influence in Asia.

Explanations Rejected.

Second, the Soviet commissar of foreign affairs, L. M. Karakhan, served notice on the Japanese government through the Japanese Ambassador at Moscow that Japanese explanations of military moves along the Soviet border are unacceptable.

Third, Soviet Russia is reported mobilizing huge supplies of grain and other vital supplies in and around Vladivostok, the Russian port on the Sea of Japan.

Fourth, "feverish" military preparations by the Soviet military authorities in the vicinity of Vladivostok were reported.

Authoritative Soviet agencies here were inclined to decry the reports of the Soviet military movements as emanating from White Russian sources in Siberia. There are from 100,000 to 250,000 White Russians living in scattered groups throughout Manchuria reported at various times under the leadership of either Gen. Deidericks or other former czarist officers. These officers have been consistently endeavoring to embroil the Soviet forces unsuccessfully with the Chinese authorities. They are now, it was said, trying to do the same work as agents provocateurs with the Japanese forces who have lately entered the region.

However, the reports which have been reaching here from various

Child Escapes Kidnaper; Police Inquiry Launched

Bridgeport, Ohio, March 18 (A.P.).—Bridgeport police today were investigating the attempted kidnaping of 6-year-old Marguerite Daniel. A man attempted to seize her while she was playing near her home. She eluded him and ran screaming to a nearby house. The would-be abductor disappeared.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Daniel, the parents, revealed they had received a letter three months ago in which the writer threatened to kidnap the child. They said that at the time they believed it was a "joke."

POWERS HANGS AFTER BARING SLAYING GUILT

Clarksburg Man Admits Murdering 2 Women and 3 Children.

RETAINS COMPOSURE ON WAY TO GALLOWS

Death Pronounced 11 Minutes After Trap Is Sprung at Moundsville.

Moundsville, W. Va., March 18 (A.P.).—With an unconcerned smile flickering across his pudgy face, Harry F. Powers, the mountain "bluebeard," who slew two women and three children, died on the gallows tonight.

The trap was sprung at 9 p. m., and Powers was pronounced dead by four physicians at 9:11.

Powers was hanged for the slaying of Mrs. Dorothy Pressler Lemke, Northboro, Mass., divorcee, but a few minutes after he had plunged to his death, Dr. H. H. Haynes, Clarksburg physician, announced that Powers had confessed that he also killed Mrs. Asta Buick Eicher and her three children, of Park Ridge, Ill.

The bodies of all five were found in a ditch near Powers' queerly built "chamber of horrors" garage on his wife's deserted farm in Sylvan Quiet Dell.

Walks With Firm Step.

In a 50,000 word statement, which he wrote in longhand after being removed to the State prison in September, Powers admitted he buried his victims where they were found.

The Lothario of the hills, who lured women with promises of love and happiness, was on the verge of a nervous collapse an hour before he went to his death, but he quickly regained his composure and his death escort found him sitting quietly in his cell.

Powers walked with a firm step, unassisted, to the gallows. There, with the blue curtain shielding him from the gaze of those who had come to see him die, he shook hands and bade farewell to the officials and their aids gathered about the noose.

Pale, But Unmoved.

Shortly before the hands of the prison clock reached 9, the curtain was drawn aside. There was a grimace on his flabby face as his large shifty eyes roved to Sheriff W. B. Grimm, of Harrison County.

Quizzically he gazed at Warden A. C. Scroggins. He was pale, but still apparently unmoved.

Dressed in a dark blue-striped suit, with a white shirt and a white four-in-hand tie, Powers looked much as he did the day he was arrested in Clarksburg and smiled at police officers who accused him of the slayings.

Powers did not wear the heavy spectacles he donned when he went

American Tobacco 'Bonus' To Executives Halted by Suit

Injunction Stops Temporarily Stock Plan Yielding Millions to President Hill and Company's Vice Presidents; Huge Profits Scheme Charged.

New York, March 18 (A.P.).—The profit-sharing policy of the American Tobacco Co., which in 1930 brought its president, George W. Hill, a compensation of $2,383,000, was halted at least temporarily by an injunction granted today by Federal Judge Francis C. Caffey.

The decision barred the payment of the "bonuses" pending litigation, "either for 1931 or for any subsequent year."

The profit-sharing plan, adopted in July, 1930, brought millions of dollars into the hands of vice presidents of the company in addition to President Hill. It made Hill one of the Nation's "million-dollar-a-year executives," with an income for 1930 that was said to be the largest compensation on record for a corporation executive.

Officials of the American Tobacco Co. promptly issued a brief comment on the ruling.

"In response to inquiry," they said, "officials of the American Tobacco Co. called attention to Judge Caffey's statement that his impressions were only tentative and not final, and said that they concurred with the Court's views as to the desirability of procuring an early authoritative ruling on the by-law by the Circuit Court of Appeals."

The payments to officials were made under by-law 12 of the company.

Most of the payments for 1931, when the company earnings aggregated $46,189,741, or $9.08 a share, are reported already to have been made. The 1930 earnings, when President Hill received the immense comsation, were less—$43,294,769, or $8.56 a share.

Judge Caffey, in his decision, left undecided motions made by Richard Reed Rogers, a minority stockholder, to require the company's officers to account for payments already made to them. Mr. Rogers, in instituting the action fourteen months ago,

TAX BILL PUT IN PERIL AS HOUSE CONTINUES SALES LEVY ASSAULT

Smaller Salaries Fall In Scope of Cut Drive

House Group Told Budget Saving Needed Can Not Be Effected by Slashing Only Higher Federal Workers.

(Associated Press.)

The smaller Government salaries were included yesterday within the scope of the drive to slice $50,000,000 to $100,000,000 from the Federal budget that needs balancing.

The special House economy subcommittee was told the full saving sought could not be cut from the larger salaries alone. It then considered a bill making graduated slashes of from 1 per cent on small incomes to 20 per cent on the larger ones.

In the Senate Tom Connally (Democrat), Texas., offered a measure proposing a 5 to 15 per cent cut in all Government pay above $2,000 a year until June 30, 1933.

"I am willing that my own salary be reduced and my bill cuts $1,000 annually from the salaries of members of Congress and senators," Connally said.

Chairman McDuffie, of the House subcommittee, said its bill probably would be ready Monday. He pointed out that the suggested reductions would mean only 83 cents a month less pay on a $1,000 salary. This bill also is expected to include House members and senators.

A Senate agriculture subcommittee also began inquiry yesterday into the salaries paid officials of subsidiary organizations of the Farm Board. The bill of Senator Borah (Republican), Idaho, to cut the pay of members of the Farm Board from $12,000 to $9,600 and to ban salaries of more than $15,000 to all officers connected in any way with the board is before this committee.

There is considerable doubt that much progress will be made in the Senate on any of the appropriation bills until the tax-raising legislation

Garner's Stand Believed to Have Shattered Its Support.

WAR-TIME SURTAXES ON WEALTHY VOTED

Republicans' Night Parley Fails to Decide Upon Policy of Party.

By J. B. McDONNELL.

The fate of the $1,096,000,000 tax bill sponsored by the House ways and means committee hung in the balance last night.

Assaulted by a rampant House through the day, the bill was attacked again at a lengthy conference of the Republican House members last night, and at the end no leader of either party would venture his reputation as a prophet on the outcome.

The determined fight against the manufacturers' sales tax, which the committee estimated would raise $584,000,000 after amendment excluding canned foods, got beyond the control of party leaders, and once the bolt was begun it continued. Only adjournment of the House, seemingly, saved party leaders from a continued drubbing.

A statement issued by Speaker John Nance Garner (Democrat), Texas, who has been a proponent of the manufacturers' sales tax and widely mentioned as a possible Democratic candidate for the Presidency, was considered by many to have broken the back of the sales tax group.

Garner's Stand Surprises.

After the House had voted to extend the increases on incomes recommended by the ways and means committee, Speaker Garner said that the most important thing to restore the confidence of the people and to relieve the depression was to balance the budget, but the methods of raising necessary revenue "are not so important.

"The question of preference as to methods of raising necessary revenue becomes inconsequential and insignificant in the face of the need of actually and quickly providing the means of maintaining the Government's financial integrity," Speaker Garner said.

His statement apparently caught Representative Charles R. Crisp (Democrat), of Georgia, the earnest acting chairman of the ways and means committee, completely by surprise. Representative Henry T. Rainey (Democrat), of Illinois, majority floor leader, who went overboard for the sales tax, despite his frequent public denunciation of it previously, made no statement. The statement was interpreted as meaning that Mr. Garner no longer was behind the sales tax advocated by his party leaders.

LaGuardia Plan Attracts.

It almost seemed to become a question of every man for himself and the devil take the hindmost, and the spirit continued through the night meeting of the Republicans.

A majority of the Republicans had pledged themselves to vote for the sales tax. They discovered suddenly that the majority party was not going to support the tax urged by their own leaders and the hegira to the mecca of Representative Fiorello H. LaGuardia (Republican), of New York, began. They started toward the LaGuardia mecca because there wasn't any other special place to go.

SENATE BODY MAKES CAR MERGER REPORT

Senator Blaine Will File Minority Review, Asking Power Changes.

A much-amended street car merger bill, leaving the local traction companies things to wish for, was voted out of the Senate District committee yesterday.

The vote was not unanimous. Senator John J. Blaine (Republican), Wisconsin, will file a minority report recommending termination of existing power contracts, continued under the bill.

The power clause, transferring to the new Capital Transit Co. the Washington Railway & Electric Co.'s right to retail current, purchased at low cost from the Potomac Electric Power Co., was left undisturbed by the committee.

The following controversial provisions were incorporated in the bill:

Prohibition on traction company operation of taxicabs, with amendments restricting activities to "street railway and bus" operation.

A paving clause, relieving the companies of three-fourths of the cost of resurfacing streets traversed by their tracks, but leaving present resurfacing charges as they are.

A new section binding the company to acquiescence in jurisdiction of the Public Utilities Commission in fixing a "reasonable" reduced rate of fare for school children.

Provision for transfer from street car to street car and bus to bus, but leaving street-car-to-bus transfers subject to discretion of the Public Utilities Commission.

Amendment giving Congress the right to repeal the merger resolution and providing that rights to franchise terminate a year after repeal of the act.

Stipulation that nine of the fifteen directors of the new company be bona-fide residents of the District of Columbia.

Change to Roosevelt In Illinois Predicted

New York, March 18 (A.P.).—The prediction that the Illinois delegation to the Democratic national convention in June will support Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt for the presidential nomination after the first ballot, was made today by Representative Adolph J. Sabath, of Chicago, in a visit to Roosevelt headquarters.

He based his opinion on the belief that Mayor Anton J. Cermak of Chicago, who is expected to control the delegates from Cook County, as well as other parts of the State, wants above all to see the party win and that he will come to see that Gov. Roosevelt is the strongest candidate.

FIGHT ON DISTRICT RELIEF PLAN LOOMS

Reallocation of $600,000, Requested by Hoover, Faces Opposition.

Opposition to reallocation of $600,000 in District funds to local unemployment relief is expected to develop at hearings before the House District appropriations subcommittee Monday morning.

Representative William P. Holaday (Republican), Illinois, a member of the group, said he questioned advisability of appropriating public funds for relief purposes.

He said he will ask the District Commissioners to cite precedents for their request, declaring he knew of no other city in the country to make similar demands on public funds.

Chairman Clarence Cannon (Democrat), Missouri, said he is open-minded on the question, but will demand proof of the need for the step. He said, however, it was a District problem and a matter for the people of the District to decide.

Request for the reallocation was made Thursday by President Hoover in supplemental estimates submitted to the House. On recommendation of Budget Director J. Clawson Roop, he urged that the amount be deducted

Four Men Force President of Institution to Aid in Looting Cash.

Delavan, Wis., March 18 (A.P.).—Four men robbed the State Bank of Delavan of about $7,000 today after holding W. R. Topping, president of the institution, prisoner in his home most of the night. The robbers handcuffed Mrs. Topping and her daughter, Molly Joy, 6, to fixtures in the bathroom before taking Topping to the bank.

While the robbery was in progress, four bank employes entered and were covered by the robbers' pistols. The men escaped in an automobile they told Topping they had stolen.

Marion, Ohio, March 18 (A.P.).—Three bandits escaped with between $7,000 and $8,000 in cash today from the Prospect Citizens Bank, at Prospect, nine miles south of here. An officer and resident exchanged shots with the holdup men, but they escaped in an automobile.

AGRICULTURE PLANS CONGRESS AID DRIVE

Support of Farm Board Is Principal Subject at Conference Here.

(Associated Press.)

Organized agriculture yesterday planned a new drive in Congress to better the farmer's lot.

Representatives of the National Grange, the American Farm Bureau Federation and a score or more cooperative associations centered their discussions chiefly around the Farm Board, which they support.

The meeting was unannounced and no report on it was made public. It was learned, however, that these things were favorably talked about:

Replenishing the board's $500,000,000 revolving fund.

Use of $100,000,000 of agricultural funds in the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to finance exportation of crop surpluses abroad.

Restoration of the $880,000 clipped from the board's administrative budget of $1,880,000 by the House ways and means committee.

Opposition to congressional efforts to impound Farm Board wheat and cotton also was expressed by some.

The impending investigation of the board came in for discussion. Organized agriculture generally, however, favors such an investigation to "clear the air."

Administration and congressional leaders now have this under consideration and, if approved, large stores of wheat and cotton are expected to move to the Orient and to European consumers.

The national farm organizations have been advocating investing the board with the equalization fee and export debenture plans of farm relief. Their drive might lapse this year, however, if export financing is arranged. President Hoover, who is interested in such a plan, has expressed opposition publicly to the debenture.

KILLER AND OTHER FIGURES IN LOVE MART DEATHS

Harry F. Powers (center) died last night for the killing in Clarksburg, W. Va., of Mrs. Dorothy Pressler Lemke (lower left), Northboro, Mass., divorcee. One of the chief witnesses for the State was Charles Parrish (right), hotel clerk, who registered Mrs. Lemke in a Clarksburg hotel on the night she was last seen alive. Her name on the register is shown below. J. Ed Law (upper left) was Powers' counsel during his legal fight for life. Powers also confessed four other killings.

U. S. CONTEMPLATES WHEAT SALES DRIVE

(Associated Press.)

Official contemplation of an "intensive sales campaign" by the United States to place some of the country's huge surplus of wheat and cotton in European and other countries was reported yesterday by Secretary Hyde.

The Agriculture Secretary told newspapermen that although plans for such a campaign were at present nebulous, there was a definite "hope" that some such procedure could be followed in lifting the weight of these enormous surpluses from the American market.

Conferences on the possibilities are being held in official Washington, ranging from the White House to Capitol Hill.

Congress Already Has Acted.

A possibility that part of the $200,000,000 Farm Loan fund of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation might be employed in such a surplus slicing campaign also was voiced by Hyde. A resolution to make this fund immediately available has been adopted by the Senate and sent to the House.

"It would not be humanly possible for us to make $200,000,000 of loans to agriculture at this time," Hyde said. "Since we could not loan this amount if we had it, a better plan might be to employ this money in cutting down our surpluses rather than continuing to stimulate production."

Hyde said that before anything definite could be done toward disposing of the wheat and cotton held by the stabilization corporations it would be necessary to determine exactly what the conditions were abroad concerning these two products.

Gore Principle Indorsed.

Although Hyde had nothing to say upon the matter, there was considerable speculation in the Capital that the sailing Thursday to Europe of George S. Milnor, president of the Grain Stabilization Corporation, might have some such end in view.

The principle of the Gore wheat bill was indorsed yesterday before a Senate committee by J. M. Hackler, of Omaha, a grain and timber trader.

The bill sponsored by the Oklahoma Democrat prohibits sale of Government controlled wheat until January 1, 1933, and fixes the sale price afterward at not less than 81 cents for No. 2 hard winter wheat.

Gore intends to introduce soon another wheat bill, which would permit exports but prohibit sale of Farm Board wheat on the domestic market until July 1, 1933.

THAD BROWN UPHELD FOR U.S. RADIO BODY

Senate Confirms Nomination of Ohioan, in Spite of Fight by Couzens.

(Associated Press.)

The Senate yesterday confirmed the nomination of Thad Brown, of Ohio, as a member of the Radio Commission, despite a vigorous single-handed fight by Chairman Couzens of the interstate commerce committe.

It cleared its calendar of another disputed nomination by sending the appointmnt of Fred A. Bradley as collector of customs at Buffalo back to committee for investigation of malfeasance charges.

Couzens charged Brown with being "slippery and unreliable," and said the nominee's conduct as secretary of state of Ohio had disqualified him from holding any public office.

Senator Fess (Republican), Ohio, and Senator Dill (Democrat), Washington, insisted Brown would make a good commissionr. The nomination was approved without a record vote.

Couzens charged that Brown had used the office of secretary of state to promote his candidacy for governor by leaving license tax funds with the banks longer than allowed by law.

Senator Fess said the law he violated was an old statute and that the point was raised long after the offenses to embarrass him as a candidate for governor.

Couzens also charged that Brown had "lied" to his committee in connection with questioning about passes over air mail transport lines.

The labor record of Kenneth Mackintosh, of Washington State, was assailed and defended yesterday before a Senate judiciary subcommittee considering his nomination for circuit judge.

The only witness to appear against the former member of the Wickersham commission was Edward J. Tracy, representing the American Federation of Labor, who said Mackintosh's decisions as State judge had indicated he would not handle labor cases fairly.

Senator Jones (Republican), Washington, supportd Mackintosh and said he had never heard any criticism of his "honesty, integrity or ability." He said he did not believe the cases cited by Tracy indicated the nominee was unfriendly to labor.

CHAUNCEY OLCOTT, 71, DIES IN MONACO

Singer of Irish Ballads Was Star Since Eighties; Rites in New York.

Monte Carlo, March 18 (A.P.).—Chauncey Olcott, who was singing Irish ballads when Union Square was the heart of New York, died here today after a long illness. He would have been 72 in July.

Back in 1888 he and Denman Thompson were packing them in for "The Old Homestead." That show ran two years, an almost unprecedented run even in those times, and Chauncey Olcott, who started in only a minor part was costarring before the run was over.

Denman Thompson was the whole show when it opened and Olcott was just a tenor in a quartet which sang "The Palms." The audiences went wild and thereafter the tenor was as great an attraction as the star.

Born in Buffalo.

He was born in Buffalo, N. Y., but he was almost more Irish than American.

After "The Old Homestead" he became the great ballad singer the world remembers now. Some time or other he introduced "My Wild Irish Rose," and wherever he went thereafter, no matter what the play he was in, he had to sing that song. "Mother Machree" was another of his favorites, and his repertoire included every Irish song familiar to the quartets.

He played with the old light opera and minstrel companies and in 1897 married Margaret O'Donovan, of San Francisco. Then he went to England for a year or so and when he came back he was one of the favorites of the American stage.

"Pepita, or the Girl With the Glass Eyes," was one of his early successes and one of his last was "The Heart of Paddywhack," in which he appeared from 1914 to 1916. Three years later he was starred in "Macushla." Some of the others were "Honest John O'Brien," "The Isle o' Dreams," "Ragged Robin," and "Barry of Ballymore."

Funeral in New York.

After "Macushla" he retired and spent his summers up at Saratoga Springs, N. Y. A year ago he fell ill and came here. His wife, their son and their adopted daughter, Jeannette Clarice Olcott, who was born in Monte Carlo, cared for him in his sickness.

Last night his friends were informed that he was sinking and that the end was near. Only the adopted daughter was with him when he died.

Mrs. Olcott said she would sail for home March 22 from Ville-Franche and that the funeral would be held at St. Patrick's Cathedral, New York, on the day of her arrival or the next day.

WALL STREET QUIZ DELAYED IN SENATE

Committee Gives Complete Attention to Banking Reform Measure.

(Associated Press.)

The Senate banking committee yesterday laid aside the stock market investigation to complete work on the new Glass banking reform bill just received from the subcommittee.

Chairman Norbeck, calling a meeting for Monday, said the committee would devote undivided attention to the banking measure until it is reported to the Senate.

Senator Walcott (Republican), Connecticut, made an unsuccessful effort at yesterday's session to fix a time for starting the stock market inquiry recently ordered.

The provision of the Glass bill putting up strong bars against the use of Federal facilities in stock speculation is attracing attention, with prospects of Administration opposition to some of the strict language on the ground it would be deflationary.

Senator Glass (Democrat), Virginia, author of the bill, however, received complaints from some members of the Senate that the proposed speculation ban was not severe enough.

Senate interest in the far-reaching legislation is focused also on the proposed creation of a liquidating corporation to speed payments to depositors in closed banks.

This billion dollar corporation would have power to take over assets of a closed institution at their appraised value and to make payments to depositors pro rata on the basis of the present value of the deposits.

Senator Glass is confident the bill will be disposed of by the banking committee next week. He will then seek prompt Senate action.

Arguments Ended On Packers' Case

Lawyers Support and Attack Modification of Decree.

(Associated Press.)

Conjuring a family table atmosphere with argument about foodstuffs, lawyers yesterday finished their contentions before the Supreme Court over whether the packers should be allowed to handle other provisions than meats.

Edgar Watkins, for the American Wholesale Grocers Association, told the court that the packers with their money and organization would soon dominate the wholesale food business if the modification were allowed to stand. Speaking for the National Wholesale Grocers Association, William C. Breed agreed with Watkins. Frank Hogan, for the packers, said there was plenty of evidence to show that changing conditions since 1920 had eliminated any danger of a monopoly by his clients in the meat business or any other business.

The Government closed with John Lord O'Brian, Assistant Attorney General, presenting its case.

Record of Mellon Attacked by Long

Louisiana Senator Asserts U. S. Bureau Refused to Test Aluminum.

(Associated Press.)

A charge that the Bureau of Standards refused to test the qualities of aluminum, in which Ambassador Mellon is interested, but would test other materials, was made in the Senate yesterday by Huey Long, Democratic senator from Louisiana.

Attacking Mr. Mellon's administration as Secretary of the Treasury, Senator Long said he had discovered what control he had over the Government when Louisiana attempted to find out the relative values of building materials.

He said the Bureau of Standards tested other materials but said it was not allowed to report on the qualities of aluminum. The State officials, Senator Long added, were referred to the Aluminum Co. of America, controlled by the Mellons.

POWERS EXECUTED FOR KILLING WOMAN to Clarksburg to live as an obscure salesman.

Heeds Not Chaplain.

Warden Scroggins asked Powers if he had anything to say.

"No," replied the doomed man and then he shook his head emphatically in the negative.

Meanwhile, the final preparations for death were being quietly pressed.

The prison chaplain, E. M. Giesey, who remained with Powers through most of his last hours, began his prayer.

"We commit Harry Powers' soul to thee and ask that you pardon his sins," chanted the clergyman.

But Powers, blinking in the scaffold light, second not to heed the words of the chaplain.

The death cap was adjusted and it was 9 o'clock.

Somewhere nearby Deputy C. E. Brill, captain of the guards, pressed a button that flashed the death signal to attendants stationed at three electric switches. Each pressed a button, none knowing which sprung the trap.

Statement to Be Sold.

Powers plunged to his death.

Dr. Haynes and Sheriff Grimm, announcing that Powers had confessed all five slayings, said the long statement would be "sold to the highest bidder."

The physician explained that the proceeds would reimburse him for financial aid he gave Powers during his legal fight to evade death on the gallows. They refused to amplify the statement that Powers had admitted the killings.

Powers was taken for a walk in the sunlight of the prison grounds while officials tested the gallows earlier today. This was done to spare the mass slayer hearing the clatter of the falling trap.

Shrewd, however, as he always has been since he became tangled in the meshes of the law, Powers asked upon his return to the death cell, which adjoins the gallows room:

"How did that thing work?"

Tip World Will Not End Leaves Forecaster Safe

By JOHN J. DALY

EVER since the beginning, men have predicted the end of the world—and, of course, the world has gone on without them.

Now, confidentially, some scientists announce there may never be an end to the world, that it will go on, and on, forever, forever, and a day.

It may be so

One of the fine things about these predictions, one way or another, is that they can be made in all safety. You can say anything you want to about the world, and get away with it; in the meantime, the world, in its whirl through space, keeps right on whirling—a worldly thing to do.

From the Paleozoic Age to the Machine Age is a long swing of the orbits, but really only the beginning. Nevertheless, men will always be concerned with the possible end of the world. It is human nature. When the world ends, the world will see the greatest display of fireworks the world has ever known. That, of course, is why everybody is sitting around waiting. The end of the world will be the grandest moment of all—the Greatest Show on Earth, the Dance of the Stars, and of the Sun, and the Moon.

No wonder men wonder when the works will be shot.

* * * *

THE world is new, and the world is old,
A tale beginning, a story told.
The world is full of grace.
The world is good, and the world is bad,
The world is gay, and the world is sad;
A topsy-turvy place.
The world is kindly, the world is gruff,
The world is tender, the world is tough,
The world is a bit insane.
The world is moody, the world is not,
The world is cold, and the world is hot:
The world, a lover's lane.

The world is sprightly, the world is glum;
The world is brilliant, the world is dumb;
The world is sweet in June.
The world remembers, the world forgets,
The world is glad, and the world regrets;
Its song, a bitter tune.

* * * *

THE world is shy and the world's a flirt.
The world is clean and the world is dirt,
Where mud and muck are hurled;
The world is this and the world is that,
The world is humble and then high hat—
Oh, wurra-wurra, the world!

It's right or wrong as you see the light;
For the world is day and the world is night,
The world is a friend or foe.
The world is with you and then, again,
The world's against you; and, to all men
The world is Yes and No.

Only a footstool for you and me,
It matters not what the world may be,
So long as the world is here,
And we are, too, while the camping ground
Is light with laughter and happy sound,
And the world is filled with cheer.

STREET CAR MERGER BILL IS DEFEATED IN COMMITTEE

mission regulation of any subsidiaries of the new company located in the District.

Cab Privilege Asked.

The traction companies had held out for the right to operate taxicabs, if it became necessary, although they disclaimed any desire to enter this field. Shortly after the committee had opened its session yesterday, and had indicated its intention of restricting operation to street cars and buses, John Maynard Harlan, attorney, asked permission to be heard.

He informed the group he had been retained by Harley P. Wilson, a director of the North American Co., which owns controlling stock in the Washington Railway & Electric Co., to take the merger project up with stockholders, whose approval must be obtained.

To restrict the companies from operation of taxicabs would be to place unnecessary limitation on concerns "already on crutches," he argued. He said the Washington Railway & Electric Co. lost 7,000,000 revenue passengers last year, and the Capital Traction Co. 10 per cent of its traffic.

Requests by Harlan.

Mr. Harlan asked the committee to consider "only differences between the street railway companies and the Public Utilities Commission," holding the commission, through its peoples' counsel, had already sounded out the opinion of residents.

Senator William H. King (Democrat), Utah, and Senator Blaine said they disagreed with this view, and did not consider themselves bound by the Public Utilities Commission.

Senator Blaine said that as representatives of the Public Utilities Commission and other interested groups were not present, it would leave the committee liable to criticism to continue in open session.

Executive Session Held.

Mr. Harlan and Louis Barley, attorney associated with Mr. Wilson, retired from the committee room. The committee went into executive session.

Although the bill as redrafted is far from what the companies asked, neither does it satisfy all of the demands of the people's counsel and interested civic groups.

Peoples Counsel Richmond B. Keech had sought abrogation of existing power contracts, contending that the profits now made by the Washington Railway & Electric Co. on power purchased cheaply from the Potomac Electric Power Co. should be passed on to Washington consumers in reduced rates.

Universal Transfer Urged.

Both Keech and William McK. Clayton, utilities committee chairman of the Federated Citizens Associations, had fought vigorously for a universal free transfer between street cars and buses.

Adoption of commissioners' recommendations against relieving the companies of virtually all of the cost of paving and resurfacing was a blow to the traction group, although a provision in the bill relieves them of paying salaries of crossing policemen, an annual saving of $125,000 a year.

The original proposal to transfer three-fourths of the costs of all paving to the District of Columbia would have cost the District $350,000, the Commissioners said. They estimated the District's assumption of three-fourths of the costs of new paving, under the approved bill, will cost the District $40,000 more a year. The bill further would relieve the companies of all expense for maintenance and replacement of bridges.

Forty-four amendments were incorporated in the bill as approved, only 26 of which were uncontroversial. Forty-eight amendments in all were proposed by the parties interested.

Rehearing Asked for Al Capone.

Chicago, March 18 (A.P.).—Counsel for "Scarface" Al Capone, gang leader facing eleven years' imprisonment, late today filed a petition for a rehearing by the Circuit Court of Appeals of his conviction for evading income taxes. The appeals court three weeks ago upheld the conviction, but the gangster's counsel declared today that it had ignored the principal questions in the appeal.

Alien Musicians Curb Bill Signed

Only Artists Are Allowed to Take U. S. Contracts Under New Law.

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover yesterday signed into law an act tightening the contract labor provisions of the immigration laws as they apply to instrumental musicians entering the United States.

The act rules the contract labor provisions shall apply to all such musicians whether their entrance is of a permanent or temporary nature. It provides, further, that no alien instrumental musician shall be considered an "artist" unless he is "of distinguished merit and ability" or unless his professional engagements within the United States are "of a character requiring superior talent."

The new law provides that if such a musician plans to enter the country temporarily his admission shall be conditional upon insurance of his departure at the termination of his contract here.

Crusaders Elated Over White's Talk

Aver Governor's Address Bombshell in Ranks of Prohibitionists.

(Associated Press.)

The Crusaders, an antiprohibition organization, said last night in a statement "Gov. George White of Ohio threw a bombshell into the ranks of the drys last Wednesday night when he told a gathering of the Women's Christian Temperance Union in Columbus that he favors a resubmission of the eighteenth amendment to the American people."

The statement continues, in part:

"This unexpected announcement really means that the home of the Antisaloon League, and probably the most pivotal State in the next election, has become wringing wet.

"The Nation-wide revolt against prohibition has brought out nothing more significant than the swift trend of Ohio away from the noble experiment. This trend should be both a guide and a warning to politicians who are now feverishly speculating on the question of what they must do to save their political heads."

Mitchell Defends U. S. Courts' Scope

Fights Abolishing of Jurisdiction in Interstate Cases.

(Associated Press.)

A bill by Senator Norris (Republican), Nebraska, to abolish entirely the jurisdiction of Federal courts over cases based on diversity of State citizenship was opposed before a Senate judiciary subcommittee yesterday by Attorney General Mitchell.

Mitchell contended that a suit between residents of different States should be admitted to the Federal courts because if it were tried in a State court before "a jury composed of neighbors of the defendant" the nonresident would be "not apt to get quite as fair judgment as in the Federal court, where the jury is drawn from a larger area."

The Attorney General advocated instead a bill drawn by himself and introduced for him by Senator Norris, affecting corporations only.

14 Ukrainians Perish in River.

Bucharest, March 18 (A.P.).—Reports from the border town of Lokianka today said 14 Ukrainian peasants were drowned in an attempt to cross the Dniester River into Roumania. Thirty-two of the peasants reached the middle of the river when the ice broke. Eighteen of them reached the Roumanian shore.

W. W. Ashe, 60, U.S. Tree Expert, Dies

Was Prominent Figure in Forest Service and Scientific Work.

William Willard Ashe, regional forest inspector of the U. S. Forest Service, died at Emergency Hospital yesterday. He was born at Raleigh, N. C., 60 years ago. He began his first work in Federal forestry in 1899 and had been a member of the Forest Service since 1905.

Graduated from the University of North Carolina in 1891 and Cornell in 1892, he had been engaged in forestry practically all his life. He planted one of the first commercial stands of longleaf pine in North Carolina, introduced modern cupping of pine trees for turpentine and was most active in discovering and identifying native trees. As a scientist he ranked as a leading dendrologist, and the leading authority on forest trees found east of the Rocky Mountains.

His career as an author of scientific treatises began about 1895 when he was connected with the department of State forestry in North Carolina, and his publications included many bulletins and reports on forestry, dendrology and water conservation.

At the time of his death, Mr. Ashe was chief of land acquisition for the national forest region of the Eastern and Southern States. He was a senior member of the Society of American Foresters. He is survived by his widow.

land and Ireland, which has caused much strife in the past.

Mr. Chamberlain commented that he had herad reports of what Mr. de Valera intended doing, but since there had been no official notification he assumed they were incorrect.

The oath of allegiance to the British crown is provided for in the treaty which established the Irish Free State ten years ago. The land annuities, amounting to about $15,000,000, are collected under the treaty from Free State farmers in repayment of loans which enable them to buy out their landlords.

Abolition of the oath and suspension of the annuities were major points in De Valera's campaign platform. He contended that the oath was not mandatory and that the annuities were not legally or morally payable to Great Britain, which acted as an intermediary between the tenants and those from whom the money was borrowed.

Dublin, Irish Free State, March 18 (A.P.).—The public safety act, passed by the late Cosgrave government to meet what it considered a serious menace from militant Republicans, was suspended tonight by order of President Eamon de Valera and the executive council.

The military tribunal which was set up by the act and which sentenced many prisoners, who were released by De Valera upon his coming into power last week, was abolished by tonight's order.

The public safety act, passed in the Irish Free State Parliament about six months ago, virtually established martial law over Ireland.

The daughter, Estelle, receives the income from two-thirds of the residue for life, and the widow, Mrs. Lide B. Williamson, receives the income from one-third of the residue in trust, which passes to the daughter upon her death. The daughter's two children, Earl, a sophomore at Yale University, and Donald, a student of the Woodbury Forest Preparatory School in Virginia, received the sum of $6,000 in trust for their education.

PREMIER MOLESTED AS BRIDGE IS OPENED

Demonstration Against Lang Is Made in Australia by Extremist Members.

Sydney, New South Wales, Saturday, March 19 (U.P.).—A sensational political demonstration against Premier J. T. Lang marked the opening of the great Sydney harbor bridge today.

The premier, who was closely guarded because of recent Extremists threats against him, was officiating at the opening ceremonies and had just stepped up to cut the ceremonial ribbon across the bridge, thus opening it to the public.

Before he could cut the ribbon, a man on horseback dashed into the midst of the officials participating in the ceremony, drew a sword and severed the ribbon.

The man, wearing an officer's uniform, described himself as Capt. Degroot, of the Royal Hussars. He entered on the bridge with the governor's escort, and when he slashed the ribbon he shouted:

"I, an officer of the commonwealth, in the name of common decency declare this bridge open."

The crowd balked police attempts to arrest Degroot at first, but he was later charged with "offensive behavior."

The severed ribbon was retied and the ceremony proceeded as scheduled.

The new bridge, which cost $50,000,000 and required nine years to build, was the realization of Sydney's "dream of the century," and one of the greatest engineering feats in the world.

The bridge is 1,650 feet—25 inches shorter than the Kill Van Kull Bridge, but it is 160 feet wide as compared to the 90 feet of the New York structure. It accommodates four lines of electric railway, roadway for six lines of vehicles and two footpaths. It has a maximum hourly capacity of 128 trains, 6,000 vehicles and 40,000 pedestrians.

ROOSEVELT BACKERS DIP IN G. O. P. RANKS

Republican War Hero Asked to Join Primary Slate in Massachusetts.

Boston, March 18 (A.P.).—Supporters of the presidential candidacy of Gov. Roosevelt drew from the Republican ranks today to complete their list of candidates for delegates and alternates to the Democratic national convention.

A few hours before the deadline for certifying of signatures for the nomination papers of their candidates, Mayor James M. Curley and James Roosevelt, son of the New York governor, offered a place on the list of delegates at-large to Col. Percy A. Guthrie, Boston attorney and World War hero.

In the meantime, after a day of frantic activity, the Roosevelt organization filed the entire slate of twelve candidates for delegates at large and 30 candidates for district delegates, and an equal number of alternates.

Col. Guthrie had not accepted definitely the place on the Roosevelt ticket, James Roosevelt said tonight, adding that the election requirements allowed several days in which a change might be made if necessary. If Guthrie, organizer of the famous Canadian "Black Watch" Regiment during the World War, accepts, it will be necessary for him to reregister as a Democrat.

The place offered Guthrie was made vacant when J. C. Joseph Flamand, French consul general at Boston, was forced to withdraw when the French Embassy at Washington questioned the propriety of his participation in politics.

Contesting for the Massachusetts vote in the April 26 primary will be the slate pledged to former Gov. Alfred E. Smith and headed by Gov. Ely and the two Massachusetts senators—Walsh and Coolidge.

If Col. Guthrie agrees to join the Roosevelt ticket, he will be the second former Republican on the slate. Joseph H. Hanken, of Revere, another prominent war veteran, among the candidates for delegates at large, changed his party designation last Tuesday.

SENATOR GEORGE, OF GEORGIA.

IT is not often that Senator Walter F. George, of Georgia, arises to make a speech. When he does, though, his colleagues lend an ear. In nine years they have come to learn that George, of Georgia, usually has something to say when he gets on his feet, and that, moreover, he is handsomely equipped to say it.

George went in for oratory when he was a kid in grammar school at Arabi, Ga. Old-timers down there still talk about a speech he made when he was 16. The "speaker of the evening" failed to appear at a public meeting and young George was thrown into the breach. He talked for 40 minutes and at the end was given an ovation.

A calm, dignified man of 54, utterly unlike the fiery individual he succeeded, the late Tom Watson, Senator George comes of pioneer Georgia stock. As a boy he worked in the cotton and corn fields when he was not in the classroom.

He attended Mercer University, obtained his bachelor of arts and law degrees, and then hung out his shingle in Vienna, Ga. His public career began when he was elected solicitor general of the Cordele judicial circuit. That was in 1907. Five years later he was named judge in that circuit, and in 1917 he was elected a judge in the Georgia Supreme Court. He was thus occupied when Senator Watson died in 1922.

Gov. Hardwick wanted to appoint George to the vacancy, but first he wanted to make an old woman happy. With the consent of George, the governor selected Mrs. Rebecca L. Felton to take over Watson's seat until the Senate adjourned. Her service lasted only 22 hours. However, she had the honor of being the first of her sex to rate the title of United States senator.

George began his service when Congress reconvened the following year. In 1917, he was elected for the full six-year term.

of these applications must go to the Interstate Commerce Commission for approval and that body has adopted the plan of approving only such portions of requested loans as are required to meet immediate needs.

The Railroad Credit Corporation was formed by the carriers to collect and administer funds derived from surcharges on freight bills which the commission approved last fall and which became effective January 4. The funds from the increases did not begin to come in until the last two weeks and then did not reach the figures expected.

The result has been that railroads in immediate need have had to seek funds elsewhere.

After the conferences the railroad executives informed inquirers they had been enjoined against talking. J. J. Bernet, president of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad, answered an inquiry with the statement that "when one confers with the President he doesn't usually tell what it is about."

Pledged to Silence.

"We have been specifically enjoined from speaking to newspapermen concerning our conference at the White House this afternoon," Charles Donnelly, president of the Northern Pacific, said. "There was a definite agreement that anything to be said about it would be said by the President."

Those present were:

W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad; J. J. Bernet, president of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad; E. G. Buckland, chairman of the board, New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad; J. J. Pelley, president of the same road; Charles Donnelly, president of the Northern Pacific Railway; Carl R. Gray, president of the Union Pacific; Fairfax Harrison, president of the Southern Railway System; H. A. Scandrett, president of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul & Pacific Railroad; F. E. Williamson, president of the New York Central; George M. Shriver, senior vice president, Baltimore & Ohio Railroad; W. R. Cole, president, Louisville & Nashville Railroad; E. M. Durham, jr., senior vice president, Missouri Pacific Lines; A. D. McDonald, vice chairman of the executive committee of the Southern Pacific Co.; R. H Aishton, chairman of the executive committee, Association of Railway Executives, and Alfred P. Thom, general counsel, Association of Railway Executives.

ROOSEVELT'S LEAD IN DAKOTA GROWING

Gets All but One Delegate, While Hoover Is Given All Save Two.

(Copyright, 1932, by the Associated Press.)

Fargo, N. Dak., March 18 (A.P.).—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York won all but one of North Dakota's ten Democratic national convention delegates and President Hoover carried nine of the eleven Republican delegates, according to the Associated Press tabulation tonight of nearly complete unofficial returns from Tuesday's primary election.

George Murray, of Berthold, brother of Gov. William (Alfalfa Bill) Murray of Oklahoma, was the only delegate pledged to the Oklahoman to be elected.

On the Republican ticket, the two seats which the Hoover men failed to carry went to delegates pledged to vote for a "progressive."

Nearly 80,000 votes were cast in the presidential preference contest between Roosevelt and Murray, which Roosevelt won by more than 13,000. The total was more than six times the highest previous Democratic vote in a North Dakota primary.

Tabulation of the primary returns ended tonight with all but 68 of 2,235 precincts in the State reported in the Democratic delegate contests and with only 63 precincts lacking in the Republican delegate race.

Roosevelt was an easy winner over Murray in the Democratic Presidential preference balloting. Former Senator J. I. France defeated "General" Jacob S. Coxey, Mayor of Massillon, Ohio, for the Republican preference.

France and Coxey were without candidates in the delegate contest, while President Hoover was not entered in the preference race.

Nebraska Soon to Pass On Democratic Choices

Lincoln, Nebr., March 18 (A.P.).—Nebraska will soon express its opinion of three Democratic presidential possibilities—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York, Speaker John N. Garner, of Texas, and Gov. W. H. Murray of Oklahoma. Their names will appear on the ballots, which were sent to the printer today, for the April 12 preferential primary.

Results of the election, however, will mean little except an expression of the people, as the party's sixteen delegates to the national convention are unpledged and uninstructed to support any candidate.

Mississippi Legislature To Hear Murray Speak

Oklahoma City, March 18 (A.P.).—An address before the Mississippi Legislature, March 29, was added today to Gov. Murray's presidential campaign speaking dates on his projected swing through the South.

Commenting on Murray's defeat in North Dakota, George Henshaw, manager of the governor's Oklahoma City headquarters, remarked:

"It's the first time in history that Republicans ever have held a Democratic primary."

Henshaw said Murray was not downcast over the North Dakota result.

The meeting will take the form of an anniversary celebration as it marks the beginning of the Association's third year in its fight for improvement in the road and school conditions.

Acts passed by the State Assembly during the past session will be discussed especially as they affect Fairfax County. The advantages and disadvantages of the new Byrd law, under which the State highway department will take over the maintenance of all county roads, will be considered.

Credit Aid Is Sought For U. S. Possessions

(Associated Press.)

Delegate Davila, of Porto Rico, yesterday introduced a bill to let the Reconstruction Finance Corporation extend aid to Porto Rico, Hawaii and Alaska.

The Mobile & Ohio Railroad yesterday asked the Interstate Commerce Commission to approve a loan of $1,000,000 from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. The loan would run three years and would be used to meet various obligations of the company.

The progress of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation in its efforts to ease American credit was outlined to President Hoover yesterday by Brig. Gen. Charles Gates Dawes, president of the corporation.

Dawes said he had told the President of the various efforts being made to increase the credit flow and would continue to make such reports at timely intervals.

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation yesterday approved a loan in the neighborhood of $2,250,000 to the Missouri Pacific Railroad Co.

The Missouri Pacific previously had received from the corporation a loan of $4,300,000, after applying to the Interstate Commerce Commission for approval of a total loan of $15,000,000. The commission recently gave its approval for a second loan in the amount authorized yesterday by the Reconstruction Corporation.

Yesterday's action brings the total received by the Missouri Pacific approximately up to the amounts extended to the Southern Railway and the Wabash. It is still considerably below the $9,300,000 approved for the New York, Chicago & St. Louis Railroad Co.

Woman Sues Grocery Concern for $10,000

The Sanitary Grocery Co., a corporation of Delaware, was named defendant in a suit for $10,000 damages alleging personal inuries filed yesterday in Montgomery County circuit court at Rockville, Md., by Mattie Ray Wallace, of Takoma Park, Md.

Through the law firm of Peter & Simpson, of Rockville, the plaintiff tells the court that she tripped over a piece of tin projecting from the ground at the door of a store owned by the company on Laurel avenue, Takoma Park, Md., when she was entering to purchase supplies. She alleges that she was injured permanently and was forced to expend large sums for hospital and medical treatment.

Bankhead Upheld By Minority Group

Democratic Members fo Senate Body Defend His Election.

(Associated Press.)

The election of John H. Bankhead as Democratic senator from Alabama in 1930 was held yesterday in a minority report to the Senate elections committee to have been a "full, free and fair expression" of the will of the voters.

The report, submitted by the two Democratic members of the subcommittee which considered the contest against Bankhead's seat, sharply challenged the findings of the committee majority that Bankhead was not legally elected.

The Democrats, George, of Georgia, and Bratton, of New Mexico, took issue with the Republican contention that Bankhead was nominated illegally as well as the charge that widespread violations of law made his election fraudulent.

HOMES ARE BLASTED IN MINE STRIKE AREA

Two Are Shot in Walkout of Thousands in Pennsylvania; Troops Dispatched.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., March 18 (A.P.).—Two persons were shot, several homes were dynamited and working miners and strikers clashed frequently today as the insurgent strike of anthracite workers went into its fifth day.

State troopers moved into the section from all parts of the Commonwealth. They went on patrol quickly and broke up picket squads in many places, where they tried to block roads or prevent miners from going to their work.

The strike was called Monday to force equalization of working time among all the mines. It was denounced by the executive board of districts 1, 7 and 9, meeting in Hazleton late this afternoon, as a "suicidal move that would cripple the anthracite industry."

Several authoritative sources indicate that 12,000 to 14,000 men are out in district 1, around Wilkes-Barre and Scranton, and 2,000 more in district 9, around Pottsville and Shenandoah.

Greatest violence occurred in the Scranton-Wilkes-Barre area.

Joseph Pryowski and Julius Golembrowski were shot and slightly wounded by Nicholas Gumbo, 14, when a crowd of strike sympathizers tried to mob his father, John Gumbo, on his way to work in North Scranton.

The lad, fearful of the mob, rushed back home, grabbed a shotgun and opened fire into the crowd. The Pryowski boy was shot in the arm and shoulder and Golembrowski in the left hip. Young Gumbo was arrested.

Several homes were dynamited in Wyoming, Duryea and Taylor. Bricks were hurled through windows of four homes in Port Griffith. Attached were notes threatening dynamiting if their owners did not cease work. No one was hurt in any of the four towns.

Eleven autos were waylaid and stoned on the Port Griffith-Sebastopol road.

Czechs Fight Rule For Film Imports

Exchange for Payments Only After Censoring Is Scored at Meeting.

Prague, Czechoslovakia, March 18 (A.P.).—Motion picture exhibitors protested at a meeting today against a government decree, under which foreign exchange to pay for the importation of films would be granted only after the films had been passed by the censors.

The decree would apply to all foreign films, and it was denied that there was any intention of discriminating against the American product. There was instead a feeling of antagonism against German films, which emanated from Nationalist circles, the exhibitors said.

The Czechoslovakian government is expected to introduce a quota system soon for the purpose of encouraging home production of movies, but the matter has not yet been decided. In event of such a system, the American quota is expected to remain in about the same proportion to the German, French and English as at present.

charged the officers and directors with perpetrating a plan to pay themselves a $30,000,000 bonus through purchase of stock at $25 a share. President Hill six months later asserted the subscription plan was "duly authorized" at a meeting of stockholders in July, 1930. The $25 a share they were asked to pay for it allegedly was in comparison with a market price of $112.

The plan approved by the stockholders called for the sale of about 312,000 shares of "B" stock to employes at not less than the $25 par. In January, 1931, the company issued 56,712 shares, of which President Hill received 13,440. Five vice presidents received a total of 16,685 shares with the balance distributed among employes entitled to participate.

It was this stock sale that largely accounted for the $2,383,000 compensation President Hill received for 1930.

Judge Caffey decided he was "bound to exercise jurisdiction" since the suit before him stated a cause of action. Last month Federal Judge Robert P. Patterson had held the action brought by Mr. Rogers should be decided in New Jersey, where the company was incorporated.

$300 Clothing Stolen In Robbery of Laundry

Arlington County police were busy yesterday investigating the reported robbery at the Virginia offices of the Manhattan Laundry, located on Military road at Wilson boulevard. Investigation revealed that a window in the rear of the building was found open yesterday morning by an employe, Lemuel Robinson.

A checkup by the company's employes showed that approximately $300 worth of laundry was taken.

Decision on Jonas May Be Up Tuesday

Senate Fails to Agree on Definite Time, Though, on Nomination.

(Associated Press.)

The Senate failed to reach an agreement yesterday on a time to take up the contested nomination of Charles A. Jonas as district attorney for western North Carolina, but leaders gave notice they would seek action next Tuesday.

Democrats, including Senators Bailey and Morrison, of North Carolina, who oppose the nomination, asked consideration yesterday. Senator Schall (Republican), Minnesota, who is supporting the nominee, requested that the Senate wait until Tuesday. Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, objected.

Senator McNary, of Oregon, proposed that the Senate agree to consider Jonas next Tuesday at 3 p. m. Senator Robinson objected. Despite the lack of a formal agreement, leaders believed the name would be considered about that time.

INDIAN TELLS COURT OF COED'S SLAYING

Killed Her Unintentionally After She Attacked Him, He Says.

Globe, Ariz., March 18 (A.P.).—Mac (Golney) Seymour, young Apache Indian, told a Federal court jury today that he unintentionally killed Henrietta Schmerler, New York coed, after the girl gave him liquor and attacked him.

Stolidly he related how he had drunk beer and tulapai, Indian liquor, with Robert Gatewood, his brother-in-law, before going to Miss Schmerler's cabin to take her to a dance the night of July 18.

In the afternoon he said he also went to her cabin and she gave him a drink of water. He started to go away, but she called to him: "Come here; I want to tell you something."

Says He Protested.

He testified the young woman, who was a student at Columbia University, and a visitor on the White River Indian Reservation studying the life of the Apaches, told him she wished to borrow a horse. He told her he did not have one other than his own. She suggested then that he let her ride to the dance with him on his horse.

"Indians are married when ride one horse. I not like do that with you," Seymour, who is married, testified he told her.

As he tarried before the cabin, he said, she invited him to come within, saying, "I will give you a drink." He went in and she gave him a cigarette.

Soon, he related, she held out a glass of whisky and said, "You know this?" He told her he did not know what it was. She told him to drink it.

After he swallowed the whisky, he said, she again pressed him to take her to the dance on his horse and he consented. She rode in the saddle and he rode behind.

Tells of Drinking.

"When we started she kissed me," he said. "Whisky she had in a flask we drank as we went along." He said she embraced him again after they had ridden a short distance and they stopped then to have another drink. At this point, the court called a recess with Seymour still on the stand.

The young buck's wife preceded him on the witness stand in the morning and testified she saw him drinking on the afternoon of the killing. Later she saw him come to the dance, alone, and "drunk." The Government prosecutor asked her who told her to say that and she replied, "Nobody told me; I saw him; he was drunk."

The Indian's attorney in an opening statement claimed he would show that Miss Schmerler enticed the herdsman into a compromising situation and then attempted to stab him. Seymour killing her in defense of his life.

FIGHT ON DISTRICT RELIEF PLAN LOOMS

from funds appropriated for the new Municipal Center in the 1933 burget.

"Of course the major portion of District funds are raised from local taxation, but the Federal Government already contributes, and I see no reason why the people of Chicago or the people of Philadelphia, for example, should be taxed for District unemployment relief," Representative Holaday said yesterday.

"Further, I don't think that conditions here are so serious as to warrant a draft on the Federal Treasury. Washington has no industries that have been shut down because of the depression. Business here is Government business, and the Census Bureau is the only division that has let off any employes. Washington has been less affected by the depression than any other city in the United States."

Nevertheless, Representative Holaday declared "he is willing to be convinced." If he approves the project, it will be only after he has made close inquiry into salaries paid by the District employment committee. Salaries and expenses were fixed at $60,000 in the budget estimates. Mr. Holaday said he intended to see where every dollar of it went.

The Illinois representative thinks the District is "too liberal" in much of its relief work. He thinks the Public Welfare Board encourages dependence by allotments of funds from $40 to over $100 for home care of dependent children, he said.

The District appropriations subcommittee, which has virtually completed marking the local supply bill, today will make a tour of streets scheduled for repair, and new building sites.

Members yesterday were awaiting supplemental budget estimates to divert funds allocated for the new Jefferson Junior High School in Southwest Washington to other projects.

This allocation will be necessary because of the "exhorbitant" price charged by owners of property on which the new Jefferson Junior High School was to be built, Chairman Cannon said.

Funds appropriated last year for the purchase of a site will remain available, but a site probably will not be purchased for another year, it was said. Meanwhile funds provided for construction of the school in the 1933 budget, will be diverted probably for new colored school construction, it was indicated. Allocations for colored schools, usually one-third of the school budget, amounted to only 16 per cent this year, it was pointed out.

Driver of Death Car Is Given 18 Months

A sentence of 18 months in the penitentiary was given William Wright, 36 years old, formerly of Ashland, Va., yesterday by Justice F. D. Letts following his conviction on a charge of manslaughter last week.

Wright was the driver of an automobile that struck Herbert A. Birch, December 12, last, at Georgia avenue and Emerson street northwest. After striking Birch, Wright's automobile continued on its way and he was apprehended later. Assistant United States Attorney Irvin Goldstein prosecuted Wright, while Harry T. Whelan defended him.

Des Moines, Iowa, March 18 (A.P.).—An hour after George Hardy, 24, had fallen from a ninth-floor window today, he sat up in a hospital bed and told nurses about the mishap. The Negro window washer suffered a broken leg, internal injuries, and a cut on the lip. His safety belt broke, and he dropped to the canopy eight floors below.

U. S. TAX RECEIPTS DROP $549,686,038

Decrease in Income Revenue for Fiscal Year Amounts to $55,611,451.

(Associated Press.)

Simultaneously with a Treasury announcement of a sharp decrease in income taxes, the Internal Revenue Bureau yesterday issued statistics showing all tax receipts for the first eight months of the fiscal year were off $549,686,038 from the same period of last year.

Income tax payments credited to March 16 amounted to $55,611,451, against $88,691,515 on the comparative date a year ago. The Internal Revenue Bureau said that for the eight months period receipts amounted to $1,003,690,074, as compared with $1,553,376,112 during the same span last year.

The decrease was attributed chiefly to a drop of $515,537,468 in income tax. For the eight months ended February 29 these collections totaled $660,757,932, with $238,000,000 of the decrease in corporation tax and $277,000,000 in individual payments.

March Income Taxes.

Income taxes reported so far this month were reported by the Treasury to have totaled $100,312,836, but because of a change in the department's banking system it included one day's more tax than in the same number of days last March. For comparative purposes, this made it $94,000,000 less than credited in the same number of days a year ago. For the fiscal year, the Government has collected $758,434,178 in income tax against $1,277,685,346 in the same period of last year.

The payments reduced the Government's deficit to $1,843,478,962, but upheld Treasury contentions that payments of income tax on income of 1931 would be the smallest in a decade.

The Internal Revenue Bureau's review of all tax receipts showed increases in only two important divisions. Manufactured tobacco returned $490,557 more than the $38,562,283 total during the same eight months of 1931, and cigarette papers brought in $1,178,452, an increase of $205,849.

Cigarette Tax Drops.

The cigarette tax returned $211,767,796, a drop of $25,458,795, while cigars returned $10,069,662, a decrease of $2,158,801. The bureau said that tax-paid cigarettes in February had decreased 1,224,000,000, as compared with the 8,836,000,000 on which tax was paid in February, 1931.

The number of cigars on which tax was paid in February was 202,000 greater than in the same month a year ago, when they amounted to 25,455,507.

Manufactured tobacco continued the downward trend, started two months ago. Playing cards followed the increase established last month with a total of 5,424,156 packs in February, an increase of 430,000 packs as compared to a year ago.

Society Denounces Stigmatic Press

Holy Rosary Group Says Italians Wronged in Lindbergh Case.

At a meeting of the Catholic Men's Society, connected with the Church of the Holy Rosary, held in Typographical Hall last night attention was called to newspaper accounts of the Lindbergh kidnaping in which unfounded rumors linking Italians to the case were published.

The manner in which this material was presented in the press, it was felt, was an unjust and injurious reflection on the whole Italian race and especially on Americans of Italian blood.

A strong resolution of protest was unanimously adopted by the 200 members present and it was further resolved to bring this resolution to the attention of the various news services, the editors of the local papers, and others interested in the matter. The society feels sure that the editors and publishers of newspapers wish to deal fairly with all races in the presentation of news, it was made plain.

Provisions of Virginia Motor Code Explained

Details of the full reciprocity provisions of the new Virginia State motor vehicle code were explained by Jerome Fanciulli yesterday at a meeting of the joint motor vehicle reciprocity committee at the Washington Board of Trade.

The committee adopted a resolution commending The Washington Post for an editorial on motor vehicle reciprocity published on March 5. A report was received on the proposed enforcement by Maryland of certain nonresident features of its motor vehicle law.

"Bandits" Warned By Severed Heads

Grim Threat Is Reminder to Regime's Foes in Manchuria.

Mukden, Manchuria (Saturday), March 19 (A.P.).—The heads of nine Chinese executed as "bandits" by the Manchoukuo army were planted over Mukden today as a warning to any opponents of the new Manchurian regime.

The heads were placed on the ornamental arch marking the boundary between the International Settlement and the Chinese section, in accordance with an old Manchu custom, which was revived.

Dispatches to Shanghai yesterday reported that 100,000 Chinese volunteers were marching on Mukden from three directions, destroying the flag of the new Manchurian government in villages along the way and hoisting the Chinese national emblem. A group of Chinese organizations in Mukden described the new Manchuria as "merely a puppet of the Japanese army."

LINDBERGH PINS HIS HOPES ON OWN CONFIDENTIAL MEN

a Newark (N. J.) police official had questioned the man by telephone, two Newark detectives were sent to Idaho to investigate that new lead.

But while they were on their way west the prisoner, Ignace Blaustein, of Brooklyn, repudiated the statement and told a third version of his knowledge of the case.

When he was arrested for robbing a fraternity house he said he had not heard of the kidnaping until he reached Weber, Utah.

Pocatello police quoted him last night as saying he had driven West with two other men involved in the abduction. He was reported to have supplied an address at which the child could be located.

Deputy Police Chief Brex, of Newark, after his telephone conversation with Blaustein early today, said what he had learned was important enough to warrant his sending two of his best men to question the prisoner.

But late today, to a representative of the Pocatello Tribune, the Brooklyn man told his third story—that he first heard of the kidnaping on March 2, when he was traveling by bus between Salina, Kans., and Denver, Colo.

A new theory was projected when Baltimore (Md.) police said two Newark detectives had been there working on a tip the kidnaped baby was in the hands of a couple who had substituted it for their own child.

They said they believed the parents' real child, resembling Charles Augustus Lindbergh, jr., may have been taken to Europe on the Baltimore mail liner City of Baltimore, which left for Havre the day after the abduction.

Their theory is that by switching the two infants in this fashion, the Lindbergh child could be held by the couple without arousing suspicion.

Ten children were aboard the City of Baltimore when she sailed. One was approximately the age of the Lindbergh boy, 20 months. This child was said by officials of the line to be on its way to visit relatives in Germany under the care of a friend of its parents.

After studying passport applications and photographs here, the detectives went on to Washington to continue their investigation.

Meanwhile, two servants who disappeared from a Franklin Park, N. J., home the day after the kidnaping, were located at the residence of a prominent Bryn Mawr, Pa., family, where they had obtained positions. They came to Hopewell voluntarily for questioning.

They gave their names as Paul and Kate Engstenberg, and denied they had ever used the name of Thornburg, by which they have been called in police reports since a search for them began.

In his last bulletin of the night, Col. Schwarzkopf said the activities of Mr. and Mrs. Engstenberg just prior to and since the kidnaping "have been satisfactorily accounted for, and we have nothing at this time that in any way tends to connect them with this case."

Schwarzkopf said they had given a "reasonable cause" for leaving the employ of Mr. and Mrs. Leandro Lightfoot, who reported the couple took a mysterious 60-mile automobile ride the night of the kidnaping.

State police said no identifying marks had been found on the kidnapers' ladder.

"Are you investigating in connection with the Lindbergh case the 2-year-old kidnaping of Samuel Barron, of Interlaken, N. J., who paid $20,000 ransom?" Schwarzkopf was asked. He replied:

"All known kidnapers who, it is believed may have any connection with this case are now being investigated?"

Schwarzkopf said no information of value had resultled from an investigation of a story told by a Princeton Preparatory School pupil that on the day of the kidnaping he saw an automobile with a ladder across the seats parked on one side Lindbergh lane.

TAX BILL PLACED IN DANGER AS SALES LEVY WAR GOES ON

rather than because they believed the substitute program of the chunky, fighting New Yorker was any better.

In their conference, held behind closed doors in the House chamber, the Republicans were exhorted by Representative LaGuardia to gather about his banner. Many arose to express their opposition to the sales tax. Representative Bertrand H. Snell (Republican), New York, leader of his party; Representative Willis C. Hawley (Republican), Oregon, ranking Republican on the ways and means committee; Representative John Q. Tilson (Republican), Connecticut, and others fought to stem the tide of criticism.

Democratic Course Scored.

Their persuasiveness was not sufficient and long before the conference ended it was agreed that there should be no vote to commit the party or even to express the majority opinion of the House Republicans.

Republican leaders were put out about the developments. Privately they said that the Democrats had handled the bill ineptly. They said that the bill should not have been thrown out on the floor of the House to be harried by every individual member ad infinitum. It should have been reported under the cloak of a special rule.

There was a suggestion that the bill might be recommitted to the committee and subsequently reported again under a special rule. Leaders were dubious of the efficacy of that maneuver. The House had taken the bit in its teeth and a recommitment might be accompanied with unpalatable instructions.

Throughout all of the discussion of the various provisions of the bill, however, there ran the thread of unanimity on the point of balancing the budget. The differences arose over the method of collecting the requisite revenue, but on that point there was no agreement.

Larger Surtaxes Voted.

Having announced that the liberal group in the House was opposed to the manufacturers' sales tax, Representative LaGuardia apparently began to make good his threat that they would, with the support of others, shoot the committee bill to pieces with amendments unless the sales tax were withdrawn.

Leaders found small comfort in the fact that on the various votes only about half of the House membership voted. One leader said that he thought the proportions on the counted votes would hold through the full House membership.

The House swung behind the "soak the rich" banner and adopted, 153 to 87, the amendment offered by Representative Philip D. Swing (Republican), of California, to increase the taxes on larger incomes.

Under the present law the surtax on incomes above $100,000 is 20 per cent. The committee bill proposed to raise that maximum to 40 per cent. The swing amendment would increase the maximum tax to 65 per cent on incomes $5,000,000 and more. It would impose a graduated tax starting with 40 per cent on incomes from $100,000 to $150,000, and go up 2 per cent each jump of $50,000 to $300,000 and an additional 2 per cent for each $100,000 thereafter until it reaches the incomes of $4,000,000, where it would be increased by 1 per cent when incomes amounted to $5,000,000 or more.

Snell Hits LaGuardia Plan.

The LaGuardia amendment was adopted by a vote of 121 to 81. This provided for a 7 per cent tax on all incomes over $8,000. The bill called for a 6 per cent tax, which would be an increase of 1 per cent over the present law. Exemptions allowed would make the tax apply to incomes of $9,000 for single men and $10,500 for married men without children. In other words the amendment reduced the present exemption limit to $1,000 for single persons and $2,500 for those with dependents.

Representative Snell, following the Republican conference, criticized the plan offered by Representative LaGuardia as a substitute for the manufacturers' sales tax.

"Why," Mr. Snell said, "his plan calls for $138,000,000 in retail sales taxes and $383,000,000 of the remainder are of the type of taxes against which we have heard the greatest opposition in the House and in this conference here tonight. His program is worse than the manufacturers' sales tax which is proposed in the committee bill."

Smarting a little under the whip of revolt, Representative Snell said that, though there was wide disapproval of the sales tax among the Republicans, a majority of his party in the House would vote for it, but they couldn't put it over without the support of the Democrats. More Democrats are opposed to the tax than Republicans, he said, and repeated his challenge: "They haven't got a reasonable substitute. Nobody approves of this tax, if it could be avoided, but what are we going to do?"

Consideration of the tax bill for amendment, in committee of the whole, will continue today.

JAPAN-SOVIET ROW THREATENING PEACE

sources throughout the Far East tend to reveal a state of anxiety on the part of the Soviets which has not been exaggerated. The Japanese for their part are also realizing the seriousness of the situation, for they have decided to send to Harbin their Gen. Honjo who is famous for his capture of Tsitsihar and Mukden.

The approach of summer will afford opportunities for campaigning both for regular troops and the nomad forces of White Russians, Chinese bandits and other irregulars who would be forced to remain in seclusion during the rigors of winter.

The newly organized "independent state of Manchuria" is responsible for these exhibitions of Soviet activity. The Japanese consul at Harbin was reported as being "very nervous" at the reports that the diplomatic exchanges between Soviet Russia and Japan in Moscow had failed to produce any satisfactory conclusion.

The Soviet export monopoly, Hlebproduk, it is reported, has purchased more than 16,000 tons of grain and has forwarded them to Vladivostok. Officials of the newly created state of Manchuria, obviously at the instigation of their Japanese mentors, have practically decided upon the creation of a grain embargo to prevent the export of further supplies to Soviet agencies in Siberia and elsewhere. They are also contemplating closing the Manchurian-Soviet frontier at Pogranichnya, it is also declared.

The local authorities of the region have prohibited the sale of wheat, flour and kaoliang, ostensibly for home conservation but really to prevent any foreign agency from securing these supplies for the Soviets.

In spite of all these restrictions, the Soviet agencies have been able to secure grain supplies enough to fill four trains, and 20 more trainloads are reported ready for movement.

Other unconfirmed reports reached here yesterday that the Soviets themselves were feeding the starved Chinese on the promise that the Chinese would turn aganist the Japanese. Thousands of Chinese soldiers, starved through the defeats of their war lords, are roaming the Siberian plains in search of food. The Soviet agents, it is reported, are taking these men and feeding them on the promise that they will turn against the Japanese recently installed in the Manchurian state of Manchouko.

New Drop in Food Costs Is Revealed

Survey Shows Prices Are Only 5.3 Per Cent Above 1913.

(Associated Press.)

The Bureau of Labor statistics yesterday announced that retail food costs throughout the United States dropped about 3 2-3 per cent from January 15 to February 15.

The bureau's weighted index showed food costs on February 15 were only 5.3 per cent above the average for 1913. Fresh eggs showed the greatest decline, dropping 19 per cent, with pork chops and butter next, with 9 per cent. The only increases were onions, which went up 8 per cent; oranges, 2 per cent, and cornflakes, 1 per cent.

Jacksonville, Fla., led the 51 cities studied in lowering prices both for the month and the year. Costs for the month fell 7 per cent and for the year 23.

JAPANESE TROOPS ARE ON WAY HOME

Part of Forces in China Sail and Others Go Soon; Hope for Accord Grows.

Shanghai, China, March 18 (A.P.).—The armies which fought so bitterly for control of Chapei and Woosung a few weeks ago shivered tonight in the cold of a Chinese winter while spokesmen for world powers worked on the job of negotiating a formal truce.

Some of the fighting men were luckier than the others, for three Japanese transports steamed down the Whangpoo, crowded to the rails with soldiers going back home. It was the first contingent to return in the execution of an order from Tokyo to withdraw most of the Shanghai expeditionary force.

Their departure was a factor which increased the hope that the Chinese and Japanese representatives might be brought together very soon for a conference which could put a definite end to hostilities.

Others to Withdraw.

Two more transports will sail on Saturday and others will go during next week. The troops moving now are of the Twenty-fourth Brigade, the first Japanese unit to be landed in China, and that which did most of the fightnig in the Hongkew-Woosung sector.

From Tokyo instructions were forwarded today to the Japanese minister directing certain modifications in the conditions to an armistice. The new program consists of three points: 1—That the Chinese troops remain where they now are, about 12½ miles from Shanghai. 2—That the Japanese troops withdraw to the old Shanghai-Woosung line. 3—That a mixed commission, including Chinese and Japanese, supervise the withdrawal and police the evacuated area.

Any agreement to a truce, the government at Tokyo emphasized, presupposes a general conference which would discuss both the anti-Japanese boycott and the future security of Japanese residents in China.

Tokyo Parliament Meets.

Tokyo, March 18 (A.P.).—Parliament met today in special session to pass upon a 67,000,000-yen ($33,000,000) war chest to pay the bill for the campaigns in Shanghai and Manchuria.

This figure is slightly lower than the appropriation originally suggested, but when the government encountered opposition to a plan for making the appropriation without calling Parliament, it accepted a reduction and consented to submit the issue to the Legislature.

It was the first session of the legislative body since the recent general election, in which the Seiyukai party was returned with a substantial majority. The formal opening of Parliament in the presence of the emperor does not take place until next Sunday, and the regular legislative program will begin March 22.

Rail Chief Offers China Resignation

"Dismissed" Head of Road in Manchuria Will Rest in Germany.

Moscow, March 18 (A.P.).—Mo Teh-Hui, president of the Chinese Eastern Railway, who was "dismissed" by the new Manchurian government, has offered his resignation to the Chinese government at Nanking as a result of recent events in Manchuria.

The Chinese government refused to accept the resignation, but negotiations for a new agreement with Soviet Russia for joint operation of the railway apparently have broken down and Mo Teh-Hui said today he intended to leave Moscow for a prolonged rest in Germany.

Mr. Mo has been head of a special Chinese mission here which attempted to negotiate the new agreement. The conversations had as their ultimate aim a resumption of diplomatic relations between China and Russia, which were broken off several years ago. The Soviet government has shown no desire to resume the parleys until the Manchurian situation clarifies, although it has taken no steps to recognize the new Manchurian regime.

Forbes Luncheon Guest Of Japanese Emperor

Tokyo, March 18 (A.P.).—Emperor Hirohito and the empress were hosts at a farewell luncheon today to Ambassador W. Cameron Forbes, who is retiring and will sail for the United States from Yokohama March 22.

After the luncheon the emperor and the ambassador talked for an unusually long time on international and political matters through an interpreter. The emperor expressed his appreciation of the difficulties of the ambassador's position during the Sino-Japanese conflict and complimented him on exercising tact and understanding in fulfilling his duties.

Common Law Marriages Banned.

Lincoln, Nebr., March 18 (A.P.).—Common law marriages were declared illegal today by the Nebraska Supreme Court. It reversed two previous decisions recognizing such unions, and said that the State Legislature in 1923 amended the statutes to invalidate them.

HINT OF WET PLANK IS DENIED BY HURLEY

Secretary Disavows Prediction of "More Liberal" Stand by G. O. P.

(Associated Press.)

Prohibition continued to stir on Capitol Hill yesterday in the wake of quotations attributed to Secretary Hurley in Chicago Thursday night that the Republican national convention in June would adopt a "more liberal" attitude toward the liquor question.

Taking cognizance of this, the Secretary of War last night issued the following statement:

"When I want to speak in quotations, the words will be mine and not what some one else supposes I have said. I did not mention prohibition in my address nor did I mention it anywhere else for publication."

Hurley was quoted as telling an interviewer, "A great many people are going to look for the wet candidates on the ballots next November," and "eventually I think the prohibition question will be settled on the basis of State's rights."

Leaders Doubt Wet Success.

Republican dry leaders at the Capitol expect antiprohibition delegations to make a fight at Chicago for a wet plank in the national platform, probably with greater vigor than ever before, but they doubt it will succeed.

Senator Borah yesterday stood by his previous prophecy that this plank would be similar to the rigid enforcement party declaration of four years ago.

Senator Smoot, of Utah, elected to stay out of the preconvention prohibition dispute, but he and Borah, both strict drys, will have considerable influence in the convention resolutions committee if they go to Chicago in the same capacities they held in 1928.

Curtis Nomination Held Sure.

Generally, the dry party leaders said, they would dominate the situation unless something unforeseen happens meantime.

With the revival of the wet talk has come a report that some members of the national committee feel Vice President Curtis should be supplanted as a running mate for President Hoover by a man with more "liberal" views on prohibition to attract the Eastern vote. Administration leaders took no stock in this report.

Neither did David W. Mulvane, of Topeka, Republican national committeeman from Kansas.

"The Republican national ticket," he said, "will be Hoover and Curtis. It has been taken for granted that the Vice President would be renominated, I think."

Mulvane Goes to Chicago.

The Kansan called attention that the Kansas delegation was instructed not only for the President but Mr Curtis and that other States would likely follow Kansas' lead. It is unusual for delegations to the national convention to pledge for a vice presidential nominee.

Mulvane left for Chicago yesterday. A subcommittee of the arrangements committee for the convention will meet there today to straighten out final details for the press and photographic forces at the June 14 convention.

The full arrangements committee will meet in Chicago April 9 to name a keynoter and other convention officers. Reports that Calvin Coolidge was under consideration for the keynote address was discounted yesterday in administration circles. Senator Watson, of Indiana, is being discussed as the most likely choice, if a senator is chosen.

Dry Leader Warns Hurley.

A letter was sent to Secretary Hurley by Mrs. Martha N. Brookings, of Alexandria, former Republican member of the House of Representatives in Massachusetts, and a member of the Women's National Committee for Education Against Alcohol. She wrote:

"May we point out to you that women form half of the electorate. The Republican party must hold those dry Democratic women who left their party to vote for Mr. Hoover in 1928, and are getting ready to vote for him again in 1932. A 'liberal' plank, such as you are predicting, would drive those women back into the Democratic party. It will also kill the enthusiasm of the dry Republican and independent men and women, the very ones who worked so successfully for the election of President Hoover four years ago and on whom Republican victory depends next November. In short, the effect of such a plank would be to put Tammany in the White House in spite of the recent disclosures of the Seabury committee."

SMALLER SALARIES INCLUDED IN CUTS

is out of the way. Only one bill, appropriating funds for the Agriculture Department, has passed both the House and Senate.

Connally's Dark Picture.

Asserting that the Government is faced by the worst financial crisis for half a century, Connally proposed to cut all Government salaries until June 30, 1933.

A 5 per cent reduction would be applied to salaries between $2,000 and $5,000, 10 per cent to those between $5,000 and $10,000 and 15 per cent above $10,000.

"These are unusual and tragic times. The taxpayers are now bearing a tremendous burden," Connally said.

"The common sense way to effect reductions would be to make a flat cut of say 10 per cent in all salaries above a certain figure—whatever figure you wanted to choose," McDuffie said.

"But the House appears to be in favor of graduated reductions ranging from about 1 per cent for the smaller salaries to 20 per cent for the bigger ones."

Lobbying Activity Blamed.

Herbert D. Brown, chief of the Bureau of Efficiency, told the committee yesterday there were proportionately few big salaries and that for a considerable saving to be effected a general cut would have to be agreed to.

A change of sentiment in Congress for drastic salary cuts for Government workers "all down the line" was attributed yesterday by Representative Byrns (Democrat), Tennessee, to "lobbying activities of certain postal employes."

Byrns, chairman of the special House economy committee, said the change was due largely to the action of the postal employes who caused the defeat of a proposal to prevent automatic salary increases for Treasury and Postoffice Department workers.

SOUTH AFRICA SAYS GOLD UNIT TO STAY

Legation Denies Sole British Dominion on Standard Planning Change.

The Union of South Africa, sole British Dominion to remain on the gold standard under exactly the same conditions as France and the United States, will not depart from that standard, it was officially announced here at the legation yesterday.

While some of the other members of the British Commonwealth are nominally on the single metal standard, they have instituted export restrictions, which are tantamount to a devalorization of the money.

The forthcoming Imperial Conference at Ottawa next July, at which al. members of the British Colonies will be expected to be present, will take up the problem of the bimetallic standard. For the present, however, the South African government assures the free export and exchange of gold with absolutely no restriction whatever. The South African pound is quoted at approximately $4.80—$4.84 to the British pound on stock exchanges.

The South African Minister himself announced yesterday:

"A dispatch appeared recently emanating from the London Financial Times to the effect that legislation is to be rushed through the South African Parliament, devaluating the currency to a basis of $3.98 to the South African pound.

"There is not a grain of truth in this report, and I am authorized to say that the government at present in power in South Africa will under no circumstances be a party to such a devaluation. I wish to caution American business and financial interests against reports emanating from London relating to the, gold standard issue in South Africa.

(Signed) "ERIC H. LOUW, "Minister from Union of South Africa."

Venizelos Renews Threat To Quit in Loan Crisis

Athens, March 18 (A.P.).—Premier Eleutherios Venizelos declared today he will resign and suggest the formation of a national cabinet unless the powers on the League of Nations financial commission give a favorable answer by next Wednesday to Greece's request for a refinancing loan of $8,750,000.

He would not be responaible, he said, for withdrawing approximately $1,500,000 from the Bank of Greece to pay interest on the country's foreign loans, due April 1.

U. S. Seamen Threatened.

Auckland, New Zealand, March 18 (A.P.).—The American steamer Sierra discharged a cargo of goods here today under police protection because of threats of dock workers and seamen that they would take retaliatory action against the American Jones-White shipping law. A subsidized American competition, they said, threatened to drive British shipping from the Pacific.

STATE AND DISTRICT PARK PLANS BARED

Cooperation Between Virginia and Capital Commissions Discussed.

Cooperation between the Commonwealth of Virginia and District officials in the matter of park planning was discussed yesterday at a meeting of the National Park and Planning Commission.

The commission heard a description of the organization of the Virginia National Capital Park and Planning Commission. The plan for the group as worked out in the Ball act includes the creation of a board made up of nine members, three to be appointed by the governor, and two chosen from each of Alexandria, and Fairfax and Arlington counties.

The $25,000 appropriation recently passed by the Virginia Legislature to be used in furthering the development of the George Washington Memorial Parkway was also discussed. Under this act the money for improvements will become available as soon as the District officials agree to match the sum with the appropriation of a like amount.

It is understood that the commission will send the District officials plans for the development of the Fort drive, from Connecticut avenue to the Fort Reno section as a part of the drive that is planned eventually to link all of the Civil War forts in the immediate vicinity of the city.

Last night the commission attended an exhibit in the New National Museum sponsored by several college alumni organizations. Motion pictures, plans, models and drawings of the work being done by the commission were presented.

Today it is expected that the commission will meet with the District Commissioners to talk over interlocking business and to present the Commissioners with an up-to-date description of the work now being done and planned.

'Gamest Kid in America' Succumbs in Respirator

Syracuse, N. Y., March 18 (A.P.).—Friends of Clarence Hastings, the lad you called "the gamest kid in America"—is dead.

The 14-year-old boy, whose case was known in all parts of the country, after spending 177 days, or nearly half a year, in a respirator that prevented his moving any part of his body but his head, died at City Hospital this morning of infantile paralysis complicated by the shock of an operation on Tuesday for an abdominal obstruction. The infantile paralysis had paralyzed his respiratory organs, so that he depended for life upon the hospital's respirator.

Dry Man's Home Bomb Target.

Birmingham, Ala., March 18 (A.P.).—A bomb was hurled at the home of Sol W. Miller, deputy prohibition administrator here, today, but it exploded prematurely and did no damage. Miller, his wife, two daughters and two guests were in the house. The explosion rattled windows and alarmed the neighborhood.

BINGHAM LAUNCHES DEBATE ON DRY LAW

Holds Change in Antiwrit Bill Sample of Prohibition Tyranny.

(Associated Press.)

Senator Bingham precipitated a prohibition discussion in the Senate yesterday by charging that action of drys in forcing out of the antiinjunction bill a provision giving defendants in liquor padlock cases the right of jury trial was an example of the "tyrannical interference" practiced by them for ten years.

The statement by the Connecticut Republican, an opponent of prohibition, drew a denunciation from Senator Norris (Republican), Nebraska, a supporter of the liquor laws, of "wet cranks and prohibition cranks."

Senator Long (Democrat), Louisiana, asserted Bingham raised the prohibition question to prevent action on the antiinjunction bill and assailed "reactionaries" of both political parties, who he said raise the liquor issue to subordinate economic problems.

Bingham took the floor after the House conferees on the antiinjunction bill had forced out, because it would cover padlock cases, a broad clause under which all defendants in contempt cases could demand jury trials.

"I submit," Bingham then said, "that in these days when all evidence shows that the majority of the people are in favor of repeal that it ill becomes Congress in endeavoring to provide that an arbitrary judge can not send a person to jail without trial by jury to exclude prohibition cases."

Long then launched into an attack on Bingham, saying his "general reactionary tendencies pretty well let the cat out of the bag." He said Bingham had done everything he could to defeat the bill in the Senate.

He said in both parties there were "reactionaries" who did not want to bring up the question of power, concentration of wealth, inheritance taxes, the gift tax and higher taxes for higher incomes, but always raised the prohibition question to obscure the issue."

Frigidaire Sales Force At Richmond Conclave

About 100 Washington dealers, supervisors and salesmen yesterday attended a convention of the Frigidaire Sales Corporation at the Marshall Hotel in Richmond. The meeting was conducted by factory officials to present the full new line of Frigidaire household cabinets, water coolers and air conditioning equipment to the selling organization.

The Washington force took a special train to the convention, which drew representatives from the Baltimore, Norfolk, Richmond and Roanoke territories. Factory officials attending the session were J. J. Nance, sales promotional manager; R. W. Pocock, Joseph Nahstoll, R. B. Ambrose, W. W. Hall and C. E. Allen.

Town Officials Face Vice Conspiracy Terms

Detroit, March 18 (U.P.).—Mayor Rudolph G. Tenerowicz, of Hamtramck, his chief of police, Harry Wurmuskurken, a police captain and Jacob Kaplan, alleged head of a vice syndicate, were found guilty today by a jury of conspiring to permit operation of disorderly houses.

William Cohen, Hamtramck city attorney, who was tried without a jury, electing to let the judge rule in his case, was acquitted. Judge Homer Ferguson said he would pass sentence next week. The defendants are liable to a term of up to five years in jail and a $2,000 fine.

Illinois Town Begins Moratorium on Trade

Coal City, Ill., March 18 (A.P.).—Mayor Edward Pierard has decreed a moratorium to avert business paralysis threatened by steady withdrawals from the First National Bank.

For three days starting today all business will shut down, except food and drug stores and public services. Meanwhile 100 town crusaders will visit the 1,400 bank depositors and seek pledges to curtail withdrawals and deposit money normally. The Coal City Bank was declared sound, but a constant drain of deposits had been noted in recent weeks.

Paris, March 18 (A.P.).—The engagement of Mlle. Lucile Doumer, granddaughter of the President of France, to Marcel Pasquier, an attorney, was announced today.

Murderer of Criminal Goes to Prison for Life

Houston, Tex., March 18 (A.P.).—Barney McGanegal, gangster, was convicted late today of the murder of John Cherris and sentenced to life imprisonment. He was tried as an habitual criminal because of a previous murder conviction and the verdict carried the minimum sentence. The maximum would have been the death penalty.

Cherris, who had a police record, was shot to death here on the night of last August 30. Subsequently his body was taken to Brazos River, near East Columbia, weighted and dumped in.

HATCHET ASSAULT ON WOMAN CHARGED

College Park Police Claim Prisoner Confesses He Hacked Victim.

Charged with hacking Mrs. Anita Doyle with a hatchet and knife at her home back of the University of Maryland at College Park, Sam Davis, colored, 18 years old, was arrested yesterday by Prince Georges County police and hled in bond of $5,000. A warrant accusing him of attempted criminal assault has also been sworn out against him, and he has confessed, police said.

Mrs. Doyle, who is 33 years old, is at the Washington Sanitarium in serious condition. She has two gashes on her forehead, one on her cheek, a deep cut in the throat and a series of stab wounds on her arm. Her son, Ray, 6 years old, was with her at their home on the Old Colesville road, less than a mile from the university, when a colored man came to the door.

Small Son Runs for Aid.

He offered to cut wood for something to eat and went to the woodpile. Later he came to the door and demanded some apples, but was refused. He attempted to force his way in, but Mrs. Doyle resisted him with a stick of stove wood. She then seized a hatchet, but he wrested it from her and struck her over the head. At this point the son ran to the home of a neighbor for help.

After striking the woman with the hatchet, the man chopped at her arms and face with a penknife. She finally thrust him off and he fled, dropping a .38-caliber revolver from his pocket in the yard of the little house. Two men at work on a nearby farm arrived to find Mrs. Doyle, streaming with blood, walking along the road. She was taken to the hospital by the Bladensburg rescue squad.

Police Match Torn Garment.

Davis was arrested at his home, less than 100 yards from the scene of the crime. He is unmarried and lives with his mother in a log cabin, which was padlocked on the outside when the officers, led by Policeman Claude Reese, arrived. Authorities said that after being questioned about an hour he signed a confession, and was then taken to the Marlboro Jail.

The sleeve of a sweater torn from her assailant by Mrs. Doyle matched a garment worn by Davis, according to police. He also identified the gun found in the yard as his, the police said.

Mrs. Doyle is the wife of Ray Doyle, an employe of a local express company. He was at work at the time of the assault. About 30 men living in the vicinity of the crime armed themselves and joined in the search for the attacker.

Raids on Hitlerites Fail to Bare Plots

Tactical Value of Forays on Nazi Meeting Places Arouses Doubt.

Berlin, March 18 (A.P.).—People were beginning to doubt tonight that yesterday's dramatic raids on 170 National Socialist meeting places in Prussia and elsewhere would result in the sensational revelations which some had expected.

Adolf Hitler, himself, said he had been expecting something like this for a long time and it was hardly likely that any really important party documents would be left around where a surprise raid would seize them.

Gen. Wilhelm Groener, the minister of the interior, issued a guarded statement tonight to the effect that reports about Hitler's mobilization plans were old news to him but that he would examine all the seized documents, nevertheless.

Some of the administration newspapers expressed doubt of the tactical value of the raids. The Boersen Courier said it had been handled wrong. Meanwhile the Nazi headquarters started court proceedings to test the legality of the raids.

HOOVER NOMINATES PITMAN AS MARSHAL

Deputy in Eastern District of Virginia Selected as Compromise.

(Associated Press.)

The nomination of George S. Pitman, of Norfolk, to be United States marshal in the Eastern Virginia District was sent yesterday by President Hoover to the Senate, where it is expected to receive early approval.

Pitman, compromise appointee, was selected by Republican leaders in the Second Congressional District after a factional fight that stirred the depths of the Republican organization there.

Walter Nye and Paul White were candidates behind whom Representative Lankford, of Norfolk, threw his support, and H. T. Cruser was the choice of L. S. Parsons, the district chairman. Shortly before Pitman's selection this week an attempt was made to compromise on George H. Lewis, a retired business man, but Lewis declined to be a candidate.

Pitman, on whom all the factional leaders finally agreed, is now in charge of the marshal's office under an appointment by Judge Luther B. Way, of the Federal district court. He has been a deputy marshal for about fifteen years.

His nomination went to the Senate with the full approval of the Republican organization in Virginia and is known to be acceptable to the Virginia senators, Swanson and Glass.

The nomination was referred immediately to the judiciary committee, where it will be considered first by a subcommittee.

Landslide Seen for Roosevelt.

Atlanta, Ga., March 18 (A.P.).—Clark Howell, editor and general manager of the Atlanta Constitution, told a rally of Georgia Roosevelt-for-President leaders here today that the "omens everywhere indicate a drift to the Democratic party," and predicted that if the New York governor is nominated for President he would "get the largest electoral vote of any Democrat in 50 years."

THE SECOND GLASS BILL.

The second Glass bill has made its debut on Capitol Hill. Several of the more drastic features of the bill have been modified, but in its general provisions the measure is not radically different from the first Glass bill, which raised a storm of protest from banking circles all over the country. In some respects the bill is still highly objectionable.

That provision which would constitute the Federal Reserve banks as sleuths to detect and uproot all stock market speculation on borrowed funds is retained. Credit facilities of the reserve banks would not be extended to any member banks for the purpose of making or carrying loans covering investments. In other words, if an individual's savings of a lifetime, invested in stocks or bonds, were in danger, he would not be able to borrow money to save them. If any bank dared to make loans to cover investments—which, obviously, are quite apart from speculation—it could be suspended for a year from use of the Federal Reserve credit facilities. This drastic section stands virtually as it did in the original bill. It is obvious that liquidation would be accelerated if this measure should become law.

The section relating to 15-day loans was modified to some extent. Under the new text member banks could be penalized for making new loans on collateral security, or increasing old ones, while making use of Federal Reserve credit on 15-day notes. But that penalty could be invoked only after the offending banks had been warned by the Federal Reserve Board. It seems doubtful, however, that this revision will meet the objections of banking circles.

The strongest argument against the Glass bill is that there is no occasion for its enactment at this time. Had it been brought forward during the orgy of speculation in 1929, it might have received favorable consideration. At present every encouragement to the forces of deflation ought to be choked at its source.

Only one feature of the bill demands consideration at this session of Congress. That is the provision establishing a liquidating corporation for closed banks. The other emergency features of the bill were included in President Hoover's credit expansion measure which is already on the statute books. Let Congress lift the closed bank liquidating plan from the measure and postpone consideration of the bill itself until some future session of Congress. When the country is faced with stringent financial conditions is no time to overhaul the complete structure of the Federal Reserve System.

SCHOOLROOM STATESMANSHIP.

Few classes are as belligerent as the pacifists. When hostilities broke out between Japan and China an organized group, headed by A. Lawrence Lowell, president of Harvard University, sought to involve the United States in the fight by having this Government declare in favor of an economic boycott against Japan. Now another group, of which Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, is president, has manufactured a new set of war teeth for the Kellogg peace pact.

The campaign for a boycott against Japan was not taken seriously, except by college professors and pacifists. The vast majority of the American people are not in favor of joining every war that breaks out in a vain hope of preserving world peace. Only the pacifists are in favor of using the United States Army and Navy to police the world.

This most recent attempt to make Uncle Sam the guardian of world peace is undoubtedly inspired by the scholarly logic of Dr. Butler. The committee of which he is chairman urges the United States to take the lead in calling a conference for amendment of the Kellogg pact. In its present form this compact renounces war as an instrument of national policy and binds all signatories to settle their differences by peaceful means. Dr. Butler's committee would have the signatories constitute themselves as a court and police force to apply "joint measures of non-intercourse" to any offending country.

All that would be necessary to keep the peace under this arrangement would be to call a conference of the signatories when hostilities threatened, identify the aggressor, erect a boycott against him, and crush him in the ensuing war. For professors who are accustomed to saving the world a dozen times each semester that is a simple process. But more practical thinkers remember the solemn declaration of Japan that she is fighting China in self-defense. In the modern world it is safe to conclude that no war will be carried on by any nation, except in "self-defense." Every nation thinks it is in the right when it stands ready to sacrifice the lives of its sons; and its friends and allies are very apt to think likewise. Hence, every time an international conclave should assemble under the Butler formula it would be forced to follow out a spineless policy or divide one part of the world against another and thus pave the way for a world war.

Gross ignorance of the true spirit and purpose of the Kellogg pact is manifested in these efforts to prevent war by the big stick method. It is not an encouraging commentary on the training that is being given American youth in the colleges.

HIGH TARIFF DEMOCRATS.

Import taxes sponsored by the ways and means committee are a source of endless confusion to the public. This House group is dominated by the Democratic party. The public has become accustomed to Democratic orations on the iniquities of tariff protection; in fact, there is hardly a Democrat in Congress who has not abused the Smoot-Hawley tariff act. Yet the Democratic leaders are sponsoring new import taxes, which are tariff duties under another name.

A few weeks ago the Democratic House passed a "tariff reform" bill, which now lies buried in the Senate. But it did not contain a single rate change. Then they brought forth the general revenue bill, imposing a sales tax of 2.25 per cent on all manufactured imports. That is almost equivalent to a blanket increase in the tariff. The tax is fully justified, because it is imposed on domestic manufactures also. But how do the Democrats reconcile this new impost with their denunciation of the "exorbitant Smoot-Hawley tariff?" Here was an opportunity to give foreign importers a break. But the House leaders passed it by.

The most recent move was for a disguised tariff on copper, sponsored by the Democratic delegation from Arizona. At first the ways and means committee favored it, but technical legislative difficulties induced the committee to reverse its decision. Does this mean that the committee will sponsor a special copper tariff bill later on?

By all odds the most notorious Democratic tariff measure is the levy of 42 cents per barrel on crude oil imports. Although this proposed duty is contained in the general revenue bill, it would yield no revenue because it amounts to an embargo. It is probably the most indefensible tariff measure that has ever been sponsored by either a Democratic or Republican committee.

The meaning of this set of facts is unmistakable. In public the Democrats rant against the tariff to lend color to their charge that President Hoover is responsible for the world-wide depression. But when faced with the actualities of world competition against American producers they refuse to recommend the reduction of a single rate; they vote for a blanket tax on finished imports; they favor a prohibitive duty on oil, which is now on the free list. This commodity is an irreplaceable resource and should be supplemented by free import of foreign oil, so as to conserve the domestic supply. Apparently the Democrats in Congress are in favor of protection in fact, but not for publication. It must grieve some of the more conscientious Democratic leaders to realize that they must carry the insincere assault against the tariff into the forthcoming campaign, after valiantly supporting it in Congress.

PARENTS AND MOVIES.

A cheering sentiment was expressed at one of the sessions of the convention of motion picture theater owners meeting this week in Washington. It was the thought of M. A. Lightman, president of the organization. Mr. Lightman said, with reference to the type of entertainment offered in photoplay establishments: "American parents should realize that the primary responsibility for wise thought and selections rests with them. 'The door to the theater manager's office is open,' we say. 'Come in and share in entertainment progress.'"

Parents certainly should exercise discrimination about the pictures they permit their children to see. A careless parent is to be deplored. But Mr. Lightman must not suppose that in the absence of protest from parents motion picture theaters may pursue prosperity by the consistent selection of meretricious program material. The manager can not shift his burden to the parent. He should be cautious in his choice of pictures, having regard for the eventual as well as the momentary welfare of the photoplay business. Parents are themselves but grown-up children, and not every father or mother is qualified to judge. But the manager, whose profession involves the development of a trained critical faculty, is in position to adjust his programs in accordance with the proper standards of American culture—standards high enough, if adequately understood, to govern his choice.

Many unworthy pictures are in circulation. Parents are not entirely responsible for this fact. Producers and exhibitors much more definitely are responsible. But it is generous of Mr. Lightman to say that he and his brother showmen are prepared to cooperate with such parents as are willing and competent to help.

QUOTAS WORSE THAN TARIFFS.

The current dispute over the French embargo on American fruit serves to emphasize the demoralizing character of the quota system that has been adopted by various European countries. Shipments of fresh fruits from the United States were barred one week; the next it is reported the prohibition has been lifted. Any regulations that can be thus decreed and removed by bureaucratic fiat without due consideration and notification is liable to work great injustice, and is certain to injure trade.

Commerce between nations is not damaged nearly so much by tariffs as by uncertainty and frequent unexpected changes. World trade adjusts itself when it knows what to count upon. American tariffs have come in for more than their share of criticism both at home and abroad; but this country has never inaugurated anything as disturbing to trade as the quota system. It adds new and disturbing elements of uncertainty which preclude orderly planning for future business. This is one innovation for which the United States can not in any way be held responsible. The claim that recent tariffs adopted by European countries were retaliatory measures for the American tariff law adopted two years ago is a strain upon credulity.

That numerous European countries have endeavored to imitate the United States in their efforts to become more self-contained is true. But the general European attempt to become more self-sufficient nationally, to erect tariff barriers and foster home industry was a movement that had comparatively little relation to this country or its tariff. That the attempt has been disastrous in countries which have not the size, population and diversified resources of the United States, might have been foreseen.

There is a great deal of humbug in the protest that world trade is being ruined by the American tariff. In normal times duties have balanced cheaper labor abroad, and even in times of world stress, fair and unprejudiced comparisons show no discriminatory changes. If American tariffs had recently been reduced 10 to 30 per cent the advocates of such action would expect to see marvelous results. In effect, by lowering costs of production, as measured in American money, the countries that have gone off the gold standard enjoy the equivalent of a reduction of the American tariff. Such action, however, has brought about no startling changes, either in American or world trade.

JUSTICE IN LOUISIANA.

The courts of Louisiana have decided that they have no jurisdiction over the gubernatorial tangle which Senator Huey P. Long left at Baton Rouge when he came to Washington. In doing so they have nullified the election of Paul N. Cyr as lieutenant governor and given effect to the dictates of Senator Long.

When Dr. Cyr filed suit to oust Gov. Long on the ground that he was a United States senator, and therefore could not legally hold the governorship under the State constitution, the lower court ruled against him. But the Louisiana Supreme Court overruled that decision and held that the courts had no jurisdiction over the matter. It is obvious that the judiciary of any State is without authority to say when a senator-elect becomes a senator, but when the courts disavow jurisdiction over a dispute involving the governorship, it does seem as if they were sidestepping.

In seating Senator Barbour, of New Jersey, the Senate held, in effect, that it is not necessary to take the oath of office to become a senator. Mr. Barbour was appointed to succeed Senator Morrow, who had not taken the oath since the beginning of his six-year term at the time of his death. In spite of that fact, Mr. Morrow was held to be a senator at the time of his death, and Gov. Larson was therefore entitled to appoint Mr. Barbour to succeed him.

This termination of the Barbour case leaves the strong presumption that Huey Long served as governor after becoming a senator, in violation of the State constitution. Yet he was allowed to depose the elected and qualified lieutenant governor and to set up one of his own loyal confreres as chief executive. Now the courts support him in that action by saying that only the Legislature has authority to remove a governor. Apparently the courts did not pass upon the question of the former governor's right to oust, with the aid of the militia, an official elected by the people. The new rule of upholding only those laws and protecting only the rights of those officials who have the approval of Huey Long may be popular in Louisana, but it is not calculated to enhance the prestige of that State anywhere else.

KING AMONG TEXTBOOKS

From the New York Sun.

That professor at the University of Texas who is requiring students in journalism to practice rewriting stories from the Bible is but applying an old idea in a new environment. The English Bible has long been king of textbooks for him who would know how to write the English language. In addition to its instructional value, the course at Texas ought to serve as a chastener of vanity. Whenever a journalist, old or young, finds himself getting puffed up over his technical skill all that is necessary to bring him back to earth again, to make him know the limitations of his craftsmanship, is to set him to reading St. Luke's report of the parable of the Prodigal Son.

All things considered, there never was a better reporter than Luke. He wasted no words; he never spent time on introductions; he had perfect understanding of color, movement, background. His account of a shipwreck (Acts xxvii:28) has not been surpassed in nineteen centuries. It begins gently as a zephyr:

"And when the south wind blew softly, supposing that they had obtained their purpose, loosing thence they sailed close by Crete. But not long after there arose against it a tempestuous wind, called Euroclydon. And when the ship was caught, and could not bear up into the wind, we let her drive."

The wind did not rise more rapidly than the swell of the narrative nor did it subside more delightfully. Young journalists should get much profit out of trying to tell the tale better if only by the discovery that it can not be better told. The Old Testament is full of the work of first-rate reporters. It would be interesting to know what the youngsters of Texas would make out of the account of the death of a certain royal termagant who found Nemesis staring her in the eye:

"And when Jehu was come to Jezreel, Jezebel heard of it; and she painted her face, and tired her head, and looked out at a window. And as Jehu entered in at the gate, she said, Had Zimri peace, who slew his master?

"And he lifted up his face to the window, and said, Who is on my side? who? And there looked out to him two or three eunuchs. And he said, Throw her down. So they threw her down: and some of her blood was sprinkled on the wall, and on the horses: and he trode her under foot."

For anybody who wishes to write strong, vivid, incisive English there is no exercise which is more useful than persistent study of the phraseology of the Bible.

POST HASTE.

It is unfortunate that the President did not suggest the sales tax. Having been planned by a Democratic committee, Democrats are unable to agree on it.

Emperor Henry Pu-Yi's brother has arrived in Manchuria. From where? Yes, from Tokyo.

European nations, jumping from one restrictive quota to another, seem determined to spoil Silas Srawn's visit over there.

Representative Rainey figures it out that a Federal salary cut would only salve the deficit for about a week, but he would support it for its psychological effect. Never mind, that was bound to come.

Congress isn't exactly sold on the sales tax, but in these days of supersalesmanship, when no one even offers anything "just as good," what to do about it?

Curiously the proposed 4-cent excise tax on imported copper (new Democratic nomenclature for a 70 per cent tariff, is the exact scratch-my-back percentage of the camouflaged tariff on oil.

Jobs are being found, banks are being aided, money is enticed from hiding—it does seem that some things can be "managed" by common-sense efforts.

The "Progressive National Republican Convention" meeting in Madison, Wis., should have applied for a change of venue, or otherwise might just as well have delegated matters to La Follette Bros., Ltd.

Come on, Uncle Henry, you haven't backed up on that little $300,000,000 plan, have you? Not that it matters so much to us, but the steel mills would like to know.

European nations might much better trust American generosity than try to force advance commitments before they have settled their own reparation differences.

The depression has hit the railroads ten times as hard as the utility companies. People can ride in their own cars, but can't provide their own electricity.

Is it possible Old Man Winter knew what he was doing with that cold spell, cutting down overproduction?

LIFE.

Changes come as the cycles turn
But winds still blow and fires still burn.

As in Caesar's time so 'twill always be
The brook will hurry to join the sea.

Customs alter and nations fall
But the laws of nature don't change at all.

And what is comfort and what is pain
As Moses knew them will still remain.

To the end of time on this good old earth
Will women rejoice at a baby's birth.

And no matter what nations may fall or rise
There will always be tears when a loved one dies.

For this life of ours with its weal and woe
Is much as it was in the long ago.

Another Letter From a Bald-Headed Dad to His Flapper Daughter

By ROBERT QUILLEN

MY dear Louise: I have a little crow to pick with you, and by way of introduction I wish to tell a pair of stories—not because they are in any way remarkable, but because you happen to know the characters.

Some years ago a young business man made public boast of his ability to trick and cheat the railroad on which he frequently traveled. He would buy a ticket to a point several miles short of his destination and then remain on the train and get the remainder of his journey free.

Sometime later, auditors discovered that he had also found a way to trick and cheat his employers.

The second story, which is much like the first, concerns a young man of 19—a minor, and therefore not legally accountable for the fulfillment of a contract.

This youth ordered a suit of clothes made to his measure and later decided to economize at the expense of the tailor. He refused to accept the finished suit, offering no excuse except his change of mind, and apparently the transaction in no way disturbed his conscience.

Within a year he was caught "knocking down"—holding out small sums that should have gone into the cash register of his employer.

The moral isn't as definite as you might expect. It doesn't follow that every man or youth who is guilty of one bit of sharp practice will become a professional rogue and end his days in jail. Men may grow in honor as they do in stature.

But every act is the beginning of a habit, and the repetition of it is easier than the original.

Yesterday you planned an outing with some of your friends and at the last moment thoughtfully asked permission to fulfill your plans. Your hasty synopsis of the plot omitted the name of one of the characters. And that one happened to be a person of whom your mother heartily disapproves.

Was it a mere oversight? Or did you leave out that detail because our knowledge of it might have wrecked your plans?

"Coming clean" is hard when it threatens to interfere with coveted pleasures. I know, my dear. But your parents are your law now; and if you get your pleasure by hiding things they don't approve, you may get the habit of hiding things that aren't approved by the laws of God and man.

I am not scolding; I am merely cautioning. Habit is a tricky thing. Don't let it develop anything you don't want in your equipment. Love,

DAD.

Press Comment Upon Acts and Actors in the Great American Show, "Politics."

Dry Opportunity.

Christian Science Monitor.

Drys should welcome the challenge represented in the vote on the Beck-Linthicum antiprohibition resolution in the House of Representatives. The "yes" vote, while swelled by a number merely willing to bring the issue to a test, and even then not large enough to immediately jeopardize the eighteenth amendment, indicate that wet agitation has had some effect. It forecasts unmistakably that liquor will be one of the leading issues in the November congressional elections.

This means work for the drys, but also means opportunity. It means an opportunity to make the coming campaign another season of education on the benefits and practicality of prohibition, to bring out the facts in answer to cynical misrepresentations and to emphasize the everyday necessity of a sober America. Disposal of the question will not lie in this election or the next, but every bit of education on abstinence brings the solution nearer.

Johnson and the Bankers.

Brooklyn Eagle.

Senator Hiram W. Johnson never had more effective ammunition than that used by him in his attack upon international bankers. Quite apart from his heated oratory, the facts set forth by him, all gleaned from the recent senatorial investigation, present a picture that is truly shocking and helps to explain much of the financial distress now prevalent in this country.

Not a Job for Congress.

Kansas City Times.

The Senate action in voting to retain in the hands of Congress the authority to direct the reorganization and consolidations of Government departments under the economy plan initiated by President Hoover, is discouraging evidence that the whole program is in danger of being frittered away in talk and log-rolling.

An army can not be commanded by a debating club, nor can Congress, itself politically constituted, be expected to reorganize and curtail departments and bureaus politically constituted and for the creation of which Congress itself is largely responsible. The task obviously is an executive one; some authority free from the political pressures under which Congress always acts alone is competent to direct measures as drastic as are required for the purposes sought.

Public Demand.

Chicago News.

In periods of general prosperity the average taxpayer, unfortunately, evinces little interest in the question of governmental costs. At last, however, the public is thoroughly alive to the need for genuine economy, and is determined to bring it about. State governments are slow in realizing the significant change in the public's attitude. They must wake up and meet the imperative demand for retrenchment. Those that continue to ignore the demand and recklessly to pile up burdens for the taxpayers are inviting a dangerous civic and political explosion.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Volunteer Spokesman for Japan Criticizes Proposed Boycott.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Confronted, in 1905, with the first antiforeign boycott in China, though mild in form, the United States Government pronounced it "a conspiracy in restraint of trade carried on under official guidance and with the sympathy of the central (Chinese) government." Secretary of State Root made it known that the movement was "carried on in open violation of solemn treaty provisions" and therefore a hostile act.

To quote Prof. Edwin M. Borchard, of Yale: "The economic boycott is not a peaceful measure, but it is an act of war. Professed pacifists are thus, by thoughtless emotion, serving effectively the cause of militarism, hatred and confusion."

The league covenant arms itself with boycotts and the attendant "armed forces to be used to protect the covenants of the league." A boycott is, then, an instrument of war to the full extent of its hostile intent.

The anti-Japanese boycott that began last year in Shanghai was also officially inspired. It outdid, by far, many previous ones in outrageous atrocity. The Chinese rose in blind fury to the stirring slogans "On to Tokyo!" "Slaughter the Japanese," and what not. Persecution, assault, pillage, murder followed. Before they began their march on Tokyo, the Chinese regulars launched terrific fire, on January 28, 1932, upon the Japanese bluejackets who were proceeding to take the post assigned to them by the joint command of the American, British, French, Italian and Japanese forces. Two thousand Japanese bluejackets had to face 100,000 Chinese regulars. The Japanese had never anticipated such a clash.

Do the advocates of boycotts believe themselves to be friends of peace? Would they dare fasten the "war guilt" upon Japan and make the world safe for demon-cracy and banditry? YUJI YAMAZAKI.

Plain-Clothes Police Needed to Capture Traffic Violators—Why Not Try the Plan?

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I hope you will permit me to add my approval to that of others who think plain-clothes police should be assigned to arrest law-breaking motorists and thereby reduce our dreadful toll of traffic deaths and maimings. I am moved to write this by the account I have just read of two men knocked from a loading platform at Klingle Bridge and fatally injured by a hit-and-run speeder. It is not improbable that this accident would not have occurred had the driver of the death car known there was likelihood of arrest by a plain-clothes officer. At least it seems likely that such knowledge would hold reckless speeders in check in very many cases. I am not one of those who assume that automobile homicide at its present rate is a necessary evil. In search for a remedy, I think that plain-clothes supervision of traffic should be given a complete trial. So long as that is not done, I will insist that the traffic authorities are indifferent to the problem of traffic safety.

Untidy Streets Call for Early and Thorough Clean-up.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I can't recall exactly when clean-up week is except that it follows the crocuses, but if littered streets have anything to do with the case it can't come a day too soon this year.

Last spring's campaign of clean-up education, as I remember it, ought to have done a good deal of good, but our 1932 appearance is not one of what might be called Bicentennial neatness, if there are many blocks in other parts of the city as untidy as some I have seen. It may be all very well to say that the winter's accumulated rubbish lingers on the lap of spring, but for all of that rubbish is not apt to get on the street by its own effort. It is scattered by human hands. I now and then see cigarette boxes, wrapping paper, newspapers and other debris thrown on the street even when a public trash box is within easy reach. The guilty parties are full-grown men and women as well as girls and boys. C. F. W.

Reader Cites Toleration of Lynching as Encouraging Kidnaping and Other Crimes.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: It is conducive to thought to note the Nation-wide indignation that grips the Nation over the recent kidnaping. That the affair is diabolical goes undisputed, but this condition is a creation of our law enforcement corps. Their silent indifference to another of the major crimes—lynching—has been equivalent to an approval of lawlessness.

It is an unchallenged truism that laws lean one upon the other for support, and to be lax in the enforcement of one is to incite the disparaging of all. To condone lynching, is to invite kidnaping. This kidnaping, however, has shown explicitly how much action the country can command and execute in avenging an atrocity—when it wills to do so.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Your editorial anent Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson strengthens our vision to see the extent of callous indifference, the selfish postponement, by our legislators, of splendidly achieved title to reward.

In opposition to Judge Wilkerson's high conceptions of manly official administration we have supine surrender to underworld tactics, murders, kidnapings, thefts and unspeakable license. KATHLEEN COONEY.

Radio Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

SEVERAL attempts have been made to write stage plays with the radio studio as the scene of action. Difficulties have been encountered.

It was soon discovered after broadcasting began that success on the stage, no matter how triumphant, is no guarantee that an actor can transfer his popularity and win new laurels at the microphone.

The stage and radio call for two vastly different techniques. Mastery of one does not assure mastery of the other. Many a veteran trouper of the footlights has failed at the microphone. And it is explained that he lacks "microphone technique." Eddie Cantor is one of the few actors who has succeeded in three fields, stage, screen and studio. Television will combine all three.

The same indefinable technique that hangs as a curse over some entertainers is apparently applicable to playwrights who try their hand in both realms. One who can write a theatrical hit may fail in writing a radio sketch. On the other hand, the succes of Amos 'n' Andy in preparing their episodes does not guarantee that they can write a series of acts and scenes for stage presentation.

When a radio scenario writer tries his hand in theatrical playwriting there is often evidence that he finds it difficult to get away from the ideas that make a radio sketch popular. The result is a long-drawn-out, complicated stage play. For example, Amos 'n' Andy can go on the air nightly for twelve minutes and continue to hold an audience. But if they tried to run several episodes together for an hour the ethereal performance would be stalemate for "the many millions."

VOICE personality is the big factor in broadcasting. It ranks along with that so-called microphone technique. So far, playwrights have missed the formula that mixes radio and the theater. It is impossible to put the same life and action into a horse race on the stage as on the turf. So it is a big task to bring all of radio to the theater.

William Ford Manley and Henry Fiske Carlton are collaborators in radio dramas. They created the "Mr. and Mrs." sketches. "Great Moments in History," biblical dramas, O. Henry dramatizations and historic episodes for the "American School of the Air" are among their ethereal achievements. Now Mr. Manley is the playwright of "Wild Waves," a radio satire that takes broadcasting as its theme and the studio as the setting.

Two scenes from the fourth act of Meyerbeer's grand opera, "L'Africaine," will be broadcast over WRC at 4 o'clock this afternoon. The scene of the opera is laid in Portugal and Africa, and is full of effective situations that repeatedly illustrate Meyerbeer's powers of realization, and his knowledge of musical and dramatic effects.

The cast is headed by Beniamino Gigli, who will sing the role of Vasco da Gama. Rethberg will be Selika. Basiola will play Nelusko and Pinza will appear as the Grand Inquisitor and Grand Brahmin. Tullio Serafin will be the conductor.

EDDIE EAST and Ralph Dumke, Sisters of the Skillet are both college graduates; are not even brothers, and do not own a skillet. But they are fraternity brothers. Eddie was originally an attorney, and his first client is still in the penitentiary. Eddie says he prefers to put people in stitches.

Ralph was a designer of plows in a plow factory. He took his college banjo along, and one day the president caught Ralph organizing a glee club in the factory. You know how presidents are—they have no sense of rhythm. And right then the unemployment situation loomed as a dark cloud in Ralph's life.

Current legislative problems of labor will be discussed by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, and Edward Keating, editor of Labor, in addresses in the Institute of Public Affairs (WMAL, 10:15 p. m.).

The Goethe Society of America will observe the 100th anniversary of the death of Goethe in a program of speeches and songs to be broadcast from Carnegie Hall, at 10:15 p. m. tonight over the WJZ network.

Goethe's death anniversary falls on March 22, but the Carnegie Hall meeting is scheduled for Saturday night to invite more widespread participation.

Ambrose Durkin, barytone soloist at Epiphany Church, will sing a special program over WMAL at 9:15 o'clock tonight. The program includes "The Lord Is My Light," Allitsen; "Panis Angelicus," Franck; "Open the Gates of the Temple," Knapp; "The New Kingdom," Tours; "Just for Today," Abbott, and "Jesus, Lover of My Soul," Morsell.

PROVING the popularity of Milton Cross was the comment of the musically talented wife of a distinguished member of Congress.

"There is nobody like good old Milton Cross as an announcer," she remarked.

Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland, one of the first Democrats to announce his candidacy for President, will talk over the WJZ network this afternoon from 2:30 to 3 o'clock on "Some Social Problems of the Day."

When Howard Barlow, conductor of Columbia's symphonic broadcasts was interviewed by Bob Taplinger in a recent "Meet the Artist" program, his wife, well known in the theatrical world as Ann Winston, listened in on a train speeding through Idaho en route from California to New York. On her transcontinental ride she heard her husband relate the story of their romance.

"I enjoyed hearing you talk," she wired Howard, "but missed so much not being able to talk back."

COL. LEMUEL Q. STOOPNAGLE has discovered why giraffes always travel by freight. They are mute and hence can't express themselves.

Jane Interprets the Mode

Buttoning and Buttonholing Chic.

BUTTON, button, who has the button?

Who hasn't the button, rather, these days? 'Cause as long as clothes can't be grown onto figgers, nor tied on, nor wrapped on, buttons will be used and wanted and needed.

Not that we mind! Buttons are the mainstay of the garment in every way—not only for fastenings, but for decoration. Why else would they be used as trimming in places that could not possibly require fastening?

By their buttons ye shall know them, now adays! Each couturiere designs and has made a different kind of botton, specializing in his or her own particular one, using it for fastening and trimming. Every one knows which couturiere likes metal fastenings and clips instead of buttons, what other couturiere first sponsored carved wooden buttons, and which one prefers to tie tabs of material together instead of using buttons at all.

Yet for all their expense, good buttons are an investment, so no one begrudges spending money on them. Every woman in the world who has a mite of sense cuts the expensive buttons off of her outmoded frocks before she either relegates them to the rag bag or gives them to her maid—realizing the importance of the correct and decorative button, and well knowing how a cheap button can ruin a perfect frock.

Buttons of wood, of braided leather, of Irish crochet, are all the mode now. Gallilth and various composition buttons are always smart, and of course steel and steel cut buttons are very chic, not to mention expensive.

Steel clips that are buckle-like in appearance, and actual buckles are very new and smart for fastenings, too. And beaded buttons and even some hand-painted ones, are quite, quite the thing for summer frocks for afternoon and evening.

* * * *

Sh-h-h-h! Gather 'round, and lissen to a deep, dark skeekret! I had to have some good-looking buttons for a remant dress, and whatever I found that I like cost too durn much for the dress—and anyhow, I had a better idea.

Guess? You've guessed! I made the buttons for that dress!

Actually and positively, I did. And further, I got so intrigued in button-making possibilities, that I just buttoned everything in the house, and found ways and means to make a whole assorted flock of buttons—that but, too, my deahs—and don't crumble to pieces or anything.

I can not tell a lie—I did it all for my deah public! 'Nif I step on another shoe button or bead—well, you'll have to send two stamped, self-addressed envelopes to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for the leaflet telling you how to make buttons—just for compensation! But one envelope will do, and if you would like to know how to make some lovely and expensive buttons your very own self, just send for the leaflet telling you how.

* * * *

Coin de Couleur.

Just for variety maybe—or maybe because it's a softer and more flattering tone than white, grege is the leading color for the coming summer sportswear. When you stop to think of it, it is more pleasing isn't it? Not to mention more practical—and this simply can not be denied.

And to demonstrate to you the difference between what Paris proposes and what New York disposes, Paris says beige verging on the grege tone, whilst New York says beige verging on the rosy tones!

And both of them seem to agree on gray, also my beloved color—for elegant summer wear, just as long as this gray, too, has a grege or a rosy cast.

* * * *

A Silhouette Shock.

And I just can't end this Fashion Letter without telling you about the two evening models that Jane Regny exploded with bomb-like effect upon an unsuspecting audience in her dove-colored salon. For the bodices of these lovely gowns were cut out at the front exactly like swimsuits! One was aptly called "Audace," and was a white crepe dress with this very strange cut-out-over-the-tummy front, accompanied by a full length purple coat split up the back and very much flared.

And with that, I think I will just simply have to say

BIDDING AND MAKING GRAND SLAMS.

IN expert play, and particularly is this true in rubber play, grand slams are very rarely bid. They should not be bid unless the distribution and honor-trick holding of the combined hands are such as to assure the making against almost any possible distribution. It is rare to find a hand which measures up to both of these requirements. Occasionally, however, so kind have been the fates which guide the hand of the dealer that players have found cards which justified the bidding of a grand slam.

Such a hand occurred in a recent duplicate bridge tournament at the Tower Bridge Club in New York, the contestants in which included men who are recognized as the most expert in the country. Here is the hand upon which almost all North and South players reached a grand slam contract:

South—Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

	♠ A K J 7 4 ♡ Q 9 7 2 ◇ A K Q 2 ♣ —
♠ Q 9 6 5 ♡ 10 4 ◇ 10 9 6 5 ♣ 4 3 8	N W E S	♠ 10 3 2 ♡ J 8 ◇ J 7 ♣ 10 9 7 4 3 2
	♠ 8 ♡ A K 6 5 3 ◇ 8 ♣ A K Q J 6 5

The Bidding:

(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

South	West	North	East
1♡	Pass	2♠(1)	Pass
3♣(2)	Pass	3◇(3)	Pass
4♣(4)	Pass	6♡(5)	Pass
7♡(6)	Pass	Pass	Pass

1. A tremendous hand opposite an opening heart bid. North already knows the hand contains a slam, but wants all possible information before making the final bid.

2. South is agreeably amazed by his partner's forcing take-out, but of course cheerfully complies with North's request for additional information.

3. Giving further information in order that the future bidding may be intelligent.

4. Showing rebid strength.

5. North knows that South's hand contains at least five hearts. The opening bid of one heart and the subsequent bid and rebid of the club suit is a request by his partner to choose between two biddable suits. South may have even six hearts, but he does not necessarily have the Ace of the suit. A grand slam bid by North would not be justified.

6. South is assured of the solidity of the heart suit by North's last bid. He knows that his partner can not bid six hearts unless his hand contains at least the spade Ace and diamond Ace. With adequate trump support it appears to South that all that is necessary to assure the taking of all thirteen tricks are the two cards mentioned and adequate trump support. The grand slam bid is therefore clearly indicated.

Of course, thirteen tricks with hearts as trump or at notrump are easily made with the North and South holdings. However, this result was not attained by one of the most noted teams in the country. Misled by the possession of the honors in clubs, the South player decided that he would not only make a grand slam, but score the count for the honors as well. As he decoded the bidding messages a grand slam was available at two declarations, clubs or hearts, while possibly a diamond or spade opening might make impossible a grand slam at notrump. He, therefore, as he thought, brilliantly bid seven clubs, and his partner, reading this as showing absolute confidence that there were no club losers, and anticipating an honor score of 150 for the five top honors in clubs, passed. This grand slam contract was defeated 2 tricks, proving perhaps that even the greatest of experts can not afford to disregard the facts of unfavorable distribution.

In rubber play, of course, the grand slam would be bid in hearts, as that unquestionably is the best declaration in the combined hands. In duplicate match play, where each board is a match, the declaration is sometimes forced into an unnatural channel because of the scoring.

TODAY'S POINTER.

Grand slams can rarely be bid on the basis of honor-tricks held, as even a guarded Queen or Knave may defeat such contract. Unlike small slams, which can safely be bid through the elimination of losing honors, grand slams should not be attempted unless almost every important honor is accounted for.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

INFANTS AND CYSTS.

A READER writes: I had a baby born with a branchial cyst, which grew as he did, and weighed 2 pounds at the end of two months. He was then operated on. It was attached to the right shoulder and neck and there were small cysts attached to the large one which were imbedded in the flesh under the shoulder blade.

Baby is now six months old, weighs 18 pounds, and is perfect except that shoulder blade sticks out. Is this a form or kind of tumor? Would it ever return? Is it due to improper development?

REPLY.

First, let me answer your direct question. A branchial cyst, weighing two pounds, say, about one-eighth the weight of the person, would be called a tumor. It should not return. It was due to improper development.

The way the human body develops before birth is very complicated. It proceeds according to very intricate plans and specifications laid down by some unknown force. We say there is an impulse to grow and develop in accordance with a pattern and schedule, but why or how this is we do not know.

In the formation of the air and the food tubes of the neck and face there are more than the usual number of complications and intricacies. There are a series of openings along the sides of the neck in the early stages of development. They are called branchial clefts. They have been compared to the gills of fish. In natural development these fissures, or clefts, form, at their internal parts, into certain organs or structures, and their external parts disappear entirely. If something goes wrong the result may be a fistulous tract like the ear canal, or a branchial cyst. In case there is a branchial cyst we say that a fetal branchial cleft has been obliterated at both internal and external ends, but that the middle region, for some reason has persisted. This remnant makes a cyst wall and the secreting wall eventually fills the cyst with cyst contents—fluid, fatty, or some other nature. This is called a branchial cyst.

These cysts are apt to appear around the corners of the mouth and nose, on the cheeks and lower jaw, around the ears, on the sides of the neck, on the upper shoulder, above the collar bone and shoulder blade. They do but little harm. If completely removed they should not return.

BAKING SODA AND COLDS.

L. C. K. writes: Does taking baking soda for a cold in about three or four doses a day, each dose containing about a teaspoonful of soda, do any harm to the system? I have heard that it does damage to the stomach tissues. Is this true? I have found this method does help dry up a cold, but wondered if there were any other complications it made.

REPLY.

Probably a few doses taken to meet a passing condition do no harm. When the question shifts to the good done the dispute begins.

DIPHTHERIA.

Mrs. A. V. M. writes: Can a child contract diphtheria without first having a bad throat?

REPLY.

He can.

MANY CAUSES POSSIBLE.

A. O. S. writes: What is the probable cause of a feeling of dizziness in a man 47 years of age, weight 150 pounds, 5 feet 9 inches tall, with blood pressure of 135?

REPLY.

I can name some causes from which your physician might select yours. My guess as to which is probable in your case might mislead you. Among possible causes are eyestrain, middle ear disease, constipation, anemia, arterio sclerosis and brain tumor.

ARIZONA'S FINE CLIMATE.

V. M. C. writes: Is the climate of Arizona conducive to a cure of sinus trouble?

REPLY.

The climate of Arizona is excellent for chronic sinus trouble.

FRANCES McDONALD

Helpful Hubbies.

DEAR Frances McDonald: I have followed closely the controversy in your column about husbands, who help around at home, hoping to read your own opinion of men who thus help out a tired or harassed wife. My interest is due to the fact that I trained my four sons to help their wives and all of them do. I would hate to feel that they were classed by anyone as effeminate, just because they could wash a child's face, or prepare its supper if mother were tired or ill.

And surely if my sons were unable to provide for the girls they married, it would be unthinkable for them to expect the girl should go out to work for eight hours a day, and then return and start another day's work in the house, while he sat around. I do not know whether to admire or censure these girls who shoulder their own and the man's part, too. When one of my sons was only 23 a girl kept urging him to marriage, saying she would keep her own position. My husband was worried sick and had a very plain talk with the boy and I did with the girl. Son assured us he did not even feel sure of his feelings for her. Now at 30 he has just made a fine marriage and bought his home. It seems so unwise to rush into debt and trouble. Years ago it was so different, a dollar went so far. I had two new dresses when I married and it was a full year before they "wore out." Now a girl has six to a dozen dresses and always "picking up" something new. It all takes money and the man should have something to start.

My boys all have done the man's part, but were taught that a true man is the strong arm of his wife, and no task she must perform is beneath him. What does our Frances think? GRANDMOTHER.

Your Frances thinks that only the man who is a bit unsure of his manhood, fears to perform the tasks that ordinarily a woman performs. If your Frances kept house without help her strong armed hero would say it with floor mops, glass towels or what have you. Why not? The days when the man had to drag the dinner home by the horns is past. And Satan finds mischief for idle hubbies to do. So! If we had to prepare a meal nightly for some stalwart, he would at least help clean up the scene of the crime—and like it!

And here is a lady who has a husband who does like it!

He Likes to Help.

Dear Frances McDonald: I have read Elsie's letter and also C. W. I.'s terrible scathing epistle, and if I may be permitted to do so, I would like to poke my oar in this scramble of words. I am close to 30 now and have more sense of appreciation of the handiness and goodness of a man about the duties of a home than I had when I was just starting out on the good ship courtship. I have had my ups and downs with men, but now I have found a real man who is so good and knows so many ways to help a woman in the home that he puts me to shame. I have been cooking off and on for years and years, and shake a mean ladle in the batter bowl.

I would like C. W. I. and all ther men of his state of mind to know that a woman's heart just swells up to the bursting point when she is fortunate enough to have a man around who can do the helpful things without being nagged into doing it, and enjoy them while he helps. I do think it takes two evenly toned dispositions to eliminate quarreling and bickering between a man and a woman. If one is a sore head, all the soft soaping on the other's part will never make for complete happiness, but Elsie knows what beautiful companionship is, and so do I, and like her, I know what it is worth. Later on, the desire for children will come to Elsie and her husband, and I truly think their happiness will be just as great and their close companionship will continue just as now. A child being reared by such parents will grow up with a sweet disposition and know the real happiness of the world—contentment and peace. I think C. W. I. is jealous of his own inability to want to do the things he sees and hears of other men doing and enjoying in their homes, but C. W. I., you can learn, and God bless the woman who teaches you. M. M.

Advice on Gardening

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

I HAVE a rather large rock garden which is two years old. The first year we planted perennials and annuals. The annuals did well, and last summer, which was the second year, we had a profusion of annuals and perennials. We still have room for some bulbous stock. Please give me a list of bulbs suited to rock garden use. MRS. JOSEPH F. T.

Crocus, chinodoxa, fritillaria meleagris, jonquils, snowdrops, Spanish iris, leucojum vernum, muscari scilla, tulipa clusiana are all lovely for rock-garden use.

Please tell me why my calla does not bloom. I started the bulb about fourteen months ago, and it has developed beautiful foliage but no flowers. MADGE McM.

A calla must be at least two years old before it will bloom much. Your plant has not reached the right stage of development.

Please tell me what kind of soil to use when I plant gloxinia bulbs. MABEL F. P.

The gloxinia does best in a soil of leafmold or turfy matter, with a generous mixture of sand. Some growers add to this mixture a dash of bone meal.

I have five Easter lilies which are now ready to be brought to the light. Please tell me where to place them. MRS. GEORGE D. S.

When you bring your plants to the light do not place them at once in a warm room. A room adjoining one in which there is heat is better for them, if it is frost-proof, than one in which the temperature is likely to run up to 65 or 70 degrees. When in bloom keep them as cool as possible if you want the flowers to last.

Please tell me how to get rid of mealy bugs on geraniums. This is my first experience with these pests. MISS TILLIE W. D.

Usually these parasites can be removed by daily spraying with cold water. Should this prove ineffective try any spray containing nicotine.

Are March, April and May suitable months to sow perennial seeds in the open? AN AMATEUR.

Yes. Prepare your bed in a warm sheltered spot in your garden, preferably not very sunny. The surface of the bed should be raised four or five inches above the level of the ground. The soil must be mellow and fine.

Competition to Close March 22 for Award for Most Attractive Menu.

Easter recipes predominated among the ones sent in to the Saturday Food Page of The Washington Post this week, showing that the homemakers of the city and territory covered by this paper are eager to provide attractive Easter menus for their families.

The best Easter recipe sent in by a contributor by March 22, will receive a special book prize.

The winning recipes today for books and honorable mention are as follows:

"LEAP YEAR" LAYER CAKE.
(Awarded Book Prize.)

1½ cups sugar
½ cup butter (Brookfield)
3 eggs
¾ cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 teaspoon lemon juice
2¾ cups Gold Medal cake flour
3 teaspoons Royal baking powder

Cream butter and sugar well, add egg yolks and beat well. Beat in vanilla and lemon juice, then milk and flour, adding a little of each alternately. Fold in half of stiffly beaten egg whites, saving the rest for the icing. Bake in a quick oven about 15 minutes.

Sea Foam Icing.

1½ cups brown sugar
¼ cup hot water
1-8 teaspoon cream of tartar
¼ teaspoon Mapleine flavoring
Powdered sugar
Egg whites

Boil sugar and hot water until it threads when dropped from a spoon. Add cream of tartar to egg whites (stiffly beaten), then beat in the hot sirup, pouring it on gradually. Add flavoring and enough powdered sugar to bring the icing to a creamy consistency just thick enough not to run. Spread thickly between the layers and all over the outside of the cake.

Pop the question immediately after opening the way to his heart with a piece of this cake—he can't say "no!"

JULIA JEAN HOOPES.

RECIPES FOR WEEK-END MENUS—REQUESTED RECIPE.

REQUESTED recipes seem to have stacked up in sufficient quantities to last us for some days to come, which doubtless, means that we shall carry over into the next week a goodly number. However, we shall release as many as possible today and hope for lots of space for them come the dawn of next Monday's column. A happy week-end to every one and now the recipes necessary to the construction of our Sunday dinner.

Peanut Butter and Ham Appetizer.

Saltines.
4 tablespoonsfuls peanut butter.
4 tablespoonsfuls deviled ham.
8 stuffed olives.

Mix the peanut butter and ham. Mound on buttered saltines. Garnish with stuffed olives.

Boston Roast.

Have blade removed from shoulder of lamb so that it may be stuffed and rolled. Fill with the following mixture and tie securely:

½ cupful breadcrumbs.
1 tablespoonful chopped onion.
1 tablespoonful butter.
1 tablespoonful chopped parsley.
3 teaspoonfuls lemon juice.
1 teaspoonful salt.
Dash of pepper.
½ cupful ground steak.
¼ cupful ground pork or sausage.

Place roast in hot pan, sprinkle with salt and add one cupful of hot water, baste frequently during the roasting, allowing fifteen minutes to a pound. When done, take out of pan, pour grease off and add one cupful of water. Blend two tablespoonfuls of flour wth a little cold water, adding it gradually to the water in the roasting pan. Let it boil for about three to five minutes and serve.

Old-Fashioned Muffins.

1½ cupfuls flour
3 teaspoonfuls butter, melted
2 eggs
½ cupful milk
2 teaspoonfuls baking powder
¼ teaspoonful salt

Sift the dry ingredients together. Add the butter, the well-beaten eggs, then the milk, and stir well. Heat a soapstone griddle and put muffin rings on it. When very hot, pour in the mixture and bake for five minutes, then turn on other side with cake-turner and bake for another five minutes. Serve hot.

Grapefruit Salad.

6 grapefruit
3 teaspoonfuls gelatin
½ cupful water, hot
1 cupful confectioners' sugar
3 tablespoonfuls blanched almonds

Squeeze the juice from four grapefruit and remove pulp from the other two. Soak gelatin in one-quarter cupful cold water and dissolve in the hot water. Add the sugar and grapefruit juice to the gelatin. Bring to boil. Strain through cheesecloth and add the grapefruit pulp and the blanched almonds. Pour into a mold and, when cool, place on ice to set. Serve on lettuce garnished with mayonnaise.

Peppermint Ice Cream.

½ pound red-striped peppermint candy
1 cupful top milk
1 pint whipped cream

Soak the candy in the milk overnight. If it does not dissolve readily, heat slightly. Cool. If a mechanical refrigerator is used to freeze the dessert, pour the mixture into one of the pans and allow it to freeze to a mush, then fold in the whipped cream and continue the freezing. When using an ice cream freezer, combine the unbeaten cream with the milk mixture and freeze until stiff, using three parts ice to one part salt.

Answers to Readers.

Dear Miss Carey: I am a daily reader of your column and follow it with great interest. Perhaps you would help me, too. I am 38 years of age, 5 feet 7 inches tall and weigh 175 pounds. I know I am much overweight and will appreciate any assistance at all. MRS. M.

Of course, we shall help you, Mrs. M., shall be very glad to, in fact, and only hope that you will succeed in helping yourself to reduce when we have sent our directions and menus off to you. For your age and height you should weigh about 147 pounds, so that you have only about 25 pounds to lose in all.

First of all, plan a definite routine for yourself, a daily schedule of exercising and eating habits. Unless you do that, your efforts are much less likely to bear fruit. The temptation to skip today and start in tomorrow is often much too great. I doubt if there is a better way of disciplining oneself mentally and physically than by carefully following a systematic plan of reducing. Not a fad or freak diet—these only succeed in breaking down one's spirit and one's health—but a well-balanced normal diet in which calories are wisely watched and all the rules of nutrition sensibly maintained. It requires patience, determination and intelligence, but I know that you will succeed, as have so many, many others before you, when once you have so determined. Let us hear from you further and good luck.

RECIPE FOR ROLLS WINS POST AWARD

Sure-Fire Confection Offered by Mrs. C. C. Kennon, Granted $5.

It is believed that a recipe for rolls should be included in the repertoire of every housewife. That they should be made from a sure-fire recipe is another vital consideration.

Mrs. Charles C. Kennon, of 3120 Thirty-eighth street, has a formula for which claims of certain success are made. It should not be amiss in the recipe books.

The Post's weekly $5 award went to Mrs. Kennon. Her recipe follows:

4 cups Gold Medal flour
1 cake Fleischman's yeast
1½ cups milk (lukewarm)
⅓ cup pure lard
¼ cup sugar
1 teaspoon salt

Mix flour, sugar and salt, dissolve the yeast in the warm milk and add it to half the flour mixture and beat with a spoon hard, then add the cooled melted shortening and beat again, then add the remainder of the flour and knead to a soft dough with the hand, place in a covered bowl in a warm place to double in bulk. Then roll to one-half inch thickness, cut with a biscuit cutter, brush with melted Land o' Lakes butter, fold like a pocket book and let them rise in a warm place and bake at about 425 degrees, 20 minutes or until nicely browned.

MRS. CHARLES C. KENNON.
3120 Thirty-eighth street northwest.

Chicken Shortcake.

2 cups flour
½ teaspoon salt
¾ cup milk
4 teaspoons baking powder
4 tablespoons shortening
1 cup diced chicken
½ cup diced celery
2 tablespoons butter
1 cup chicken stock or gravy or milk
2 tablespoons flour
Salt and pepper

Make biscuit dough of the first five ingredients and roll to ¾-inch thickness. Cut rounds with small biscuit cutter. Bake in hot oven (450 degrees F.) for 12 minutes. While the biscuits bake make a sauce of two tablespoons flour, 1 tablespoon butter and the chicken stock or milk. If left-over gravy is used it may not need to be thickened. Brown the celery in 2 tablespoons of butter, add it and the chicken to the sauce and heat thoroughly. Break open each biscuit and put the chicken mixture between and on top.

OUR DAILY FOOD

By COLONEL GOODBODY

RED, WHITE AND BLUE RICE IN MADAGASCAR.

DR. CHARLES SWINGLE was the first American botanist to set foot on the island of Madagascar in the Indian Ocean. He was on the trail of a peculiar rubber plant, called "Intisy," which Government scientists thought might be grown in our own Southwest.

When this young American arrived in Madagascar, he found he was just 15 minutes too late to catch a little coastwise boat heading to the south. The natives simply couldn't understand his disappointment. "Oh, sir," they said, "another boat will arrive in six weeks. In the meantime there is rice for all—so there is nothing to worry about, good sir."

In the native Malagash language there is no word for "time." And they have never even heard of that well-known phrase—"the struggle for existence." They spend a few days a year planting, transplanting and harvesting rice—and there's enough food for all.

"Don't the natives ever get tired of rice?" I asked Dr. Swingle.

"Not at all," he explained. "If they get tired of white rice they change to red rice or blue rice or brown. As many as 64 varieties grow in Madagascar. And then there are special delicacies to go with it—delicacies; that is, for those who like dried grasshoppers and locusts."

Market day, in the northern villages of Madagascar, is a gala event. The happy-go-lucky natives come in from the country, walking for miles, with their wares balanced on their heads—baskets of rice or eggs, live chickens and geese; all toppling precariously.

As I said before, time means nothing to the Malagash. He may spend two or three days walking to market, and then he is content to sit for several days longer, waiting for a customer to buy his chicken, his goose or an armful of wood he has brought to sell. When he has sold his wares for a few cents, he selects something from the many lots of cast-off clothing on display. The native costume is a shawl, or lamba, but there's nothing like a derby hat to add style. At one place, Dr. Swingle was greeted by a native who wore over his shawl an ankle-length night shirt and a stove-pipe hat.

Dr. Swingle made daily trips to the village markets to get peanuts, bananas, pineapples, guavas, mangoes or papayas to add to the hotel diet of rice.

On the sixteenth day of his march into the southern brush Dr. Swingle sighted the first of his long-sought-for plants—the Intisy plants. The curious bulbous roots were filled with water—the best they had had for many a day. And the milky latex which oozed from its trunk was found to be pure rubber.

Dr. Swingle felt that he was indeed a fortunate young man when he said good-by to Madagascar, bringing back with him a precious cargo of Intisy plants for the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

I liked the story of Dr. Swingle and his adventures in Madagascar. Every once in a while some admirer of the early explorer-scientists comes around with this complaint: "There were men in those days—men who weren't afraid to risk hunger and thirst and death itself to add to the comforts of civilization."

And then I say, "Take the story of Dr. Charles Swingle and the story of his well-known brother, Walter T. Swingle, who, after 35 years of study and travel, has made it possible for us to raise good figs in the United States."

And then there's David Fairchild, the famous botanist, who has spent most of his life poking into the far corners of the earth. As a result of his expeditions already many plants are growing in the New World which give promise of value for food.

Market Meanderings

By MILDRED REED BUNDY

Forsythia, Easter Lilies, Daffodils and Gardenias Add to Attractiveness of Pre-Easter Dishes on Market; Big New Peas Arrive.

Fresh fish for pre-Easter menus are plentiful on the local markets despite the blizzards and frozen rivers of early March. Ice-coated fishing boats plied their usual way in the piercing winds that drove most of the world to shelter. A fishing crew of four men off Broomes Island brought in a $1,900 haul in the height of the storm, a retail fish dealer in one of the downtown markets told the Meanderer. Express trucks from New York and New England continued through the stormy days to bring into Washington their deep Atlantic fish, which had been brought to shore in boats crusted with ice.

Spanish mackerel, shad and bass are among the more plentiful fish now on the market. White and yellow perch are also among the seasonal fish. Of course, oysters are selling in vast numbers with the oyster season now at its height.

The willowy yellow sprays of forsythia blossoms are among the most beautiful flowers the Meanderer has ever seen decorating market places. Forsythia comes early in the spring, one of the first bursts of color in many gardens. The market dealers ask $2 a dozen for the long, graceful sprays.

Scarlet-stalked rhubarb rivals the flowers in attractiveness. This hothouse rhubarb is cooked without paring and makes a colorful dish when ready for the table.

Prospects of a big season for Easter eggs were jeopardized by the cold weather. Before March 1, first-class fresh eggs were everywhere in the market for about 20 cents a dozen, a little more or less. The freezing days lessened the egg supply and this week saw the price of eggs increasing several cents on the dozen, the amount varying in the different markets. The jump in the egg market is not expected to hold, however, with warmer weather inevitably near.

Easter lilies have a dominating, dignified charm among the masses of spring flowers now in the markets. Other years have seen the Easter lily valued by the dozen at $4 and $5, but this year the lilies are offered at $3 a dozen. And the justly beloved daffodils are priced so low now that every marketing housewife, no matter how narrow the budget, can tuck a dozen or so daffodils in the food basket to accompany and glorify her nutritional offerings to her family. Daffodils are very plentiful and in many sizes and varieties, by the dozen selling for 25 cents up. A pot of tulips still costs $1, while cut tulips are $1.50 for a dozen. Hydrangea plants, with their pastel shaded blooms, are among the newer arrivals and sell for $2.

"H'm-m * * * my wife's gotta have some creamed onions and parsley this very night," the Meanderer heard a man shopper exclaim as he saw the big basket of new Bermuda onions one vegetable dealer has for sale. These new fancy onions have just opened the new season in Washington. Each fall and spring Bermuda contributes them to the wide food array in the local market.

From onions to gardenias is of a jump in odors and appearances, although the onions and gardenias are not far apart in one market the Meanderer visited. The social life of Washington creates a demand for the gardenia among men who must have them for certain correct dress occasions. Their price, 75 cents each, is not due alone to their use by the elite, but to the gardenia's rarity. Their difficulty of culture makes them always a scant crop and, therefore, high priced.

The largest fresh peas in the history of one market are ready for customers for 20 cents a pound, or two pounds for 35 cents.

Green beans took a sensational jump in price this week, doubling over their quotations last week. This condition resulted from the freezing weather, which had the temerity to invade Florida. Last week 10 cents a pound was all that dealers asked, but 20 cents is now a general quotation.

Though many vegetables are higher in price since the cold weather, there are a few which are offsetting increases with decreases, such as iceberg lettuce, which the Meanderer found for 5 cents a head in one of the best markets in the city. At the same market stall globe artichokes of high quality, with their full, closely rounded shapes and good color, sell for but 10 cents each. New potatoes are at their lowest price, 5 cents a pound.

Strawberries from Alabama are following the depleted crop from Florida upon which the local market depended. The Alabama berries sell for 35 cents a quart.

One value in canned fruits the housewife should appreciate is the offer of seven sizeable cans of sliced pineapple for $1 at one chain grocery. It is almost certain that pineapple will increase in price in a short time.

Packages of assorted cookies have been long on the market, but now come assorted rolls. In a package of six rolls offered by one grocery, there are two large white rolls, two whole wheat and two raisin rolls.

GOOD FRIDAY SALAD.
(Honorable Mention.)

Shell and cut in halves lengthwise six hard-cooked Sanico fresh eggs. Remove yolks, mash them and add one-half teaspoon salt, two tablespoons of finely chopped nuts and one teaspoon finely minced chives; mix well and blend with mayonnaise. Mold into balls and refill the whites, cut pimientos into thin strips and use two strips on each egg half to form a cross. Arrange eggs on lettuce, allowing three for each serving; add six asparagus tips to each plate, and serve with a preferred dressing. Hot Cross Sanico Buns, pineapple Bavarian cream and festive cup cakes combine to make a delicious and colorful luncheon.

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "Lift up your eyes to the heavens, and look upon the earth beneath: for the heavens shall vanish away like smoke, and the earth shall wax old like a garment, and they that dwell therein shall die in like manner: but my salvation shall be forever, and my righteousness shall not be abolished." (Isaiah 51:6).

The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health With Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Moral and spiritual might belong to Spirit, who holds the 'wind in His fists:' and this teaching accords with science and harmony.

"In science, you can have no power opposed to God, and the physical senses must give up their false testimony. Evil is not power. It is a mockery of strength, which erelong betrays its weakness and falls, never to rise." (page 192).

ST. DOMINIC'S PLANS GOOD FRIDAY RITES

Three Hours' Agony Services Will Be Given at Night, as Last Year.

The "Three Hours' Agony" will be held in St. Dominic's Church on Good Friday from 6 to 9 p. m. This practice of holding the "Three Hours' Agony" from 6 to 9 o'clock instead of from 12 to 3—the customary time—was inaugurated in St. Dominic's last year. Because it proved to be so popular last year, it was decided to hold these devotions at the same time this year in order to give people who work or who are otherwise occupied during those early hours of the afternoon an opportunity to assist at the "Three Hours' Agony" on Good Friday.

The services on Good Friday will start promptly at 6 p. m. The last seven words on the cross will serve as a subject matter for the short discourses. Appropriate hymns and prayers will occupy the time between the short talks. "Tenebrae" will be sung at 7:30 p. m. on Good Friday as well as on Wednesday and Thursday evenings of Holy Week. It will be sung by 40 Dominican novices, especially trained, from the Dominican House of Studies.

Lectures on the Mass.

An unusual opportunity for learning by the aid of motion pictures, still pictures and practical demonstration, the meaning, appointments and manner of offering the Eucharistic Sacrifice will be afforded Washingtonians in a series of three lectures on the "Holy Sacrifice of the Mass," to be delivered by the Rev. James McVann, a member of the Paulist Congregation of Priests. These lectures will be given in the auditorium of St. Paul's Academy, V street between Fourteenth and Fifteenth streets northwest, on Palm Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, at 8 p. m., and are given under the auspices of St. Paul's branch of the Holy Name Society, of which the Rev. Cornelius J. Dacey, pastor of St. Paul's Church, is spiritual director.

St. Paul's branch of the Holy Name Society will hold its annual communion breakfast on Sunday, April 10, at Meridian Mansions, 2400 Sixteenth street northwest, following the monthly Communion Mass at 8 a. m.

"Barter," the Passion play, which has been presented throughout the holy season of Lent at St. Dominic's Auditorium, Sixth and F streets southwest, will come to a close with the performance tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock and Friday evening at 8:15.

The Rev. Urban Nagle not only wrote the story, but also takes a part in it.

The cast is as follows: Miriam, portrayed by Margaret Frawley; Rhea, portrayed by Grace Sprucebank; Jobal, by Mr. Arthur Bradley White; Esther, by Phyllis Brown; Varrus, by Maurice Jarvis; Mary Magdalen, by Hazel Boyce; Judas, by John D. Fitzgerald; Phanuel, by Joseph Fitzgerald; Oreb, an aid to Varrus, by Paul Murphy; mother of Judas and Laura, played by Miss Bessie Mills.

Snyder will have for his theme, "Coming to Terms With Our Triumphs," which is the sixth in his Lenten series on "Coming to Terms With Life." An impressive feature of the morning service will be the confirmation of 21 boys and girls, and there will also be a group of adults received into the church.

Mt. Pleasant Commission Indorses Action of District Group.

The relief commission of the Mount Pleasant Congregational Church, of which the Rev. Russell J. Clinchy is minister, has indorsed the action of the District committee on employment in recommending the appropriation of public funds for unemployment relief. The commission, of which Miss Katherine F. Lenroot is chairman, has adopted and forwarded to the Commissioners a resolution asking that the Commissioners urge upon Congress the need for such an appropriation in order to continue the work of the committee on employment.

Organized in December upon the suggestion of Mr. Clinchy, and being the only church organization of its kind in the District, the relief commission, with headquarters in the Mount Pleasant Church Building, has had applications for work from 145 men and women, for 60 of whom it has found temporary or permanent employment.

Clothing and food have been furnished to individuals and families, and the commission is working in close cooperation with all social service agencies and the committee on employment, utilizing the services of five workers.

CHURCH TO PRESENT "PILGRIMS OF WAY"

Religious Play on Program of First Congregational Easter Evening.

A religious drama, "Pilgrims of the Way," by Dorothy Clark Wilson, will be presented at the First Congregational Church, Tenth and G streets, Easter Sunday evening at 8 o'clock. The setting of the drama is in a garden of a Jerusalem home. The play is divided into three episodes and in dramatic sequence are pictured the events which took place during the period of the early history of the Christian church.

Saul of Tarsus is vividly portrayed, first as a Pharisee, a lover of the law, unwilling to accept Christ, and as a leader of the forces that so cruelly persecuted the early Christians. Later there comes to him the vision of the living Christ and his conversion is complete. Barnabas, John Mark, Mary, his mother, and Rhoda, a maid servant, create the background for this tremendously effective play.

George Field is cast in the role of Saul of Tarsus. The other players are Tudor Whiton, Mrs. J. W. Palmer, Gail Whiton and Josephine Peters, respectively. The play is directed by Miss Nell M. Barghout, the director of religious education of the First Congregational Church.

Soviet Recognition Tale Denied Here

State Department Knows Nothing of Reports Heard in Moscow.

(Associated Press.)

A flat denial came from State Department officials yesterday that this Government is contemplating any modification of the policy of nonrecognition of Russia.

Dispatches from Moscow relating that a report was in circulation there that the United States might alter its policy because of conditions in the Far East were received with surprise.

There has been no change in the policy since the Soviet government came into existence in 1917. From time to time since it was laid down, recognition of the Soviet government has been advocated by various individuals or business interests, but in no case has it reached the proportions of a general concentration of favorable opinion.

Senator Borah, of Idaho, has been one of the most outstanding advocates in the Senate.

Anti-Injunction Bill Sent to White House

(Associated Press.)

Congress yesterday completed action on the bill to curb the use of injunctions in labor disputes and sent it to the White House.

The final act was Senate acceptance of the report adjusting differences with the House, which had voted similarly Thursday. President Hoover has not indicated his views.

Klauder, Building Expert, Talks on Old Cathedrals

Before a gathering of friends of Washington Cathedral at the Mayflower Hotel yesterday Charles Z. Klauder, architect and authority on ecclesiastical design and construction, discussed the great European cathedrals of the Middle Ages and the Renaissance.

"The edifices used as Christian churches during the dissolution of the Roman Empire," he said, "were Roman basilicas. These were rectangular in plan and roofed with barrel vaults. From the beginning of the Medieval period the constant aim of architecture was to evolve from the barrel vault a type of groined or intersecting vault. Gothic architecture was the outcome of this effort, and it prevailed throughout northern and western Europe until nearly the close of the fifteenth century and in some countries as late as 1600.

"The guiding impetus, the character and spirit of the Renaissance, and how the heritage of Rome came to be newly studied and revered, are well known. There were few scholars in Italy who knew Greek and for that reason probably the classics of that civilization were but little drawn upon. At least in architecture the basis of all the Renaissance designing was Roman. As France was the cradle of the Gothic, Italy was that of the Renaissance. Quickly following upon its inception in Italy, however, the Renaissance had its counterpart in all the other countries of western Europe. It ran a course of two centuries, after which a servile classicism was followed by a rapid decline in style."

Mr. Klauder's lecture was illustrated. It was the fourth of a series arranged by the women's committee for Washington Cathedral. The fifth and last will be given on Friday afternoon, April 1.

Delegates Urged To Pay Own Way

Incentive Is Offered by Baltimore Woman for Special Session.

Stating that she would be willing to pay her own expenses if a special session of the General Assembly were called to deal with problems of relief in Baltimore City and the State, Miss Lavinia Engle, delegate from Montgomery County, suggested that each member attending should pay his or her expenses, as she believed that they would be willing to do so.

A State-wide survey to determine the relief needs and the resources in each of the 23 counties will begin Monday under the auspices of the Maryland State Conference of Social Service Workers, according to an announcement made yesterday. The results of this survey are expected to be incorporated in a report in about ten days, Paul T. Beisser, president of the conference, said.

The deficit estimated for relief agencies in Baltimore is $1,895,644.79 for the remainder of 1932, a report sponsored by Howard C. Beck, jr., city auditor, who stated this report was made after an audit of the estimated sums needed by the various organizations submitted to the auditor's office.

Dr. Coutinho to Speak On Goethe at School

The centennial of the death of the great German poet, Wolfgang von Goethe, will be observed at Catholic University this afternoon, when Dr. J. de Siqueria Coutinho will deliver a lecture at 2:30 o'clock in St. Thomas Hall on "A Trip to Frankfurt and Weimar." The lecture will be illustrated with engravings by the German artists, Maragarethe Geible of Weimar.

Prof. Coutinho has lectured at the University of Berlin each summer since 1925 and on the conclusion of his duties last summer paid a special visit to Leipzig, Weimar, Eisenach, Ilmenau and Frankfurt, places connected with the life of Goethe. During his trips he was entertained by the leading authorities on Goethe in Germany.

Bethesda Chamber Unit To Discuss Portal Plan

Plans for the treatment of the portal on Wisconsin avenue at the District line will be the principal matter for discussion at a special meeting of the roads, streets and bridges committee of the Bethesda Chamber of Commerce which was announced yesterday by Joseph F. Wyn, chairman. The meeting is to be held next Friday at the Bethesda County Building.

Maryland residents prefer the oval form of treatment, while the National Capital Park and Planning Commission has insisted on the split circle plan of development. The portal will be half in Maryland and half in the District.

CHAMBER ELECTION RESULTS ANNOUNCED

Eight Directors Chosen Will Meet Soon for Picking of Officers.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

The annual meeting of the Alexandria Chamber of Commerce was held last night in the Virginia Public Service Auditorium, when the announcement was made of the result of the ballot for the election of eight directors, seven to serve for terms of two years and one for one year.

Those elected were: D. C. Book, L. H. Dudley, Francis H. Fannon, Harry Hammond, Elliott F. Hoffman, Frank W. Noxon, John Barton Phillips and George E. Warfield. Francis H. Fannon was the one elected for the short term.

Dan S. Hollenga, business manager of the chamber, presented the annual report of the activities of the body. He stated that 29 conventions will be held in this city the coming year, and told of the efforts made by the chamber in helping prepare for their entertainment.

D. C. Book, chairman of the committee appointed to present changes in the by-laws, gave his report which was adopted. The changes were minor.

New members elected were: The Snyder Corporation, R. L. Kane, Inc.; S. Willard Tyler, the Washington Coca Cola Bottling Works, Old Colony Tire Corporation, C. & C. Coat & Towel Supply Co., Dr. R. F. Benthal and the Alexandria-Washington Buses. These names were presented by John U. Reardon, chairman of the membership club.

The plan of having only three standing committees was adopted, these to be finance, legislative and public works; these committees to appoint special subcommittees as occasion demands. The board of directors will meet soon to elect.

Residents of the Sixth Ward of Alexandria will meet Wednesday night at the home of Charles L. Burgess, 123 East Randolph avenue, to take steps looking to the adoption of the ward plan of electing members of the Alexandria city council, as opposed to the at-large plan, the choice of which will be submitted to the electorate on March 29. Under the ward plan one member of the council would be elected from each of the six wards of the city, with three members from the city at large, whereas under the at-large plan seven members would be elected at large.

A meeting in the interest of this movement was held last Wednesday night, when those present unanimously indorsed the ward plan. The committee appointed at that meeting will ask for a meeting of the Citizens Association in order to get the views of the voters on the question.

The Democratic primary will be held April 5, and, in the event the ward plan is adopted on March 29, it is understood the city Democratic committee will permit candidates from the various wards to file their declarations at any time before the primary. The general election will be in August.

Of the five councilmen now in office, two—Benedict Weil and Michael T. Dwyer—will be candidates for re-election. Mayor Edmund F. Ticer and Councilmen Arthur Herbert and C. C. Lamond each have two years to serve of their present terms.

Land Firm Agrees To Protect Values

Chevy Chase Company Will Safeguard Owners if Rezoning Passes.

Agreeing to proper safeguards of property values of nearby properties, the Chevy Chase Land Co. has resubmitted its petition for rezoning of the east side of Wisconsin avenue from the District line north for one block in Montgomery County, Md. The original application filed with the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission was fought by nearby residents on the ground that construction of cheap apartment houses would lower property values.

In its second petition, the company asks rezoning from residential "A" to residential "C" and agrees to construct apartment houses not less than six stories in height and with setbacks on all streets of 40 feet. It was referred to Montgomery County members of the Park and Planning Commission.

A petition asking commercial zoning for property on the east side of Georgia avenue opposite the Montgomery Hills triangle was received from Edward C. Thomas. The property is 300 feet along the avenue and is 125 feet deep and faces a group of stores on the opposite side of the avenue. This also has been referred to the Montgomery County members for recommendation.

Arlington Student Group Organized

Washington Lee High Body Elects Officers; Plans Are Outlined.

The student body of the Washington-Lee High School, assembled in the school auditorium yesterday, perfected the organization of what is to be known as "The Student Association," with the election of Charles Couch as its president. Other officers are John Henry Rize, jr., vice president; Mary Yardley, treasurer and Eloise Sunderman, secretary.

Members of the executive committee, including the above named officers, are Gordon Walker, Catherine Gosnell, Elmo Legg, William Helm, Bryan Gordon, Giles Brown, Virginia Darsey and Ashton Timmons.

The purpose of the organization, as explained by Principal S P. Vanderslice, will be to foster closer relationship between pupils and teacher, to promote student activities and to work out plans to improve school and community citizenship.

Considerable interest was manifested in the selection of the officers and the winners were not chosen by a large vote in any instance.

Brother and Sister Hurt in Crash.

Miss Lila Nicholson and Russell Nicholson, of 224 South Alfred street, were painfully cut and bruised yesterday morning when the automobile in which they were going to Washington was struck by a bus, wrecking their car. Both the injured persons were taken to the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew J. Nicholson, where they received medical treatment. Their injuries are not considered serious.

IN THE CINEMA HOUSES

FOX

"HOTEL CONTINENTAL." Tiffany picturization of a story by F. Hugh Herbert and Paul Perez, featuring Peggy Shannon and Theodore Von Eltz. Directed by Christy Cabanne. Reviewed Friday afternoon.

By NELSON B. BELL.

This is the screen story, I believe, that was inspired by the comparatively recent demolition of the old Waldorf in New York.

A hostelry internationally famous for half a century is holding its last night's revels. On every floor, romance, adventure and comedy are being experienced while vast throngs crowd the lobbies, ballrooms and restaurants. Fleeting glimpses of all this are shown, but the major concern of the play is the love affair that springs up between an embezzler, just released from five years in prison, and the girl who is employed as a lure by two crooks who plan to seize the plunder the absconder has left hidden in the hotel and returns now to salvage before it is too late.

Here is the basis of a plot that ought to turn on the last ounce of suspense and strike fire every minute. As a matter of fact it does neither. The developments are nothing if not placid and at no juncture is there fulfillment of the promise of the excitement in which this sort of melodrama ought to abound. There is a vast amount of tiptoeing through halls, telephoning over a switchboard that has been "fixed" and conferring among the plain clothes men infesting the inn, but nothing much comes of it.

That is to say, nothing much except that the girl crosses her accomplices, takes a bullet in the arm and restores the recovered money to the original thief, whom she feels to be a nice boy. All of the ingredients of a dramatic bombshell are present, as you can plainly see, but somehow the thing just fails to explode.

Both Peggy Shannon and Theodore Von Eltz, in the roles of pivotal importance, are handicapped by dialogue from which the sparkle has been omitted. At no time, furthermore, do they imbue their performances with any convincing display of enthusiasm. J. Farrell MacDonald, as a droll copper, and Rockliffe Fellowes and William Scott, as the crooks in quest of the treasure, seemed to me the most authentic of the lot. Ethel Clayton and Henry B. Walthall, absentees of many months, appear in small parts, and Allan Mowbray acquits himself well in the equally trivial part of Miss Clayton's husband. Bert Roach contributes an amusing study of a slightly jingled playboy and many of the scenes are enlivened by tuneful music—some from visible sources, some not.

As mistress of ceremonies and star of Fanchon & Marco's "Cozy Corner" Idea, Ruth Roland proves a versatile and engaging artiste. Her songs are well sung and vigorously applauded, especially "Auf Wiedersehen," and as a tap dancer she reveals an agile and unsuspected talent.

It is a revue peopled with able performers by which Miss Roland finds herself surrounded. The Four La Monts, dancers, wire walkers, acrobats, comedians and comediennes, offer a small revuelet on their own account and Rector and Doreen are aerialists who present a startling and hazardous routine of difficult feats in midair. The Three Jays, who turned out to be only two yesterday afternoon, are clever hoofers, and Dorothy Roberts is an acrobatic tap dancer of the first rank.

An added attraction is furnished in Eddie East and Ralph Dumke, radio's famous "Sisters of the Skillet," who sing, dance, impersonate and clown their way through a brief turn that is made notable by the excellence of their imitations of Rudy Vallee, Amos 'n' Andy and Bing Crosby.

The bill is completed by a Mack Sennett comedy, "The Flirty Sleepwalker;" Herbert Williams, the nut comedian, in "Out of Tune," and the Fox Movietone News.

PALACE

"DANCERS IN THE DARK." Paramount picturization of "Jazz King," by James Ashmore Creelman, featuring Miriam Hopkins, Jack Oakie, William Collier, jr., and Eugene Pallette. Directed by David Burton. Reviewed Friday evening by W. A. Whitney.

In the lowering of a high morale there is, in a period of depression, only one thing that is worse than rampant unemployment, that is the utilization of workmen for no other reason than to keep them busy. In defense of this thesis, "Dancers in the Dark" is exhibit A. Therein are four master craftsmen, whose labors in a completely inadequate vehicle might be condoned if their efforts had been directed into channels more replete with entertainment value.

As this picture stands, it is testimony—and none too mute—that Miriam Hopkins, Jack Oakie, William Collier, jr., and Eugene Pallette were set to laboring for no other purpose than to keep them actively employed. The story of a dime-a-dance girl and a saxophone player falling in love and the efforts of the band leader to break up the match holds nothing new either in plot or in its development. A little comedy is worked in, as well as is a gangster complication that never seems to get any place.

The principal love motif is furnished by Miss Hopkins and Mr. Collier, with Mr. Oakie doing his best (ostensibly) to break up the match. Mr. Pallette, assisted by Lyda Roberti, furnish the lighter moments, while George Roft creditably makes credible what is supposed to be a dope peddler.

"Dancers in the Dark" falls short of approximating the average of the principals' previous efforts. But the featured players need not fear for their reputations, for, even if this offering is seen, it will not be remembered.

On the stage, "Whirligigs" presents a group of run-of-the-mill variety acts, featuring the Four Flash Devils, a team of colored tap dancers; the White Flashes, a trio of roller-skaters, good but not too exciting; Paul Kirkland, who balances himself on a ladder and a gossamer-weight paper cone on his nose, and Paul Keast, singing "What Is This Thing Called Love?" set off with "period" dances by La Vernes, Barte and Arden, and George Kiddon, assisted by the Chester Hale Girls.

The program is rounded out by Hal Roach's Rascals strutting their stuff in "Readin' and Writin'," a school-beginning subject; a release of Screen Snapshots, and a new issue of the Hearst Metrotone News, with Representative Blanton wrangling with Representatives Beck and Linthicum on the merits of the late prohibition referendum poll.

New Legion Post at Manassas.

A large number of members of Alexandria Post, No. 24, American Legion, including the Drum and Bugle Corps of the post, went to Manassas last night to establish a new legion post at that place. The installation will be under the direction of Clyde B. Lanham, of Alexandria.

COLUMBIA

"THE GREEKS HAD A WORD FOR THEM." United Artists picturization of the Zoe Akins play, adapted by Sidney Howard, starring Ina Claire with Madge Evans and Joan Blondell. Directed by Lowell Sherman. Reviewed Friday evening by Dorothea Lewis.

They call them the three musketeers, but they aren't. They are feminine copies of Flagg and Quirt, and their's is a cock-eyed world!

Jean, Polaire and Schatze, the three little dears, go banging and bingeing about, without much attention to the set of the sail or the number of sheets to the windward. The result is as heady and confusing as the "drinkees," they are always imbibing; as amusing as unbelievable, unnatural and not too subtle farce usually is. At times more so. And as daring in suggestion as the movies have yet tried to be.

We'll treat it like the cocktail it is and tell the ingredients—you can mix the plot yourself.

Three almost equal parts of Polaire, dreamy and lovely and lady-like, most of the time; Schatze, the good-hearted, little peacemaker; Jean, the roistering, piratical, blonde Italian—(we'd like more of Polaire).

One part Dey Emerson, dangerously divided between Polaire and Jean. One part Dey's father, spiced with Jean. One part Boris Feldman, piano player at $2,500 per playing, cut loose from a mink coat by Jean.

Mix these well, run through Polaire's love affair with Dey, complications with Boris, Jean's conquest of Dey's dad, and all of the daily doings of these three easy-living, easier-loving, easiest-fighting ladies; back into the shaker, and then it's up to you whether or not you want to get your glasses ready.

We don't know how good a job Lowell Sherman makes of the direction—it's hard to tell and we didn't see the play, but we vote him almost first honors in his brief and sophisticatedly chuckling performance as Boris.

To the adorable Madge Evans goes our brightest blue ribbon and not just because she has the most sympathetic and human role, but because she continues such an A-1 little actress while growing lovelier all the while.

Ina Claire is an engaging comedienne, and with a few less eye-rollings might have walked off with the mad affair. Her role as Jean was made for laughter, and Ina makes the laughter continuous. Her "not too proud to apologize" is rare.

Joan Blondell, the third of the trio, hasn't so much to do, but is a cute little blonde while she does it. David Manners is surprisingly wooden in a part, quite stiff to begin with.

Mr. Laurel and Mr. Hardy also hold forth this week in "One Good Term," Mr. Laurel to particularly good effect in finally turning upon his ever correct, ever efficient partner and practically annihilating him.

An unusually interesting series of air shots of Washington with the Bureau of Engraving and Printing labeled, the G. P. O. and the Francis Scott Key Bridge moved in from Georgetown to the Lincoln Memorial, and a newsreel complete the bill.

METROPOLITAN

"HIGH PRESSURE." Warner Bros. picturization of a story by S. J. Peters, starring William Powell and featuring Evelyn Brent. Directed by Mervyn Le Roy. Reviewed Friday night by Don B. Reed.

"High Pressure" is a picture full of laughs, and "heaven knows there are only a few of them." William Powell is here once more presented as a comedian, and proves himself even more capable than in some of his gangland, swanky gentleman and great lover roles.

True, Mr. Powell has capable help in putting over the fun of the story, but he is the big shot from start to finish. You can't help laughing at "High Pressure," because from the very first glimpse of Mr. Powell, dead drunk, with a bill for $108 worth of liquor against him, to the final fade-out as he delivers one of his famous promotion pep talks, this one is full of clever lines and clever people. The fine Italian hand of Joe Jackson, who adapted the story to the screen, may be seen in the dialogue, which is rapid-fire and decidedly entertaining.

George Sidney has always been funny, and is in top form here. The dumb-pan face of Frank McHugh excites one to additional mirth, and the love-sick antics of Ben Alexander bring still further chuckles. Then throw in Guy Kibbee in one of his "innocent" characterizations and you have the recipe for an evening of ribtickling. The love portions find William Powell and Evelyn Brent kissing and scrapping and kissing and scrapping again, while Ben Alexander and Evalyn Knapp do likewise although innocently causing some confusion for Powell and Miss Brent.

However, love is secondary in this tale of promotion. Gar Evans is the world's greatest promoter. Mike Donoghey, his friend, admits it. So with the backing of Col. Ginsberg they start out to promote artificial rubber, made from sewage. Ginsberg claims to have an inventor who can turn the trick. Gar drums up a tremendous business only to find that the inventor is a lunatic.

Powell as Evans, George Sidney as Col. Ginsberg, Frank McHugh as Donoghey, and Miss Brent as Francine are splendidly cast and each gives a flawless performance. An excellent bit, as the mad inventor, is offered by Harry Beresford, while others who contribute to the success of the piece are John Wray, Polly Walters, Harold Waldridge and Luis Alberni.

"The Skull Murder Mystery," an S. S. Van Dyne story, is one of three entertaining short subjects which complete this highly amusing bill. The second is "Beyond the Blue Horizon," featuring some swell scenic shots and music by Vincent Lopez and his orchestra, while the third is the Paramount News featured by a wet and dry debate.

RIALTO

"LAW AND ORDER." Universal screen version of W. R. Burnett's story, "Saint Johnson," adapted by John Huston, featuring Walter Huston, Raymond Hatton and Harry Carey. Directed by Edward L. Cahn. Reviewed Friday night by J. P. Brady.

A real Western drama, stirring, thrilling, tense, "Law and Order" takes you back to the pioneer days of the West and presents a drama most interesting to those who like this type of picture.

It has everything that makes up a "wild West" film—it has the peace-loving citizens, the ones who take the situations into their own hands, and the element which seeks to bring peace and order out of chaos. And through all of this runs the roar of pistols, the hangman's noose, the drunkard's orgies—the disruption of "Law and Order."

Here is a story, historic in a sense, bristling with bloodshed for the purpose of bringing about the establishment of law and order. It is a drama of big proportions, well played by its many important characters, directed with a skill which provides a smooth running story, with perfect photography.

Of the many gun-play scenes, the most exciting is the last stand of the boys who tried to clean up "Tombstone" and met their fate like many others who had gone before with the same purpose in mind.

It happened that one "Saint Johnson" (Walter Huston) came to town with his four henchmen, with the firm purpose of settling down and forever forsaking the "marshal" badge—this "Saint Johnson" being known as the "man who cleaned up" other towns. He arrives at a time when gun-play is much in vogue and in course of time accepts the challenge to break the power of the Northerners. Through much gang trouble he achieves some success—has adopted "trial before the judge" and a law against carrying a gun. Not much luck follows the gun law and when one of his men is killed he finally gives ue.

Walter Huston does some excellent work in this, his latest, picture and although somewhat different from many of his previous successes, like "Gentlemen of the Press," "Abraham Lincoln" and others, this is not his best, unless one particularly likes the Western type.

The supporting cast is excellent, including Raymond Hatton, Ralph Ince, Russell Simpson and Harry Carey.

The additional features on the bill are an interesting travelog "Voodoo Land," the Universal Newsreel, a comedy, "Monkey Shines," and a "Tal-o-graph."

About The Showshops

With NELSON B. BELL

IT is interesting the way this West Coast whirligig revolves. Four or five years ago John Gilbert wrote a motion picture story with the central character a scoundrel, a real 24-carat blackguard. At the time he found it difficult to imagine any one but Erich Von Stronheim in the role.

But the last few years have brought a decided change in public viewpoint as regards stars who perform cinematic deeds justifying imprisonment or death as the last reel approaches. So Gilbert himself will play the role.

The story, which bears the name of "Downstairs," has its locale almost entirely on a huge estate in Germany.

Gilbert will be seen as a chauffeur whose villainy disrupts the whole household, both "upstairs" and "downstairs." In a way, the author-star explains, "Downstairs" is a psychological study, a close-up view of two contrasted strata of life. Although the background is one of opulence and luxury, the action principally concerns the menials on the estate.

It will come a little hard for some to deem such diverse types as John Gilbert and Erich Von Stroheim easily interchangeabe.

So many of them were in attendance at the recent convention of the Motion Picture Theater Owners of America, at the Mayflower, and enjoyed it so much that the executives of Loew's, Inc., decided to hold a little convention of their own in Washington.

Yesterday Charles C. Moscowitz, vice president, popped back into town, accompanied by Lawrence Beattus, formerly managing director of the Loew houses in the Capital, but now a territorial manager in Jersey, and William Saxton, in charge of the Loew interests in Baltimore. Tomorrow, Col. Harry Long will join the council, being as, of course, you know, Eastern division manager for Loew's.

What with all the conferences that are being held, it won't be any good trying to crash Carter Barron's office for a couple of days at least.

Speaking of the Palace—and we almost were—Eddy Gilmore, the new publicist who has succeeded to the duties recently vacated by Master Jim Lundy, informs me that the personal appearance of The Street Singer, one of radio's best-known performers, has been postponed to an early April date to insure a seven-day engagement.

Had he appeared here this month, he would have been prevented by radio contracts from working the full seven days.

Ruth Roland, screen and stage star appearing in person at the Fox this week—and incidentally reputed to be one of Hollywood's richest women—was the guest of honor at the Riding and Hunt Club last night, where local lovers of horseflesh put on one of the smartest shows of the season. Miss Roland, herself an accomplished horsewoman, presented several of the prizes.

On Monday afternoon, by the way, Miss Roland, together with the other members of the cast of the "Cozy Corner" Idea, now playing the Fox, will put on a show, between their regular performances at the theater, for the boys out at Walter Reed Hospital.

I wonder if it makes Frances Williams and Ann Pennington, of the "Everybody's Welcome" cast, playing a three-performance engagement at the Belasco, a little homesick to find Washington fairly well plastered with announcements of the coming tomorrow night of George White's "Scandals" to the Washington Auditorium? Not that it matters.

"Everybody's Welcome," unless that was you who just slammed the door from the outside, is managed by the youngest and most popular of all the Shubert company managers, one Mr. Abe Cohen, who, I understand, insures good notices for his show by staging one of his own for the reviewers as they enter the theater. A very droll chap, so that other astute showman, Mr. Charlie McClintock tells me.

And had you heard that Fifi D'Orsay has been in town for a week and will be for another one?

Yes, so I hear, but it is being kept a profound secret because the fiery Miss Fifi is snatching herself a bit of a vacation and does not choose to be annoyed.

Those robins were doing a little house hunting out in the back yard yesterday afternoon, and did they raise the dickens when they discovered that their umbrella tree had been trimmed back to about half its former expansiveness!

They might, at least, save all that swearing until the leaves come out and they know what they're talking about!

Nomination of Vaiden Is Favorably Reported

(Associated Press.)

The Senate banking committee yesterday reported favorably upon the nomination of Volosko Vaiden, of Farmville, Va., to be a member of the Farm Loan Board.

The report, recommending that Vaiden be confirmed, was submitted on behalf of the committee by Senator Glass (Democrat), Virginia. Vaiden is to succeed George R. Cooksey, resigned. Cooksey is now one of the officials of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

THE THEATER LAST NIGHT

"EVERYBODY'S WELCOME." The Messrs. Shubert present a new musical comedy, with book by Lambert Carroll, suggested by "Up Pops the Devil," by Albert Hackett and Frances Goodrich; music by Sammy Fain; lyrics by Irving Kahal. Staged by William Caryl. Reviewed by Frank P. Morse. At the Belasco Theater.

There are moments during the earlier scenes of "Everybody's Welcome" when one fears that the cast will handicap itself by following the plot of "Up Pops the Devil," which was the genesis of this musical frivolity. Fortunately, a coterie that includes Frances Williams, Oscar Shaw, Ann Pennington, Harriette Lake, Jack Sheehan and Victor Morley is above such temptation. The latter half of the first act and practically all of the second are converted into an honest burlesque of the original play, and all is well.

The Messrs. Shubert have really given us a third of an old-home week at the Belasco. There are so many friends of other nights, on the stage at one time, that it is difficult to withstand a temptation to muscle in on one or another of the gin parties that punctuate the action of the piece. Ann Pennington displays her knees with all the enthusiasm one might expect on a Ziegfeld first-night. Frances Williams puts over song after song with the nonchalant skill that helped to carry the "Scandals of '29" to success. Oscar Shaw, Jack Sheehan and Victor Morley revive memories that range from "Leave it to Jane" to the dear old Aubrey Stock Company.

We have two definite suggestions to offer the management. "Everybody's Welcome" should be given more than a two days' welcome in Washington, and the Williams-Shaw-Pennington - Lake - Sheehan - Morley combination should be given carte blanche to cut loose from all tender feelings for memories of "Up Pops the Devil." Whenever this gifted sextet go completely Weber and Fields they make "Everybody's Welcome" a sheer delight. It then becomes as far superior to the original as Raymond Hitchcock caused "The Man Who Owns Broadway" to drown recollections of "Popularity."

The Tom Jones Orchestra provides strenuous accompaniment for the singing and frivolity. The musicians go in strong for volume of sound, but not, unhappily, quite loud enough to provide opposition to a diplomatic (in a manner of speaking) party that dug into the third row last evening and annoyed half the audience with their bander-log vocal activities. Yet there were intervals when the strings and brass were held to a near-whisper, particularly in the accompaniment to Miss Williams when she sang "As Time Goes By," one of the hits of the evening.

The audience picked two spots in the entertainment for special approval. One was the interpolation of "Ta Ta, Old Bean," amusingly sung and acted by Oscar Shaw, Harriette Lake, Frances Williams and Jack Sheehan. The other was a newsreel burlesque, which advertised the appearance of Gandhi in a loin-cloth manufactured from a sheet borrowed from London's Savoy Hotel and, later, reminded the audience that the theater could be emptied in three minutes if they ran like h—— for the exits.

Our own favorite bits were a momentary mimicry of the late Mr. Foy by Frances Williams, the kitchen activities of Oscar Shaw and a perfectly gorgeous drunken dance exhibition by a gifted gentleman, possibly Andrew Carr, whose number does not get credit on the program. "Nature Played a Dirty Trick on You," "They're All Falling in Love" (a bit reminiscent of Cole Porter's "Let's Do It"), "Is Rhythm Necessary?" and "Even As You and I" are other song numbers that assist materially in making "Everybody's Welcome" a really attractive invitation to the Belasco Theater this afternoon and evening.

LYNCHING PROBERS DECLINE TO INDICT

123 Witnesses Are Heard in Inquiry Into Maryland Mob Slaying.

Salisbury, Md., March 18 (A.P.).—The Wicomico County grand jury failed to return any indictments today at the completion of its investigation of the lynching of Matthew Williams, Negro, here last December, and the activities of "outside organizations" in the county.

After spending most of four days in listening to 123 witnesses, the grand jury handed up to Judge Joseph L. Bailey no charges resulting from its triple-phrased probe—that of the lynching of Williams, the murder of Daniel J. Elliott, prominent lumberman, by Williams, and activities of a group which Judge Bailey said in his charge to the jury was "interference of outside organizations in this section of the State."

State, county and city police officials, members of the Peninsula General Hospital staff, prominent business men and industrial leaders of the three southern counties of the Eastern Shore, two Baltimore detectives and several Negroes were among the witnesses who filed through the grand jury room during the course of the investigation.

Williams was lynched by a mob which invaded the Peninsula General Hospital on December 4 and took him to the courthouse green, where they hanged him from a tree.

Earlier in the day Williams had approached his employer, Elliott, and shot him to death. While he was fleeing from the scene he suffered two wounds, a serious one from the gun of Elliott's son and the other, a slight one, from his own gun, which he turned on himself. Williams confessed the murder.

The men were arrested by Sergt. D. L. Snyder, of the Takoma Park substation and Policeman Charles Barnes, of the Silver Spring substation. Both were released on bond of $500 each for appearance in county police court at Rockville, April 9.

NATS STAGE LATE RALLIES TO DEFEAT COLONELS, 8 TO 7; SAKS REACHES QUARTER-FINALS IN A. A. U. TOURNAMENT

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

Biloxi, Miss., March 18.

MR. WILLIAM HARRIDGE, president of the American League, who has been sunning himself in the South and in conjunction with his tour of the big league training camps, made Biloxi, base of the Nats, his point of call today and will be the guest of President Clark Griffith over the week-end.

Mr. Harridge's opinions for publication on the 1932 pennant race can be quoted exactly as major league president's precampaign opinions have been quoted for the past umpteen years, for they are unswerving in their declarations that it looks like a warm race from the start, with several of the second-division clubs going to cause a lot of trouble, and give the leaders a battle all the way, with the ultimate winner apt to know that it has been in a fight.

But this column will deal with other ideas of Mr. Harridge, who is a very capable and progressive gentleman, and unanimously popular with the club owners of the American League who pay him a princely salary to promote and protect their harmony and welfare.

For the past several seasons, as secretary to the late former American League presidents, Ban Johnson and Ernest Barnard, Mr. Harridge has observed with interest and envy the close races in the National League that filled the coffers of the club owners to the bursting point while the American loop, with the exception of the three leading clubs, suffered greatly as a result of the one-sided competition.

The lean intake among the second division clubs of the American League is directly attributable to the fact that the Yankees and Athletics have made runaway races of the pennant campaigns since 1927 with interest in the West virtually stagnant after midseason as a result of the eclipse of the Western teams by the East's.

Mr. Harridge's prayer is that the West will develop at least one more contender besides the Cleveland Club to heighten this unbalanced interest which has forced club owners to take terrific losses when West meets West during the latter half of the season.

In shining contrast has been the well-balanced competition in the National League with four clubs, the Cardinals, Giants, Cubs and Pirates figuring in close races and Brooklyn cutting in for a large share of the attendance with the Braves, early season spurts often times making it a six-club race in the older of the two big league circuits. Even the Phillies have shown profits, with the Reds the only money loser in the league.

Even the schedule is operating against the financial success of the American League with the Yankees, Athletics and Nats virtually playing a round-robin among themselves during the first month of the season when intrasectional games are on the schedule.

While these Eastern contenders are cutting each other's throat, the weak Western clubs will be playing among themselves, and the West, with the exception of Cleveland, has lacked first division baseball during the first month of the past several seasons, which situation constitutes a knife in the back of the attendance hopes.

Far back in the mind of Mr. Harridge is a plan to remedy this situation by so arranging the opening of the schedule that East invades West, or vice versa, thus assuring interesting competition of interest in all sectors at the start of play, but inasmuch as this is a matter for the schedule committee, Mr. Harridge can not be quoted.

The elimination of the throat-cutting series among the strong Eastern clubs at the start of the season, would assure at least a three-way race for the flag, barring upsets, and eliminate also the custom by the Athletics, Yankees and Nats of fattening up on the weak Boston Red Sox, who each season are virtually beaten back out of the race by the demands of the schedule.

Oklahoma Grid Coach Resigns Under Fire

Norman, Okla., March 18 (A.P.).—Adrian Lindsay, head football coach at the University of Oklahoma for the last five years, tendered his resignation today to become effective at the close of the present school year.

He said he had reached the conclusion his retirement "is probably best for all concerned." Lindsay has been under fire by student and alumni factions because of the showing of last year's football team, which won only one Big Six Conference game.

U. of Penn Abandons Eastern Boxing Body

Syracuse, N. Y., March 18 (A.P.).—Resignation of the University of Pennsylvania from the Intercollegiate Boxing Association was made known today by Leonard Mason, supervisor of boxing and wrestling at that university.

Mason said that Pennsylvania had withdrawn, effective following the completion of the meet here. Withdrawal of Pennsylvania leaves five universities in the association: Army, Syracuse, Penn State, Western Maryland and Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Navy withdrew from the association last year when Army was admitted.

A. G. O. Beats St. Martin's By 33-32

War Five Trails by 13-2 at One Stage; Rockville Bows.

St. Martin's Boys in Finals; Northern Preps Ahead.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

"DARK HORSES" in the District A. A. U. basket ball tournament were lassoed last night, brought down with a clatter of hoofs and led docilely away at Tech High Gymnasium, where favorites strode forward in The Post-sponsored tournament, and the final round was gained in three weight divisions.

Rockville, a choice upsetter, was downed in forthright fashion by the Saks Clothiers, 53-23; the Aloha Lites, 130-pound form upheavers, went out at the hands of the Northern Preps, and the Brookland Eagles, 100-pound upset masters, fell before the favored St. Martin's Midgets. The girls' game resulted in an overwhelming 52-9 victory for the Highlanders over the highly touted Park View Sextet.

The only dark horse that trampled opposition was the War Department's A. G. O. Five, which won one of the most spectacular games of the entire tournament by beating St. Martin's 145-pound team, 33-32, in a game that sent about 500 thrill-soaked fans out into the night mumbling the praises of all concerned.

Clothiers Lead From Start.

The Clothiers dominated Rockville from the start, striding over the loose defensive play of the suburbanites with irresistible force, leading 27-12 at the half and at all times showing the brand of team play and superb marksmanship which has made them the most famous independent team in recent local basket ball history.

Every Clothier scored, from Big Bill Noonan, 6-foot-3 center, down to and including Shorty Sebastion and Bobby Lucas, fleet footed and sterling marksmen. Only two sectors of the Rockville team offered first class competition, Fred Lanier, loose-limbed guard, and Jack Markland, burly center. The rifling Clothier passing riddled Rockville from the beginning, while when either Lanier or Markland did bring the ball down the floor, with evil intentions upon Saks' basket, they found an all but invulnerable defensive wall in front of them. Only through excessively long shots were they able to score, and this did not prove to be a reliable source of gaining points.

John Sherman stood out slightly in the Saks offense, but it seemed that any of the ten players used could have done as well had it so happened that they were fed underneath the cords. By their victory Saks gained many more supporters as ranking No. 1 favorites to win the unlimited section, even though they are seeded behind both the Griffith Consumers and D. and H.

A. G. O., Minus Basket For 17 Minutes, Winner

It was seventeen minutes after the start of their game with St. Martin's that the A. G. O. five scored their first field goal, and drew a mock ovation, for the score stood 13 to 2 against them and the Saints were giving early promise of turning the fray into an utter rout, with Plant and Dunn scoring at will.

But before the half had closed Bugg and Klovstad had brought the score up to 13 to 10. With the start of the second half, St. Martin's breezed back into high gear and raced to the prohibitive lead of 25 to 13, with half of the half gone, only to stand by in evident amazement as the gangling legged A. G. O.'s began that strange one-handed shooting and loose-armed passing that proved the downfall of St. John's earlier in the tournament.

In a race with the stop watch, and a victorious one, the A. G. O. club caught St. Martin's at 27-to-27 when Cecil Bugg looped in an impossible one-hand shot, and with three minutes left of the game Ortel gave his side a lead of 28 to 27 and Bugg turned the scoreboard up to 30 to 27. But St. Martin's was not going to yield that easily. Dunn drew it up to 30 to 29 on a beautiful snowbird and Plant coolly tied the score at 30 to 30 on a foul shot that was good from the moment it left his hands.

Furious play marked the last minute of the game. Ortel proved his mettle by sinking a shot in the midst of a pile-up beneath the St. Martin's basket and was awarded a foul shot, which he also made, for 33 to 30. With a half minute to go St. Martin's was in almost constant possession of the ball. Dunn's potshot brought the score to 33 to 32 and several shots reeled agonizingly around the rim only to drop out.

PICARD TOPS GOLFERS IN FLORIDA

Outsider's 70 Leads Hagen and Wood by Stroke.

By REX SAFFER.

MIAMI - BILTMORE GOLF COURSE, Coral Gables, Fla., March 18 (A.P.).—P. G. Picard, of Charleston, S. C., who stole away from the golf course before photographers could get his picture as a "dark horse," won first day honors in the $10,000 Coral Gables Miami-Biltmore open golf tournament by carding a 34—36—70 for the initial 18 holes of the 72-hole event.

One stroke behind him were Walter Hagen, who scored a 32 on the outbound trip only to take 39 in the return for a 71, and Craig Wood, Deal, N. J., with a 36—35—71 in in par figures.

In the 72 rung of the golfing ladder were Johnny Farrell, New York; Ray Mangrum, New York, and Archie Hambrick, Zanesville, Ohio.

The 73 mark carried the names of Herman Barron, Port Chester, N. Y.; Bill Mehlhorn, New York; Gene Sarazen, New York; Paul Runyan, New York; Wiffy Cox, Brooklyn, and Ralph Redmond, St. Petersburg, Fla., leading amateur in the days' plays.

Picard's card:

In ..... 4 4 2 4 4 5 4 5 4—36—70

Par for the course:

Out ..... 5 3 4 4 4 4 4 3 4—35
In ..... 4 4 3 4 3 5 4 4 5—36—71

First play in the tournament was under adverse conditions with wind and spasmodic rains taking a heavy toll of the 116 golfers who hoped to cheat par in play for the richest purse in the United States.

Picard shot a 34, 1 under par, on the outbound nine. He had a birdie 4 on the 490-yard first, took par 3 on the second and dropped a long putt on the 410-yard third for a birdie 3.

He had par 4s on the fourth and fifth, but 3-putted on the sixth to take 5 and repeated his performance on the 380-yard seventh. A birdie 2 on the eighth again put him 1 under par at the turn. He was even with par on the inbound trip.

Wolgast, Pancho Ready for Clash

U. S. Flyweight Star Boxes Filipino Idol Tonight in Honolulu.

Honolulu, March 18 (A.P.).—Midget Wolgast, recognized in several American States as flyweight champion, and Little Pancho, of Manila, are reported in excellent condition for their ten-round fight tomorrow night.

Wolgast's title claims will not be involved, for they will weigh about 115 pounds, three pounds above the flyweight limit.

Never in the history of Hawaii has greater interest been shown in a fight. The large Filipino population, who regard Pancho as an idol, have bought the best seats with dimes saved in weeks of work and have bet heavily on him to win.

The bout is scheduled to begin at 9:30 p. m. (3 a. m. Sunday Eastern standard time).

Mangin and Shields in Finals

Newark Star Routs Lott by Scores of 6-1, 9-7, 6-0.

Davis Cup Player Is Victor Over Bell, 6-4, 6-4, 6-4.

By GAYLE TALBOT.

NEW YORK, March 18 (A.P.).—Francis X. Shields, Davis Cup star, of New York, and Gregory S. Mangin, of Newark, who couldn't even crash the select "first ten" last year, are the strangely assorted pair who battled their way today into the finals of the National Indoor Tennis Tournament.

Shields, the country's third ranking player, employed his blinding service and steady baseline game, to dispose of Berkeley Bell, the tumbling former Texan, 6—4, 6—4, 6—4. Bell couldn't break the tall New Yorker's delivery, so was doomed.

Mangin, the 22-year-old graduate of Georgetown University, who was ranked No. 11 last season and has never won a national title, triumphed over the veteran, George Lott, jr., of Chicago, ranked No. 2, 6—1, 9—7, 6—0, in the other semifinal.

Thus, two players who were not considered in the same class by the ranking committee, will meet in tomorrow's five-set final. An international star against a player who, up to the present tournament never displayed championship caliber. Yet it promises to be as bitter a skirmish as any one could hope to see.

Mangin Proves Giant Killer.

Mangin, on successive days, has waded through three ranking stars of this country and France without the loss of a set. The Newark ace was called upon first to eliminate Christian Boussus, crack French lefthander, in the third round. He followed that yesterday by overwhelming Sidney B. Wood, of New York, Wimbledon champion, and capped his great streak by giving Lott an artistic lacing today.

Shields, on the other hand, has enjoyed a fairly easy path to the finals, Bell offering him his first serious opposition today. If Mangin plays tomorrow like he has the last three days, Shields will need every stroke in his racquet to win.

In taking Lott over the hurdles, Mangin was close approach to tennis perfection. His service was severe and his drives from either side were scorching. Time and again he ended long rallies with "impossible" shots that left Lott shaking his head and the gallery applauding wildly. Lott seldom could reach the net for his favorite volleying game.

Chicagoan Makes Lone Stand.

Only in the second set, when the score was carried to deuce, did the Chicago veteran make any kind of a stand. The first and third sets saw Mangin in complete command. Lott winning only 10 points in the final. Lott isn't the player indoors he is on clay or grass.

Bell, who supplied the tournament's previous highlight by blasting out Jean Borotra, France's defending champion, didn't play the same game against Shields today. Either by design or necessity, he changed from a hard-driving game to a soft, placement style, and Shields thrived on it. The long-legged New Yorker swarmed all over the court and shot Bell's best ones right back until Berkeley either netted or drove out of bounds.

Not until the final set did Bell succeed in breaking Shield's service, and then it was too late.

Lott and his Davis Cup partner, Johnny Van Ryn, of Philadelphia, reached the finals in doubles by defeating Shields and Eugene McCauliff, of New York, 6—1, 12—10, 3—6, 9—8. They will face Bell and Mangin over the five-set route for the championship.

BLAZING THE BASEBALL TRAIL

Bradenton, Fla., March 18 (A.P.).—Pepper Martin looked like the "wild horse of the Osage" from last year's world's series again today. His base running in the ninth inning of an exhibition game today enabled the world champions to whip the Phillies, 4-3, after trailing by three runs early in the game.

Pepper opened the inning with a walk and took second on Mancuso's sacrifice. He was nearly caught off second and reached third on McCurdy's wild heave. He beat Hurst's throw home for the deciding run.

James "Rip" Collins tripled with the bases full to give the Cardinals a tying score.

Edwards, Tech's Baseball Coach, Resigns His Post

Wondrack and Doerr in Line for High School Job.

ON THE eve of the scholastic baseball season Mal Edwards, coach of baseball at Tech High, resigned yesterday, and will assume a legal position with the District government within the next several days.

Assistant Superintendent of Schools Frank E. Kramer, assisted by Frank Daniel, principal of Tech High, will name a successor within the next few days. It was understood yesterday, from a reputable source, that included in the list of four applicants and eligibles for the job are Artie Wondrack and Paul Doerr, graduates of Maryland University. At least one out-of-town man is being considered.

Edwards came to Tech in 1929 from the University of Indiana, where he was well known in basket ball circles. The court game was his teaching forte, but Tech was already endowed with an outstanding basket ball figure in Artie Boyd. Edwards' baseball teams suffered the fate of four of the five other high school teams in recent diamond history—that of trailing behind the unbeaten and unmolested Eastern High nine.

Hap Hardell, for nine years the head of Tech High's physical training department, paid tribute to Edwards as an enspiriting influence upon the students at Tech. "I don't believe that any man we've ever had here was more naturally gifted in physical education work. He won the intense admiration and respect of the boys with no effort. He was not happily placed in the teaching of baseball, and knew it, but he had something greater than mere ability to teach a sport; he had characteristics which were of distinct aid to the boys he came in contact with. In that respect he will be hard to replace."

Forbra, 50-1, Wins Grand National

Unknown Gelding, 7, Leads 2 Long Shots; Only 9 Finish.

Heartbreak Hill, Sea Soldier Far Back; Grakle Refuses.

By FRANK H. KING.

LIVERPOOL, Eng., March 18 (A.P.). Forbra, a long-legged brown 7-year-old gelding, unknown to racing fame, today won the ninety-third running of the Grand National, the moral of which is that nobody can buy a ready-made winner for the world's greatest steeplechase classic.

Owned by William Parsonage, a Shropshire farmer and on occasions a bookmaker, and ridden by John Hamey, of the north country, Forbra took the 8,000 Sterling Purse (about $32,000) by three lengths from Mrs. Ireland's Ecremont, another rank outsider. W. H. Midwood's Shaun Goilin, winner two years ago, but a 40-to-1 chance today, was third, far back.

So little considered in the prerace betting that he was not mentioned in the official callover, Forbra paid 50 to 1 from the bookmakers and almost 100 to 1 in the pari mutuel machines.

For thirteen American owners, who invested sizable fortunes buying their Grand National jumpers, there was nothing but disappointment. Only Mrs. C. S. Bird, jr.'s Heartbreak Hill, Sea Soldier, the American-bred son of Man o' War, and Jesse Metcalf's Theras finished the course. Heartbreak Hill was sixth, Sea Soldier eighth and Theras ninth and last.

Grakle Fails to Finish.

Worse fate, however, awaited the rest of the fancied favorites, about which miles of printed matter had been written regarding form and records, all of which was worth nothing in the race in which luck rides the winner. C. R. Taylor's Grakle, winner last year and cofavorite at 8 to 1 with Heartbreak Hill, and Mrs. M. A. Gemmell's Gregalach, 1929 victor, failed to complete the course.

In sunshiny weather, like American springtime, the biggest crowd that ever saw the Grand National witnessed spills and thrills over the jumps strung out over the 4½-mile course. Estimated at 200,000, the great throng was a cross-section of gullible humanity aglow with misplaced confidence about likely winners.

Forbra, with 147 pounds, carried the bottom weight and was one of the few lightweights in the history of the race even to finish the course. With hard, firm going, the conditions favored the light, speedy jumper. In fact, today's classic favored racers as well as jumpers.

This was particularly apparent with Sea Soldier, the only American-bred horse in the race. He fenced faultlessly all of the way, finished in perfect stride, but was unable to keep pace with the leaders.

Heartbreak Hill Unlucky.

Heartbreak Hill came home places earlier than Sea Soldier entirely due to superior speed after an unlucky interference at Valentine's Brook on the first time around the course. It was at Valentine's that most of the favorites came to grief.

From a perfect start the cavalcade of 36 horses charged for the first fence, rose and cleared it perfectly like a colorful wave. Lex Wilson, Canadian jockey, fearing interference, kept Sea Soldier far to the outside, to the right and rear of the phalanx formation.

All also cleared the second fence, but at the third obstacle, three American horses—R. K. Mellon's Alike and Clangesia and M. D. Blair's Aruntius—refused to jump, both Mellon's horses running out.

With Becher's Brook passed safely a debacle occurred, two fences later. Gregalach refused to jump and spread confusion among the field. Horses broke and ran in all directions. Grakle, the favorite, refused; Heartbreak Hill suffered interference and narrowly escaped falling, and Sea Soldier

Marital Troubles Of Kearns Settled

Dempsey's Former Manager Granted Divorce; Wife Gets Cash.

Chicago, March 18 (A.P.).—Jack Kearns, manager of many boxers, was granted a default divorce today from Legana Kearns, of New York City, on grounds of desertion.

The action of Judge Daniel P. Trude, ending eight years of litigation and controversy, was taken after Kearns amended his bill for annulment of the marriage to one of divorce. Mrs. Kearns simultaneously has been suing for separate maintenance.

Kearns gave his wife's attorney a certified check for $6,000 and agreed to furnish bond to guarantee payment of the remaining $6,000 of the financial settlement within 60 weeks at the weekly rate of $100. An agreement that Kearns would pay his wife $500 a month for life, made when they separated in March, 1924, was declared canceled. Mrs. Kearns agreed to drop several suits brought against her husband and to waive dower rights. The hearing lasted ten minutes.

Jack Dempsey's former manager said "Don't make me laugh," when asked if he intended to marry again.

The couple married in September, 1920. Judge Trude recently ruled the marriage was legal.

FULLER ADDS WALLACE TO K. O. LIST

Right to Jaw Gives Bostonian Bout in Seventh.

NEW YORK, March 18 (A.P.).—Sammy Fuller, stocky Boston lightweight, took another stride toward the lightweight title tonight when he stopped the veteran Billy Wallace, of Cleveland, in the seventh round of a scheduled 10-round bout at Madison Square Garden. Fuller weighed 138¼, Wallace 135.

The sudden termination of tonight's joust caught the 4,000 spectators by surprise. Wallace, who is a radio crooner in his off moments, was doing well enough up to that time. In the fifth round he had floored Fuller cleanly with a right to the jaw and had given the Boston lad a rousing fight in the sixth, causing Fuller to bleed from the nose.

Up to the time Fuller turned the dial on the Cleveland crooner, Wallace had been credited with two rounds, the fourth and fifth, while Fuller had earned three, the second, third and sixth. The first was a stand-off. Fuller entered the ring a 5-to-2 favorite.

The veteran barely struggled to his feet as the timekeeper tolled nine,

Knight Beats Rosenbloom, Earns Bout With Godwin.

Daytona Beach, Fla., March 18 (U P.).—Joe Knight, Cairo, Ga., won a popular ten-round decision over Maxie Rosenbloom here tonight, slugging his way to victory with a powerful southpaw attack. Knight weighed 177; Rosenbloom, 178.

Knight thus won a match with Bob Godwin Southern champion, here in three weeks, and has been offered a bout with the winner of the Nichols-Maier match by Nate Lewis.

Nats Show 15-Hit Attack; Judge Is Held Hitless.

By SHIRLEY L. POVICH
(Sports Editor of The Post).

BILOXI, Miss., March 18.—The Nats widened their swath in the grapefruit circuit this afternoon when they rose in their might in the ninth inning and pushed a single run around the bases that was sufficient to break a deadlock and net an 8-to-7 victory over the Louisville Colonels of the American Association, their third consecutive success against Class AA competition.

Mr. Walter Johnson's athletes again exhibited their pleasing habit of overtaking the opposition from the rear in the late innings, for Louisville had established itself in a 3-to-0 lead at the expense of Bob Friedrich in the first two frames, and after the Nats had pounded out four runs in the third. The Colonels, abetted by an error by Buddy Myer, compiled three more runs in the sixth off Lefty Lynn Griffith.

That this 6-to-4 lead of the Colonels would not suffice was established when the Nats countered in the seventh with a three-run uprising, but Big Frank Ragland was unable to protect this slender advantage and the Nats saw it vanish into a deadlock when Louisville mustered a run in the eighth.

MY DANDY, AT 10 TO 1, WINS IN TROPICAL PARK FEATURE

French Lass Beaten by Length

7-Year-Old Is Timed at 1:12 Despite Slow Footing.

Come On Winner in Feature Race at Fair Grounds.

TROPICAL PARK, March 18 (A.P.).—My Dandy, the 7-year-old gelding which races in the green and white silks of the Reichert brothers, found the slow footing here today exactly to his liking and surprised a good-sized crowd by driving to victory in the Plaza Handicap of 6 furlongs. The old fellow won by a length. The time of 1:12 was fast, considering the track condition. Showers fell for a greater part of the afternoon.

Second money went to N. J. McClure's French Lass, which was a single span before the gray speed marvel, Silver Cord. Uluniu just missed getting up for the show.

My Dandy held up the start 4 minutes and finally broke from an outside stall. He was first in motion, but Silver Cord had superior early foot and opened up daylight. Leyland rated My Dandy a length or more in front of French Lass. Turning into the stretch Leyland called on My Dandy and the Westerner gradually wore down Silver Cord to take command and hold it gamely when French Lass made a closing bid. Jack Collins, Double Heart and Uluniu never were prominent.

Mike Reynolds Beats Juveniles.

Mike Reynolds was a driving winner of the half-mile juvenile dash which opened the card, the son of Bildur scoring by a length to return $21.90. Smoke Cloud took the place from All Play by a length and a half. Harvey Elston broke Mike Reynolds on top, but Smoke Cloud headed the eventual winner at the furlong pole. It was a desperate drive to the wire and Mike Reynolds spurted in the closing strides and drew away. Smoke Cloud met interference around the stretch turn when All Play came over on him but it was not serious enough to change the result.

The finish of the third event brought the crowd to its feet with Brookside, favorite, and the well-played Coots reaching the judges noses apart as named. Five lengths back came Marabou to annex third money. Buddy Ensor gave the winner a strong ride. He sent Brookside to the fore and nursed the mare along on the stretch, where he came wide to the better going. Harry Hieover, which forced the pace to that point, gave way and Coots stole through on the inside in the bad footing. It appeared as if Coots was going to pass Brookside after getting to the leader coming to the sixteenth pole, but the gelding hung on the money. Brookside paid $4.80.

Buddy Ensor put up a corking ride on Wrack Royal to earn his second success of the day in the fifth event. Buddy's mount got up in the late stages to score by three parts of a length over Wave Top, while Bounding Deep, favorite, was beaten a neck for the place. Wave Top showed fine speed in the soft going, while Ensor rated Wrack Royal close to the pace, not making a move until leaving the back stretch. Wrack Royal responded gamely to Ensor's call and won going away. Bounding Deep broke very slowly and closed an immense gap. The winner returned $7.10.

Come On Winner at Fair Grounds.

New Orleans, March 18 (A.P.).—Come On, a 5-year-old son of Sweep On, spread-eagled his field to win the one and one-sixteenth mile feature on an all-claiming card at the Fair Grounds today.

Mavro was the first away from the barrier, but R. G. Cooper was not long in sending Come On to the front. The speedy plater steadily drew away from his field and at the finish had a three-length advantage over B. Young's Lady Gibson. Cousin Judy, from the Tennessee Breeders' Association stable, was third.

Louisiana Derby Test Draws Entries of 12

Twelve 3-year-olds are entered overnight for the mile and a furlong stake, with the John J. Robinson entry of Lucky Tom and Renaissance expected to go to the post favorite on the betting.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—COMMON, $8.00, $6.60, $4.60; HIGHEST POINT, $27.40, $13.20; FOREIGN PLAY, $3.60.

COMMON went to the front after they had gone a sixteenth and drew away rounding the far turn. He had his opposition soundly beaten in stretch run. HIGHEST POINT made a bold effort coming into home stretch, but hung when put to a drive. FOREIGN PLAY broke fast and showed early speed, was tiring at end and driving hard to stall off CAPTAIN ED. Latter closed a big gap and finished with a rush on the outside.

THIRD RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $800; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, easily. Went to post at 3:53. Off at 3:56. Winner, E. McCuan's br. m. (9), by Wrack—Mollie Kean. Trained by owner. Value to winner, $600; second, $125; third, $50; fourth, $25. Time, 0:23 4-5, 0:47 3-5, 1:13 1-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—OBSERVATION, $39.40, $12.30, $6.80; MR. DICK, $12.00, $6.20; STRETCHER, $4.00.

OBSERVATION, under slight restraint and going wide all the way, responded courageously under strong pressure and wore MR. DICK down the last stride. MR. DICK assumed forward position around the turn and took command in the stretch, but could not withstand the winner's bid. STRETCHER raced JIMMIE L. into defeat the opening half mile and drew away back stretch, but weakened in the stretch. COCK ROBIN, away slowly, closed a very big gap.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $800; claiming. South Miami Purse. For 3-year-olds Start good. Won driving; place, easily. Went to post at 6:04. Off at 6:04½. Winner, Mrs. D. Lowe's b. c. (3), by Little Chief—Sing On. Trained by J. Zoeller. Value to winner, $600; second, $125; third, $50; fourth, $25. Time, 0:24 1-5, 0:48 2-5, 1:15 1-5, 1:47 1-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—CHIEF'S TROUBADOUR, $4.50, $3.50, $3.20; PHANTOM ROCK, $5.20, $4.60; WINNIE C., $5.80.

CHIEF'S TROUBADOUR, a forward contender and saving ground throughout, assumed a short lead entering the stretch and, responding gamely when final test came, outlasted PHANTOM ROCK. The latter went wide around the first turn, but moved up rapidly when straightened out in the back stretch and took command, but raced wide on the stretch turn and lost ground. This cost him the race. WINNIE C. improved her position rapidly in the back stretch, but was carried wide by PHANTOM ROCK entering the stretch and weakened. BILL SOUTHAM had no excuse. SANCROFT and SUN TEATIME were never formidable contenders.

—Tropical Park Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS

TROPICAL PARK, Miami, Fla., March 18.—Tropical Park ends its second session of racing this winter tomorrow and the Fair Grounds also folds up the New Orleans season. Agua Caliente continues another week before it can estimate its losses. No winter track this year has approached a profit unless the Havana meeting made both ends meet. Monday, St. John's track, near Jacksonville, Fla., opens for ten days, leading up to the opening of the Eastern racing season at Bowie, Md., on April 1.

Featuring the card at Tropical Park is the Miami University Handicap at 1 1-16 miles. MARTIS showed high speed in his last race when he ran second to Panetian, the Florida champion, beaten only a length, and the time was 1:12 2-5. He should win this. PRINCE TOKALON is consistent, and will make it a close race. The Greentree stable filly BATTY, equaled the track record for a mile in her last start, and with light weight may be very dangerous in this handicap.

FIRST RACE—Form is badly mixed in the opener. ALFRIDI, in a race a fortnight ago, has a chance. DISCOBOLUS will be a sharp contender among this sort. Some of his earlier races were fair. HOWEE is better than his races show and appears to have the best chance for third.

SECOND RACE—BRAGGADOCIO is selected to win the second. He was third to Montanaro on Tuesday. PUTTER, on her last race, should be considered the contender. She was second to PLAY BILL, the winner, last start. BRUSH should improve over recent races and may get third money.

THIRD RACE—BATTLING ON seems to be well placed in the third, which is a mile and a sixteenth. He was second to Please in the next race to his last, and drops down among more ordinary horses. CORBEAU is rated next best. He ran Chicsu to a close finish earlier in the week. MISS CHILLA is entitled to part of the purse and is consistent.

FIFTH RACE—THE HEATHEN should win another race. He is well placed in the fifth. This is a cheap field for the B. B. Stable's sprinter, but he has not entirely returned to the form he displayed in Maryland. He won his race easily Thursday from a better field. SILVER LAKE has a good chance for place, having been third to Click in his last start. MAE SWEEP has speed and should not fail to get in the money.

SIXTH RACE—PLEASE is picked to win the sixth from WAR SAINT. It should be close between the two, but PLEASE seems to have the edge. COADY won his last from Clean Play and has the best chance for third. He is inconsistent and did not figure to win in his last start, paying 22 to 1.

SEVENTH RACE—SAND FIDDLER should repeat in the final race of the day and of the meeting. It is getaway day, and form is expected to have more than one crash. ROAN ANTELOPE has been running well, and is the contender. STELLANOVA will like the route and is a money chance.

NATS AGAIN RALLY TO WIN, 8-7

order up to that point, led off the ninth with a rollicking single over second base, and before another man had been put out, the vital run was across and Archie McKain, the second Louisville twirler, had lost the ball game.

Reynolds Slides Home Safely.

Joseph I. Judge accepted the last pitch with the count 3 and 2 and drew a walk that placed Reynolds on second, and diminutive Johnny Kerr laid down a superb bunt along the third base line that enabled Reynolds to reach third on the wings of a roaring slide. Here Howard Maple stepped into the proceedings and slapped a grounder at Second Baseman Freddy Maguire whose throw to the plate was a bit tardy as Reynolds sloughed into the platter and drove another spike into the rapidly-evaporating rumor that he didn't know how to slide.

The game was Judge's first exhibition of the season in what is regarded in some quarters as a battle between him and Joe Kuhel for the regular first-basing job, and the veteran of 17 seasons didn't suffer by his performance. He handled his only difficult chance, a whistling grounder off the bat of Browne over the bag in the fifth, in his same perfunctory manner, and at bat had two walks and a hit-by-pitcher to show for his five appearances. On each out he slapped the ball hard, once to Maguire and once to center field.

The Nats mustered 14 hits off the best pitching that Louisville could summon, with Joe Cronin again taking batting honors with three singles. Eleven hits were Louisville's allotment off the three Washington rookies.

Bob Friedrich was on the firing line at the start of festivities and yielded a run in the first inning when Funk singled, stole second and scored on Maguire's single. Friedrich was found for two more hits and two more runs in the second, a triple by A. Funk scoring Browne, who had walked.

Rally in Fourth Scores Three.

Clyde Hatter, ace of the Louisville staff, saw his service broken in the third when the Nats rallied to the extent of four runs. Berg, pinch-hitting for Friedrich, was safe on A. Funk's poor throw, and singles by Myer, Manush, West and Cronin followed, with West scoring as Reynolds forced Cronin.

The three-inning term of Lynn Griffith saw the Colonels score three runs on two hits in the sixth. Adair walked and reached third on Shea's single, but he was out when he tried to pilfer home on the pitcher's delivery. Griffith walked McKain, and with two out Buddy Myer allowed E. Funk's roller to trickle through his legs, scoring Shea. Funk went to second on the error and scored on Maguire's single, as did McKain.

The Nats' three-run rally in the seventh had as its ingredients a safe bunt by Boyle, leading off, Cronin's third single, Reynolds' sacrifice fly, a walk to Judge, Kerr's single to center that scored Cronin with the tying run, and Maple's fielder's choice, that brought Judge home.

Ragland's one run lead vanished with two out in the eighth when he walked E. Funk and Dave Harris dropped Maguire's double to left after a long run. He disposed of Layne for the third out and then saw the Nats credit him with the honor of winning pitcher with their uprising in the ninth.

Elated at the success of his club as a result of three straight exhibition game victories, Manager Johnson tonight divided his squad for the two-day trip to Mobile where Louisville will be met tomorrow and Sunday.

The bulk of the regulars will travel to Mobile, while a dozen players will remain here for the game Sunday with the Biloxi (Gulf Coast League) Team. Tomorrow's game will mark the first appearance of Alvin Crowder in the box. He is scheduled to attempt a five-inning stretch, the longest pitching assignment thus far, with Carl Fischer nominated to finish the game. Monte Weaver, Lynn Griffith and Frank Ragland will oppose the Colonels on Sunday with Friedrich also to be available, leaving Bob Burke, Bud Thomas, Johnny Boyle and Mike Delaney to hurl at Biloxi.

A makeshift infield of Joe Judge at first, Moe Berg at second, Johnny Kerr at shortstop and Dave Harris at third base will be left in Biloxi with Ainsmith catching and a pitcher aiding Reynolds and Boyle in the outfield.

Fred Marberry was still confined to his bed today with an influenza attack, but Roy Spencer, the other convalescent, was in uniform.

Nick Altrock's face was a study in black and blue today as the result of being hit in the eye by a batted ball at Gulfport on Wednesday.

Freddy Maguire, who wandered off first base on Layne's pop fly to Myer in the second inning today and was doubled up by Myer's throw, ought to know better. Or maybe that explains why he was released by the Giants, Braves and Cubs.

THREE RECORDS FALL IN DISTRICT A. A. U. SWIMMING RACES

Bateson Sets Mark at 50 Yards

Jean Smith Shatters 50, 220 Records; Carter Wins.

Onalene Lawrence and Rote Forced to Miss Event.

DESPITE the absence of the two outstanding individual attractions, Max Rote and Onalene Lawrence, three records were smashed as men and women natators competed last night in the third annual District of Columbia A. A. U. indoor swimming championships in the Venetian Pool of the Shoreham Hotel. It was the first of two nights of competition, the second being scheduled tonight when eleven events will be run off.

Records were set in the men's 50-yard free style and women's 50 and 220 free styles. The first mentioned was established by Philip Bateson, of the Ambassador Swimming Club, who shaved three-fifths of a second from the mark made by Max Rote last year in winning his heat from Warren Taylor, of Central High. The time was 26 seconds.

Jean Smith, of Washington Swimming Club, accounted for both of the women's new records, leading home Rita Augusterefer in both instances. She swam the 50 in 31 4-5 seconds to wipe out Lois Bates' 33 2-5, set last year, and finished the 220 in 3:17 3-5 again to discard an old Bates standard of 3:21 3-5.

Rote Misses Chance Due to Illness.

Rote, ace of George Washington University's team, was unable to compete on account of recent illness, and his absence practically destroyed G. W.'s hopes of gaining the team championship in the men's division.

Miss Lawrence, Washington's leading contender for women's Olympic diving honors, wired the officials from Miami, Fla., that she was suffering an injury to her back sustained recently in training. However, Miss Lawrence's absence had no effect on the success of her team, the Washington Swimming Club, because no other women's organization was represented, and Leonora Taube, with no one to contest the honor, gained the fancy diving crown to contribute heavily to the W. S. C.'s 23-point total.

YALE LEADS IN COLLEGE SWIM

Elis Places 14 Men in Tank Finals at Annapolis.

Special to The Washington Post.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 18.—Yale swimmers grabbed the lion's share of honors by placing fourteen men in the finals of the twenty-sixth annual individual championships of the Intercollegiate Swimming Association. The preliminaries and semifinals were held in the Naval Academy's big pool this afternoon and tonight, and the finals will be contested tomorrow afternoon and night.

Navy, Princeton, Pennsylvania, Harvard and Columbia each sent three men to the finals, Rutgers and Brown two apiece, and Dartmouth has one finalist.

Two Naval Academy pool records were shattered as a result of today's events. All four entries in the first heat of the 220-yard breast stroke bettered the mark of 2:44.1 made by Ensign McDougall two years ago, while Anderson and Pierson, of Yale, and White, of Brown, lowered the time of 1:49.5 in the 150-yard backstroke, established by former Ensign Art Ruhl in 1926. Fine performances were turned in in all of the events, the finish in most of them being close. Closest of all was the 150-yard back stroke, in which there was a scant two seconds difference between first and last man.

Frank Shore Advances In Baltimore Tennis

Special to The Washington Post.

Baltimore, Md., March 18.—The halfway mark in the Evening Sun-Fifth Regiment junior and boy indoor tennis tourneys was reached today at the Fifth Regiment Armory.

That juniors have a real battle on their hands in trying to wrest the crown from Frank Shore, jr., of Washington, was evident again today when the champion breezed along to take two straight sets from Nathan Goldberg, of Johns Hopkins University, in the third round without the loss of a single game.

In another third-round junior match, Morgan (Happy) Jacob, of Western High, Washington, defeated J. E. Dietz, Baltimore Polytechnic Institute, 6—1, 6—1. Albert Borleis, Patterson Park, won from Henry Glassie, Wasington, 7—5, 6—2, in juniors' second round.

Kendall Five Beaten In Trenton Tourney

Special to The Washington Post.

Trenton, N. J., March 18.—Kendall School of Washington, and the Virginia Institute for the Deaf were eliminated today as the Eastern States Deaf Schools championship basket ball tournament was started here. Kendall went out in the second round after Virginia had been beaten in the first.

Virginia dropped a 30-12 decision to the Western Pennsylvania Institute for the Deaf, from Pittsburgh, and it was by the same score that Kendall was beaten by Pennsylvania Institute for the Deaf, the Philadelphia quintet which is defending the championship won on its home floor last season.

Maryland Institute for the Deaf defeated St. Joseph's School for the Deaf of New York City, 27-17. For the semifinals tomorrow, Western Pennsylvania, New York I. D., which defeated N. J. I. D., 35-29, in a game requiring four extra periods, P. I. D. and Maryland will be the contenders.

MARYLAND U. GIRLS RIFLE CHAMPS

Annex 3d National Title; Irene Knox in Star Role.

FOLLOWING close on the heels of one of its member's feat of capturing the national women's individual collegiate rifle championship, the University of Maryland rifle team has come through with the national team championship. It is the second consecutive year that Maryland has won the team championship and the third year in all.

According to the official scores as announced this morning by the National Rifle Association, which conducted the matches, Maryland took first place with a score of 2,969, University of Missouri was second with 2,957, University of Washington, Seatle, Wash., was third with 2,957, and George Washington University, which is a four-time winner of the title, was fourth with 2,947.

The performance of Miss Irene Knox, a member of the University of Maryland team, was the outstanding feature of the matches. Miss Knox recently won the women's collegiate individual with a new record score of 599x600, but in the team match she surpassed that achievement by making a perfect score of 600, revealing herself to be the greatest of college women shots of the country. The remarkableness of her feat is added to by the fact that she made her scores with the ordinary metallic sights. The firing was all prone with .22 caliber rifles.

The matches were fired in three stages, the five high scorers of the squad of ten counting for record in each stage. The scores of the Maryland coeds were:

First stage—Irene Knox, 200; Josephine Knox, a sister of Irene, 199; Betty Mulligan, 196; Betty Owen, 196; Ruth Diggs, 196; total, 987.

Second stage—Irene Knox, 200; Josephine Knox, 197; Betty Owen, 199; Minna Cannon, 199; Helen Bradley, 198; total, 993.

Third stage—Irene Knox, 200; Josephine Knox, 196; Betty Owen, 198; Margaret Burdette, 198; Frances McCubbins, 197; total, 989; total for the three stages, 2,969.

Army Boxers Beaten By Quantico Marines

Special to The Washington Post.

Quantico, Va., March 19.—Avenging an earlier defeat, the Quantico Marines boxing team tonight conquered the Army mitt tossers from Fort Monroe, five bouts to one, before a crowd of 2,000. Danny Pyne and Sammy Braunstein, of Washington, both aided the Marine cause with triumphs.

Pyne, stellar light-heavyweight of Catholic University, outpointed Cleer in four rounds, while Brunstein gained a technical knockout over Smith in the third round. The only real knockout of the card was credited to Andy Zeher, Marine football star, who stopped Condo, Army light-heavy, in 1:26 of the first round.

Fort Monroe's only win was registered by Hipp, featherweight, who achieved a technical knockout at the expense of Anderson in the second round. Turner, Marine lightweight, defeated Brown, and Jackson, light-heavy, defeated Cavey, each in four rounds.

The Post Supplies Fans 1932 League Schedules

A limited number of official American League schedules for 1932, in convenient form, have been obtained by The Post for free distribution to Washington fans. Requests for same should be addressed to the Sports Department of The Post and accompanied by a self-addressed stamped envelope.

YANKS SHOW STRENGTH IN CAMP

Ruth & Co., Generally Improved, Loom Brilliantly.

(This is another of series of first-hand stories on major league club prospects.)

By ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor).

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 18 (A.P.).—From Mulberry Bend to the Bronx, let the clarion call be sounded: "The Yanks are coming, bigger, better and stronger."

Babe Ruth is back on the job as well as on the dotted line, beginning to ram base hits through the infield with his shorter swing from a less exaggerated stance at the plate. Big Ben Chapman is making two bases on infield outs and otherwise sounding the alarm again for American League catchers.

The new keystone combination of Frank Crosetti and Otto (Jack) Saltzgaver within the past week has come along like a house afire. Manager Joe McCarthy seems to have corralled another speedy young outfielder in George Selkirk, Rochester lad who played with Jersey City last season, and may contest center field with the veteran Kentuckian, Earle Combs.

Yanks Hope Rookie Hurlers Succeed.

Now, if only one of the three best pitching prospects makes good and Henry Johnson recovers rapidly from the removal of his appendix, the Yankees will consider themselves on at least an even footing with the champion Philadelphia Athletics.

The success of the New York Club's attempt this year to oust the three-time American League pennant holders depends on those pitching "ifs." The best trio that McCarthy can muster on the mound, namely, Lefty Gomez, Red Ruffing and George Pipgras, does not class with Connie Mack's great triumvirate of Grove, Earnshaw and Walberg.

The Yankees believe their greater speed and punch will offset the apparent difference between the two clubs in pitching strength.

There is the matter of 13½ games by which the A's led the Yankees at the close of 1931, but they tell you here this is misleading; that, in fact, the Yanks were a stronger club than the champions at the end of last season. New York also must contend with the strong Washington Club and do something about Cleveland, which was poison to Ruth & Co. last year.

The more the experts watch 21-year-old Crosetti perform around shortstop and at the plate the more they are convinced the Yankees have picked up the greatest young infielder in a blue moon. Class is stamped all over this San Francisco boy. Those who have watched both say Crosetti's only rival this spring as a rookie sensation is Stanley Hack, the new Chicago Cub third sacker.

Saltzgaver "Will Do," Says Expert.

Saltzgaver, too, has improved. So qualified an observer as Buck Herzog, looking on from the sidelines, says Saltzgaver will do. It seems certain now he will get the call over Lazzeri at second.

Lyn Lary, after giving way to Crosetti at short, has taken to third like a duck to water. Lou Gehrig, the iron man on first, who passed his 1,000th consecutive game last season, thinks the second thousand will be the easiest. Joe Sewell and Eddie Farrell, as well as Lazzeri, are destined for utility jobs, although Tony will be traded any time the Yanks can get a reliable pitcher for him.

Of the hurling recruits, John Allen and 220-pound Walter Brown, from Jersey City, and Johnny Murphy, from St. Paul, look the best. They are getting every chance to make good, in the hope of taking some of the burden off the brilliant Gomez, the powerful Ruffing and speedy Pipgras. Gordon Rhodes has a chance to come through. Herb Pennock and Ed Wells will use their southpaw wiles in opportune spots. Johnson may pitch by May, earlier than at first expected.

Behind the bat Big Bill Dickey will do at least 80 per cent of the work, with Arndt Jorgens and Tom Padden in reserve.

WALLACE STOPPED BY FULLER'S RIGHT

but was unable to continue. He fell into the arms of Referee Jed Gahan, who held him up with one arm and waved the waiting Fuller to his corner with the other.

It took Wallace's seconds several minutes to revive him to where he could leave the ring.

The clean-cut knockout gave the Boston strong boy his second important triumph in the Garden ring in a fortnight. In his last appearance he scored a clean victory over Ray Miller, Chicago lightweight. He will meet Jackie Berg, of England, April 1, in the next instalment of Promoter Jimmy Johnston's lightweight elimination.

Nichols Defeats Maier To Annex N.B.A. Crown

Chicago Stadium, Chicago, March 18 (U.P.).—George Nichols, a Buffalo Italian, who was quoted a 100-to-1 shot when the National Boxing Association light-heavyweight tournament opened last December, was acclaimed the new 175-pound champion tonight when he won a ten-round decision over Dave Maier, Milwaukee Dutchman.

Outweighed 10½ pounds and weakened by loss of blood from a gash opened in the top of his head in the second round, Nichols finished with an unexpected rally, which gained him the verdict.

Maier was quoted a 7-to-5 favorite in tonight's betting odds.

The crowd of 9,344, which paid $23,232.23 to see the final bout in the N. B. A. tournament, stood up and cheered Nichols when Gen. John V. Clinnin, N. B. A. president, presented the buffalo Italian with a belt emblematic of the light-heavyweight title.

RETZLAFF WINS BY K.O.

Boston, March 18 (A.P.).—Charlie Retzlaff, stiff punching Duluth heavyweight, added Jack McCarthy, of Boston, to his long knockout string tonight in the Boston Garden's feature bout. McCarthy, after taking a severe beating was finally dropped for the full count with a heavy right to the body, and by a terrific right to the jaw early in the fourth of what was to have been a scheduled 10-round contest. Retzlaff weighed 198½ pounds, almost 4 more than his rival.

Hitting the Head Pin

By LEWIS F. ATCHISON

THE Columbia Alleys were no place for bowling fans suffering from heart disease last night, at least not when the Quartermaster Ladies League was in session.

The excitement was stirred up by Construction's three-game victory over Engineers. Not that it is strange for Construction to win three games, but the manner in which they accomplished the feat caused the palpitations of the vital organ. The team's margin of victory for the entire trio was 4 pins. The score of the first game was 422-421, the second, 433-431, and the third, 403-402. Miss Lynn's 308 set was high, and she tied with Miss Ross for the game honors with 102. Executives' 462 and 1,346 scores were high for the teams.

A team comprised of Tech High School students will meet the Blick Midgets in a special match to be rolled today at 7:30 p. m. at the Arcadia alleys. Pete Ginaris, Wilson Lee, Wilson Koontz, Thomas Robertson and Bob Wray will roll for the schoolboys, and Jack Simmons, Bill Sisler, Bob Chalfonte, Al Baer and Ouncie Harrison will furnish the opposition.

So that's why Francis Stan has been walking around in a trance lately!

Today will be a busy one at the Silver Spring alleys. At 3 p. m. Howard Parsons and Charley Watson will roll Chester Bild and Ed Blakeney in a singles and doubles match. At 7:30 o'clock the first annual Brooke Grubb Sweepstakes will be contested. A large field is expected to roll in this tournament. The entrance fee has been reduced from $27 to $12.

An interesting match is promised in the Building Contractor's League at Arcadia next week when D. C. Butcher and Standard Art Marble clash. The latter drew up to within a game of the Butcher boys, who are leading, by sweeping their match with Southern Asbestos last night, and, incidentally, rolling a game of 613 and set of 1,744. Butcher rolled a 1,734 set in taking the odd one from Fuller Stone Plant. Bon Moyer's 150 and a 378, tallied by a chap known as Maxine, topped the individual scoring.

Percy Patrick and Al Woods, of Patents No. 2, Department of Commerce League, defeated Wesley Miller and A. Shanklin, 1,142 to 1,091, in a doubles match rolled at Rendezvous last night.

Neil Anderson and Mooney led the individual pinspilling in the District Government loop at Arcadia. Anderson had a set of 391 and Mooney a 145 game. Highway Department took team honors home with a 1,599 set, built around a 600 game.

Brooks' 144 and 366 scores topped the Interstate League at the same alleys. Informal Cases rolled home ahead of the rest of the field with a 595 game and 1,709 set.

Sims tied the record for individual game in the Bureau of Engraving League when he mashed the maples for 160 pins at Convention Hall. He also had a set of 393. Machine's 550 and Surface's 1,538 copped the team honors.

Howder's 380 set and another of similar proportions by Jenkins smashed the set record in the Veterans Bureau League at Convention Hall. Jenkins threw in a 145 game for luck. Claims carried off the team prizes with 584 and 1,605.

Meter Shop continued its winning ways in the Gaslight loop at the Hall, rolling a 532 game and 1,533 set. Porter's 137 and Jones' 345 outdistanced the individual field.

Barnes Auto forfeited to Temple in a National Capital League match at Lucky Strike. "Whip" Litchfield rolled a 137 game and 383 set for the Northeast crew.

Pete Lawhorn rolled the highest individual set ever recorded in the District League when he pounded the pins for 438 points at Lucky Strike. Clem Weidman rolled a game of 171 for high game. It all happened when King Pin relieved Lucky Strike of the odd one. The winners had a set of 1,879 and the losers a game of 678.

Frank Mischou's 148 and 385 led the Typothetae League at the Strike. Craftsmen rolled the highest team set, 1,630, and National Capital Press turned in a game of 566.

Three records were broken in the Arcade-Sunshine loop. R. H. Whiting rolled a 410 set and 145 game to lower these two marks, and Cold Storage slapped the sticks for a new set mark, 1,584. It also had a 543 game.

M'NEY TOPS DUB PIN FIELD

571 Set Gains Lead in Sweepstakes; Maley Drops.

ROLLING a 571 set, which included a high game of 136, Frank McNey last night ousted Tom Maley from his position as leader of the dub sweepstakes at King Pin No. 2. McNey's total for the ten games rolled is 1,183. Maley dropped to second.

The highest set rolled last night, 606, netted its owner, E. E. Dodge, only fifth place, which was vacated by "Reb" Rebholtz, who moved up into fourth place. T. Cordell moved into third by virtue of his 582 score.

McNey was off to a good start with his 136 game, but went into reverse gear on the second when he toppled only 95 pins. He was fairly consistent in his final three efforts, averaging 123. Maley had a poor night, his highest game being 119. Cordell had two high games, 135 and 136, but in the other three was mediocre.

Government Quintets Face Series for Title

The first of a three-game series for the championship of the Government Basket Ball League will be played tomorrow at 3 p. m., when the Census Enumerators and Bureau of Investigation clash at Bolling Field. Census won the first half without meeting defeat, and the Detectives clinched the second half bunting with a thrilling victory over Bolling Field Thursday night.

Singman, Shield, Adkins, Mealy and Estes probably will comprise the Census line-up. Ryan, Fischer, Hirsch, Connors and Blake will start for the snoopers. The winner will receive a handsome trophy, a gift of the Federation of Federal Employes Union.

The public will be admitted free of charge.

GOODACRE BOYS WIN.

The newly organized Goodacre Boys Club boxing team made its debut in competition last night with a victory over the Noel House boxers. Outstanding for the winners was Bob Wallace, welterweight, who scored a knockout in three rounds over Mike Stasuli after flooring the Noel House lad five times.

Of the five bouts contested, two were won by Goodacre, one by Noel House and two ended in draw decisions. The summaries:

60 pounds—Joe Petro (G) defeated Pete Lacy (N. H.), decision.

80 pounds—Peter Riley (G) and Jock McKitish (N. H.), drew.

90 pounds—Saul Marmone (G) and Mike Cattela (N. H.), drew.

125 pounds—Harry Cecchinni (N. H.) defeated Frank Orange (G), technical knockout, 2 rounds.

145 pounds—Bob Wallace (G) defeated Mike Stasulli (N. H.), knockout, 3 rounds.

GELBERT TO CONFER.

work of Virginia Jones, Highlander forward.

The play of the eventual winners in the first half was comparatively slow to the whirlwind finish they staged. Park View scored 7 of its 9 points in the initial half, and trailed by a score of 19-7 as the third quarter got under way. Virginia Jones tallied 14 times from the field and 5 times from the charity stripe, for a total of 33 points. She was assisted by Miss Miller, who netted the leather for 19 points. Park View was completely outplayed by their sure-footed, keen-eyed opponents. Mary Hoy, who accounted for all but two of the losers' points, was by far the outstanding player for her team.

St. Martin's Boys Gain 100-Pound Class Finals

St. Martin's 100-pound team firmly established itself as the favorite to win the title in its respective class by trimming the Brookland Eagles, 23-19, in a fast game, to gain the finals against Neighborhood House. Clarence Robbins, Eagle guard, made a valiant stand against the attack of the Saints, but his personal efforts were not enough to offset the team play of the opposition. He scored 13 points.

A pair of clever forwards, Boyle and Roland, put St. Martin's in the lead at the start of the fray and the team was never headed. The score at the half was 14-12. The Eagles constantly kept the fans on their toes with their daring long shots from midcourt in the second half.

Aloha Lites Put Out By Northern Preps, 33-19

A gallant rally in the third period failed to save the Aloha Lites in their game with the Northern Preps, which the latter won, 33-19, thereby advancing to the quarter-final round in the 130-pound class.

The Northern quintet scored heavily in the first half and was leading by a score of 17-6 at the start of the third period. With O'Brien and Buzzelli showing the way, however, the Alohas gradually drew nearer their opponents until they were but 2 points behind, trailing by a score of 19-17. With the advent of the final period the Lites flickered, and then died out. They added only 2 points to their score, both by fouls, while their opponents were running their total to 33.

Western Flashes Win From St. John's Aces

The Western Flashes gained the final round in the 115-pound division by hanging a 33-23 defeat on the St. John's Aces in a closely contested game.

The Flashes quickly assumed the lead at the start of the game and were never headed. They led, 15-10, at the half, and 23-15 at the third quarter. Duvall, Corcoran and Brown led the attack of the winners, while a quartet of Johnnies, McKenna, Lock, Behrendt and Callan, shared the burden of

NATIONAL DAIRY NET TOTALS $23,547,973

Profits Represent Decline From $25,470,942 in Report of 1930.

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

National Dairy Products Corporation, of which Chevy Chase Dairy, Inc., and Chestnut Farms Dairy are local units, reported yesterday net profits for 1931, after interest and Federal taxes, of $23,547,973.

This is equivalent, after allowing for payment of preferred dividends, to $3.47 a share on the 6,263,130 shares of common stock outstanding. This compares with net profits in 1930 of $25,470,942, equivalent after similar deductions, to $4.10 per share on 6,202,177 shares outstanding.

"The year 1931," states Thomas H. McInnerney, president, "saw a further decline in the price level of all dairy products. The reduction in price to the farmer-producers was not in proportion to the extreme reduction in price of other farm products.

Milk Production Highest.

"This fact, combined with the advantages to the farmer of a continuous cash income, resulted in the greatest production of milk in the history of the country.

"In order that it could absorb its proportionate part in the decreased sales price, not passing the entire decrease on to the farmer-producer, your corporation concentrated its efforts throughout the year on plant efficiencies and economies, increasing delivery load factors and consolidating operations with gratifying results."

As a result of these policies, Mr. McInnerney said the corporation was in strong current position, as indicated by the ratio of $3.46 of current assets for every $1 of current liabilities. Total current assets of $63,535,617 with current liabilities of $18,339,328 were reported. These figures compare respectively with $68,152,624 and $21,144,797 for 1930.

Cash Is $23,446,407.

Cash on hand was given as $23,446,407, and this item, the report stated, was after deduction of $4,267,439 for the dividends paid on January 2, 1932. The regular dividend of $2.60 was paid on the outstanding common stock and totaled $16,184,864. In addition to purchasing and retiring $2,462,000 of its 5½ gold debentures due in 1948 in accordance with sinking fund requirements, the corporation purchased $1,472,000 principal amount of these debentures during the year, which were held in the treasury.

Charges during the year for repairs, maintenance and depreciation amounted to $20,349,068 compared with similar charges of $20,971,041 for 1930. Earned surplus at December 31, 1931 was $42,667,241 as compared with $37,369,222 at December 31, 1930.

"The list of stockholders," the report states, "is now in excess of 61,000 or an increase of about 15,500 over the previous year, and we are pleased to observe that the number of employe stockholders has likewise increased."

Two Ship Lines Merge; Sale Planned by Board

(Associated Press.)

The Shipping Board announced yesterday a combination of the Oriole Line with the American Hampton Roads Line. The combined services, it said, would be managed and operated by the Southgate-Nelson Co., present operators of the American Hampton Roads Line.

"The trade names 'Oriole Line,' 'American Hampton Roads Line,' as well as a portion of the 'Yankee Line,' all three of which are under the management of the Southgate-Nelson Co., will be continued under the combined services," the board's announcement said.

The combined management and operation will provide frequent service between North Atlantic ports, including Halifax, Novia Scotia, and St. John, New Brunswick, and United Kingdom and Irish ports.

The board said in approving the consolidation it was looking toward eventual sale of the lines to private interests.

Wabash Interest, Due April 1, Will Be Paid

St. Louis, March 18 (A.P.).—Payment of semiannual interest, due April 1 on Wabash Railway first mortgage bonds, amounting to $55,306.75, and of $110,906.25 interest due at the same time on $9,950,000 bank loans, was authorized today in an order issued to the Wabash receivers by Federal Judge C. B. Faris.

RECEIVER APPOINTED FOR PIPE LINE GROUP

Missouri-Kansas Company and Subsidiaries Consent to Court Ruling.

Wilmington, Del., March 18 (A.P.). Chancellor J. O. Walcott today appointed C. Ray Phillips, of Chicago, and Henry T. Bush, of Wilmington, as receivers for the Missouri-Kansas Pipe Line Co., and two of its subsidiaries, Frank P. Parish & Co., of Chicago, and the Kentucky Natural Gas Co., of Owensboro, Ky.

The receivership bill was filed by R. H. McWilliams, jr., Co., Inc., of Chicago, a creditor in the amount of $5,000. The Missouri-Kansas Pipe Line Co. and the subsidiary companies consented to the appointment of receivers.

In a letter to stockholders of the Missouri-Kansas Pipe Line Co., which will be mailed within a day or two, officers of the company state the management consented to the appointment of receivers because the company, which has assets of about $18,000,000 in excess of its liabilities, is unable to meet certain maturing obligations by reason of the adverse circumstances under which the company has been compelled to do its financing.

The Missouri-Kansas Pipe Line Co. was organized in 1928 to develop gas lands near Kansas City, Mo. The last annual statement showed total assets of $28,000,000 and total liabilities and reserves, exclusive of capital stock and surplus, of $9,731,000. The assets included an investment in the Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line Co., a natural gas transportation system of about 2,000 miles of pipe lines extending from the Texas Panhandle to Indiana, and 50 per cent owned by the Missouri-Kansas Pipe Co. It also has full ownership of extensive pipe line properties in Kentucky and Indiana, including more than 6,000 miles of pipe line.

The bill of complaint charged that a bear raid of June 16, 1930, against the company's stock was carried on in connection with a conspiracy among antagonistic public utility interests to destroy the company. This action forced the company to sell a half interest in the Texas to Indiana project of the Panhandle Eastern to insure completion of that line.

This line is now completed and in conjunction with the lines of the Missouri-Kansas subsidiaries in supplying natural gas to about 89 communities in seven States, in addition to large deliveries to other pipe line companies and to industrial customers.

THE MARKETS AT A GLANCE

STOCKS dropped off precipitately under bear pounding on the utility shares.

BONDS reflected the selling pressure on the Stock Exchange, but U. S. Governments recorded fractional gains.

CURB stocks also were under bear pressure, with Electric Bond and Share interests the central target.

WHEAT closed about 2 cents lower following announcement of the Farm Board's foreign sales policy.

COTTON followed the weakness in grain and securities.

Cash Circulation Drop Shows Hoarding Blow

(Associated Press.)

The amount of money in circulation throughout the country is coming down steadily, reflecting success in the administration drive against hoarding.

In part at least, deposit of hidden funds is believed to account for a decline in circulation of $109,000,000 since President Hoover inaugurated the "back to work" campaign for money, early in February. This total includes a $22,000,000 reduction shown in the weekly statement of the Federal Reserve Board issued Thursday.

Copper Restriction Balances New Supply

New York, March 18 (A.P.).—Production of copper under the producers' restriction agreement of last December has fallen to a greater extent than was expected, says the current issue of Metal and Mineral Markets.

February output is estimated at about 70,000 tons, which compares with approximately 106,000 tons in December. Present consumption is estimated at between 70,000 and 75,000 tons monthly, and under the more recent agreement for regulating world production the output of the mines is expected to drop well below the current consumption rate.

PARIS BANKER HELD IN KREUGER DEAL

Financier Is Charged With Selling Match Stock Pledged on Loan.

Paris, March 18 (A.P.).—M. Hogmann, a Stockholm banker and personal friend of the late Ivar Kreuger, today caused the arrest of Jacques Barrault, Paris financier, on a charge of selling illegally a block of stock in the Kreuger companies placed in his hands as security for a loan of 20,000,000 francs ($800,000).

M. Hogmann said he gave Barrault the Kreuger stock, worth 30,000,000 Francs, as security, to be returned when the loan was repaid. At the end of last December, he said, he was amazed to find his stock on the New York market, contributing to the fall in Kreuger values at that time. He charged illegal sale and abuse of confidence.

Barrault told the court he expected to get the stock back before he was due to return it. Two other men were charged with complicity.

Exchange Asked to Halt Match Issues Trading

New York, March 18 (A.P.).—The New York Stock Exchange has taken under advisement the request of Krueger & Toll Co., of Stockholm, that trading be suspended in its securities, pending the investigation of the company's affairs started as a result of the suicide of Ivar Kreuger last Saturday. The board of governors of the exchange were understood to have met the request, but after the meeting broke up it was merely stated that there was "no announcement."

The Krueger & Toll American certificates closed today at $1.75, off only 25 cents. Earlier in the week they sold as low as $1.50. The Krueger & Toll 5 per cent bonds were firm, closing at $340, up $17.50, per bond of $1,000 par value. Stock exchange quarters were somewhat surprised by the request, inasmuch as the flurry of selling has subsided in the past few days. Today's turnover in Krueger & Toll was less than 60,000 certificates, against the huge volume of 670,000 on Monday.

The company has requested all foreign stock exchanges dealing in its shares or debentures to withdraw those securities from trading for the present.

Champion Hoarder Buys With a Bang!

Easton, Pa., March 18 (A.P.).—Money a century old came to light today when a man made a purchase at a local store, proffering silver coins apparently unused for many years.

He gave the dealer half dollars dated 1832, 1836, 1854, 1858, 1872, 1875, 1876, 1877 and two Columbian half dollars of 1893 coinage.

Public Still Eager For Strong Shares

New York, March 18 (A.P.).—The stock market collapse of 1929 and the subsequent fading of security prices apparently have failed to blunt the appetite of the investing public for common stocks of leading American companies.

The annual reports of large companies issued this month show a notable increase in number of stockholders. Many executives say more people hold stocks in this country today than ever before.

Among the concerns whose 1931 statements show an increase in stockholders are American Telephone, General Motors, United States Steel, Pennsylvania Railroad, Westinghouse Electric and Borden Co.

American Telephone, at the year-end, had 644,903 stockholders against 567,694 the year before. General Motors came second with 313,117 against 263,328, and Pennsylvania Railroad was third with 345,000 against 207,188. U. S. Steel reported 223,272 against 189,990.

Westinghouse Electric's shareholders increased from 48,454 to 53,079, but the Borden Co. reported the greatest percentage gain with 32,388 stockholders on December 31, against 24,383 the year before.

Regular Dividend Listed By Radio Corporation

New York, March 18 (A.P.).—Directors of the Radio Corporation of America today ordered the regular quarterly dividend of 87½ cents a share on class A preferred stock, payable April 15 to stock of record April 1.

The company also announced that the reduction in the book value of the common stock to $2 a share from $4.22, as set forth in the annual report, had become effective, as written consent had been received from a majority of the stockholders.

By JOHN L. COOLEY.

New York, March 18 (A.P.).—Stocks slipped easily in a rather inactive market today.

Utilities gave the poorest group exhibition, but neither industrials nor rails could do a great deal better, and net losses ranged from about 1 to 3 points in issues which normally provide the leadership. Final quotations were somewhat above the day's lowest.

Pressure was especially against stocks under Electric Bond & Share sponsorship. This tendency toward selectivity gave rise to questions as to whether short sellers had become bolder. At any rate, brokerage house gossip assumed a gloomy tinge.

Most brokerage quarters agreed that there has been a considerable increase in bearish activity, possibly attributable to the disagreement in the Senate banking and currency committee over the Glass banking bill. It was expected this disagreement might delay considerably the Senate's investigation of the bears.

Furthermore, it was pointed out that the time is now growing short before the exchange's new regulations on loaning stocks goes into effect on April 1, and it is widely felt that these regulations will make bearish activity more costly. Some brokers felt that bears are making hay while the sun shines.

Rumors Cause Weakness.

Although officials of Electric Bond & Share companies made no formal comment on the market action of those stocks, it was intimated that unfounded bear rumors regarding bank loans were partly responsible for weakness in American & Foreign Power, American Power & Light and Electric Power & Light, as well as the same group's representatives on the curb exchange.

Two of the companies have bank loans maturing considerably later this year, the total involving $71,250,000. To meet this indebtedness, it was said, the group has more than $100,000,000 in cash or equivalent, and interest on the loans is being covered many times over.

American Telephone also provided a selling target, being 5 points lower at the worst and off 3½ at the close.

Shorts saw no further reason for covering rail commitments, and that group suffered a relapse, but recessions were smaller than early this week.

Total turnover of 1,406,260 shares was the smallest in a week.

Bonds Drift Lower.

Apathy gripped the bond market and, with the exception of United States Government securities, prices generally drifted to lower levels.

The dullness of the session was shown in the total sales of only $7,328,000, the smallest aggregate since August 31, last year. The average for 60 corporate loans dropped one-half point.

While all the Federal bonds did not finish at their high quotations of the day, the majority of them recorded fractional gains. This list was aided materially by the Federal Reserve Bank's weekly statement showing an increase of $35,000,000 in the holdings of Treasury issues.

Losses of fractions to 5 or more points were recorded by the feeble railroad department, and little life was displayed by the utilities and industrials.

Foreign obligations pursued an uncertain trend.

Curb Turnover Mounts.

A morning flurry of selling in Electric Bond & Share gave the Curb Market some bad moments, but the movement was checked by midday, and the remainder of the session given over to partial recuperation. The day's turnover was swelled to 300,000 shares, the largest in a month.

Sources close to the management of Electric Bond & Share were inclined to ascribe the selling to bearish quarters. The old common stock of Bond & Share dropped 1¾ points to a record low at 5½, then closed at 6¾, in a turnover of 78,400 shares. The $5 preferred tumbled to 31¾, off 7¾ net. American Gas & Electric, in which Bond & Share has a substantial interest, dropped nearly 4 points, then rallied to close at 20½, off 2½ net.

Bond & Share Dividends Wait on Capital Change

New York, March 18 (A.P.).—If stockholders of the Electric Bond & Share Co. approve the proposed capital changes at their meeting on March 22, it is expected that directors will immediately thereafter declare the regular quarterly dividends on the common and preferred stocks, the company announced today.

COTTON PRICES LOSE ON RUSH OF SELLING

Market Reacts on Weakness of Grain and Stocks; May Drop Heavy.

New York, March 18 (A.P.).—Cotton was lower today under liquidation and scattered selling, attributed to the weakness in the grain and stock markets and press reports from Washington concerning projects for financing export sales of surplus supplies, which appeared to cause some uncertainty.

The decline carried prices into new low ground for the movement with May contracts selling off to 6.74 or 19 points net lower and 45 points below the recent high level. Closing quotations were the lowest of the day on most positions with the market easy at net declines of 16 to 20 points.

A little more trade demand was in evidence on scale-down orders in the late trading but the break extended to 6.91 for July and 7.14 for October, compared with 7.35 and 7.55, the high prices reached on the advance earlier in the month.

Liverpool cables reported covering and continental buying supplied by realizing and some selling on the easier ruling of Alexandria, but said there was an improved demand for cotton cloths from Egypt and the Near East.

The market for Egyptian futures in Alexandria was 7 to 13 points lower.

Exports today were 88,465 bales, making 6,561,806 bales so far this season.

Butter in Chicago Sells At New Record Lows

Chicago, March 18 (A.P.).—The November delivery of storage butter sold at 19¾ cents a pound on the Chicago Mercantile Exchange today, the lowest price at which this commodity ever sold on the exchange futures boards. The June delivery of fresh standards also sold at an all-time low price for 18¾ cents. Closing prices were ⅜ to ½ cent lower for the day.

Butter futures started dropping early because of expectations of an immediate upturn in production.

London Audits Kreuger's Books.

Stockholm, Sweden, March 18 (A.P.).—A London firm of auditors has been retained by the Kreuger & Toll Co. to examine the firm's books as a result of the recent suicide of Ivar Kreuger.

Argentina Provides Rigid Grain Control

Buenos Aires, March 18 (A.P.).—The government published two decrees today intended to control trading in grain futures. They require that copies of all futures contracts be filed with the Ministry of Agriculture and that the contracts be drawn to expire the thirtieth of the month in which they are made.

GOLD MOVEMENT.

New York, March 18 (A.P.).—The outward movement of gold which a few weeks ago was causing some concern about Wall street, was slowed down to a walk. The amount of gold sent out during the past week has been of negligible amount, and more than balanced by imports and decrease in the earmark account.

WHEAT PRICE SWEPT LOWER BY SELLING

Loss of 2 Cents Per Bushel Recorded; Corn Also Joins Heavy Decline.

Chicago, March 18 (A.P.).—Swept downward in a flood of selling, wheat today suffered a fall of more than 2 cents a bushel and corn lost more than a cent. The flurry plunged the wheat market to the lowest level reached since the middle of January and to within 8 cents of the season's lowest figures.

The decline followed announcement by Secretary of Agriculture Hyde that an intensive sales campaign abroad was contemplated to dispose of some of this country's huge surplus stock of wheat.

Wheat closed nervous at the day's bottom level, 1⅜ to 2⅛ cents under yesterday's finish. Corn was down ¾ to 1⅛ cents and oats off ⅝ to ⅞ cents.

Among the disturbing prospects envisioned by wheat traders was the likelihood of a price war starting among the principal exporting countries.

On the other hand, a general belief voiced here was that if the United States Government could dispose of surplus wheat on almost any terms, the effect would be to strengthen the domestic market situation later.

When Washington Was Younger—No. 226

IN 1800 all the President's horses were housed in the stable shown above, that was located at Fourteenth and G streets northwest. At that time there were only five houses besides the stable in the square bounded by F and G streets, Thirteenth and Fourteenth streets. In 1821 President Monroe permitted the stable to be used as a school, and the building was remodeled and became one of the first Public School's in Washington. The teacher was S. John Thomson.

The building was used as a school until 1870 when it was sold to a Mr. Douglass at the price of $5,000, and was being used by Notley Anderson, as a carpenter shop. J. H. Small, the florist, erected a larger building in 1886, as the old stable-schoolhouse had been made uninhabitable by souvenir hunters who removed bits of the old building as reminders of their school days.

The Federal-American Bank occupied the new building in 1913, and in 1924 the present structure was built by the banking concern.

POLICE NOTICE HINTS MAN'S ESCAPE WAS PURPOSELY FAVORED

Believed to Be U. S. Agent in Narcotic Department; Taken From Car.

TWO CAPITAL MEN HELD ON DRUG LAW CHARGES

Maryland Officers Say One Made Attempt to Destroy Package.

A Maryland State police bulletin yesterday hinted that the man who escaped from the Essex (Md.) police station Thursday after being arrested with two Washingtonians was allowed to flee because he was an agent of the Federal Narcotic Department.

The lookout broadcast for the car in which Dennis A. Mahoney and Lawrence McNally were arrested said that the third man in the machine was an undercover agent for the narcotic department. This car was stopped near Bel Air by State Policeman J. W. May, and the three occupants were taken to the Essex police station. Here Mahoney is said to have tried to destroy a package of drugs, and during the ensuing scuffle with policemen the third man escaped.

Later Bulletin Broadcast.

It was explained that this escape might have been engineered so that the Government agent could be released without revealing his official status. If he had underworld contacts they would have been suspicious if he were freed without some logical motive. The man apparently fled from police without difficulty.

A later bulletin broadcast a lookout for Julius Buecher, giving his address as 1602 Seventh street northwest. He hailed a taxi near the Essex Police Station and ordered it to drive to the wateffront, but left it later unknown to the driver. Buecher was said to have escaped from May at Essex, but the time of his escape was nearly an hour before May is believed to have arrested the three men.

$2,500 Bonds Set.

The lookout warned police to arrest three men, two of them McNally and Mahoney and the third a Federal man. It said the car would be headed toward Washington with a load of "dope" and asked authorities to be alert that no packages were thrown from it.

Mahoney and McNally were held in bond of $2,500 each yesterday when arraigned before United States Commissioner J. Frank Supplee in Baltimore. Mahoney gave his address as 413 Third street northwest, while McNally said he lived at 400 K street northeast. Mahoney was already under bond of $1,500 on a similar charge after an arrest last month.

Commission Hits Barber Shop Bill

Oppose New Measure for Requiring Closing One Day in Seven.

After previously informing Congress that they had no particular opinion to report on a bill to close barber shops in Washington one day in every seven, the District Commissioners yesterday voiced objection to a substitute measure designed for the same purpose.

"It appears to the Commissioners that to single out barber shops for legislation of this character leaves out of consideration other classes of business such as drug stores, delicatessen stores, grocery stores, the operation of some public utilities, &c.

"It would seem that if legislation of this character is necessary to protect the health of barbers, similar legislation would be necessary to protect the health of other professions and occupations in which persons are engaged whose work requires them to be employed seven days in every week."

Storm Brings Roll, Thugs Take It Away

The recent storm, thought Philip O'Keefe, of 1352 Fairmont street northwest, was a stroke of good fortune. Now he is not so certain. O'Keefe is a lineman for the Potomac Electric Power Co., and made extra money repairing lines in the cold and snow. Last night two armed bandits relieved him of the entire wad as he was about to enter his house.

O'Keefe told police he was walking on Fairmont street, at Thirteenth, when two colored men approached him and pulled pistols. They demanded money. One of them took his wallet, containing about $92, from an inside coat pocket.

They took the cash out and handed back his wallet. Then they fled. O'Keefe said he chased the two men around the corner. They entered an automobile they had left with the motor running and drove rapidly away.

DETECTIVE TALLEY ON TRIAL IN BEATING

Police-Civilian Board Hears Charges of His Maltreating Prisoner in May.

The police-civilian trial board yesterday heard the first of testimony with regard to charges against Detective Sergt. Carlton Talley, that he maltreated Raymond Grimes, 23, colored, early on the morning of May 30, 1931.

Grimes and his stepfather were the only prosecution witnesses heard. The complaining witness told the board that Talley struck him several times with his fists, after arresting him on South Capitol street.

The stepfather told of the appearance of Grimes at his home later, bearing marks of a beating. He said he did not deem the injuries necessitated the calling of a physician.

A number of police officials and policemen appeared as character witnesses for Sergt. Talley. Among them were Inspector Frank S. W. Burke, Inspector E. W. Brown, Capt. B. W. Thompson, Capt. Ira Sheetz, Sergt. Larry O'Dea, Lieut. R. E. Keck and Sergt. Thomas Sweeney.

After a three-hour session, the tribunal recessed until 10 o'clock this morning.

Inspector O. T. Davis is the police member, while A. R. Pilkerton, deputy district auditor, and Herbert Davis, superintendent of insurance, are the civilian members. James O'Shea is counsel for the accused policeman, while Chester Gray, assistant corporation counsel, is handling the prosecution.

2 Men and Liquor Taken in Chase

Auto Wrecked Against Pole at Fourth and K Streets in Short Pursuit.

An automobile was wrecked and two men, 264 half-gallons of whisky and a smoke screen were captured after a short chase last night on Fourth street northwest, according to police.

Private W. C. Groomes and G. L. Saunders, of the First Precinct, had received a tip that liquor was to be delivered in the 900 block of Fourth street. They saw a car pull in to the curb and they gave chase, they said. The car ran into a telephone pole at Fourth and K streets northwest.

The police said they captured the two men before they had a chance to get away. They took the pair to the station, where they gave their names as Robert Brooks, 21, of 1759 Seaton place northwest, and Arthur Desells, 25, of 1732 Willard street northwest. Both are colored.

Bridge Fund Plea Snares Many in City

Persons who have bought stock in the Brooklyn Bridge can sympathize with about 40 Washington merchants who, police discovered, have donated to a fund to "keep the Arlington Memorial Bridge and to finish the project."

Despite the fact that the bridge was completed almost a year ago at a cost of about $15,000,000 and was opened months ago, a man found ready donors to his fund after he told contributors that the Government was unable to finish the project and money was needed to keep the bridge up, police said.

Ernest Nelson Judd, 32 years old, of 2031 H street northwest, is under arrest on a charge of investigation, accused of working the racket on District merchants.

Police say the man had credentials from an organization which sponsored a fair in June to obtain funds for the District War Memorial. They say he produced these credentials in the middle of his sales talk for the bridge, and that the dollars rolled in.

He had collected from 42 merchants, according to Detective J. O. Patton, of the Sixth Precinct, who halted his activities, but the 43d merchant became suspicious.

Judd's last contributor is said by police to have been Sam Pittle, of the Rivoli Cleaners & Dyers, 4823 Georgia avenue northwest. Pittle parted with a dollar when Judd told him that the bridge really should be completed for the welfare of the District, but he made a mental note of the organization on Judd's credentials.

Pittle called the organization, police said, and learned that their fair had been over for about 10 months and that Judd had not worked for them since. Then the man called police.

Detective Patton said he listened in on Judd's sales talk at the Chapnik & Singer Delicatessen store, 4825 Georgia avenue northwest, and arrested him.

Swanson, of the Federal Board for Vocational Education, was elected president and Miss Catherine Ford, of the Bureau of Entomology, Department of Agriculture, was named secretary and treasurer, of the Washington Chapter of the Iowa State College Alumni last night at a dinner at the Roosevelt Hotel. The dinner was held in celebration of the seventy-fourth anniversary of the founding of the college, observed simultaneously by other chapters throughout the country.

Warburton, director of extension, Department of Agriculture; Dr. Edward Mead, commissioner of the Bureau of Reclamation of the Interior Department.

Amazon Explorers Found Monkey and Parrot Tasty

Geographic Society Lecturer Could Not Say as Much for Fried Ants and Broiled Alligator; Rare Birds Discovered.

Monkey and parrot meats are good to the palate of an American explorer; but one experience in eating fried ants and broiled alligator is enough, Ernest G. Holt told members of the National Georgraphic Society last evening in an illustrated address at the Washington Auditorium.

Mr. Holt led an expedition for the society into the region along the Brazil-Venezuela boundary and brought back to Washington a large amount of natural history material. The collections, including many rare birds and some believed to be new to science, have been presented to the National Museum.

During their travels members of the expedition made use of a complete chain of types of river craft from palatial modern steamers, which carried them to Manaos, 800 miles up the Amazon, to primitive dugout canoes propelled by native polers. They fought their way for 22 days by light-draft launch and flat-bottomed boats up 50 miles of almost continuous rapids in the Cauabury and Maturaca Rivers. The matted growth of vegetation at norraw places in the latter stream and fallen trees, almost blocked their passage and they had the unusual experience of having to cut a passage for their boats with machetes.

Some distance below the Casiquiare River the expedition came upon an isolated mountain, Cerro Yapacana, which rises steeply from the lowlands, and which does not appear on any of the usual maps of Venezuela. Extending through 3,500 feet from tropical to cool zones, the mountain furnished exceptionally good sources for the collection of bird specimens. The native tribes were observed to eat monkeys, alligators, alligator eggs, parrots, wild cats and the winged forms of leaf-cutting ants. The Americans experimented with these foods, but liked only the monkey and parrot meats.

Mr. Holt exhibited lantern slides showing birds of strange forms and stranger habits, and gorgeous feathered creatures unexcelled for beauty in any other part of the world. Among these were the Cock of the Rock, dubbed by Mr. Holt "the most beautiful bird in the world;" the capuchin or bald-headed calf-bird, which has a hoarse cry like that of a calf; the smallest American kingfisher, of less bulk than a house wren, which has forsaken the fishing ways of the kingfisher tribe and lives wholly upon insects; the cotinga, a highly colored creature with extra wing feathers which hum as it flies; and tiny manikins—"gigolo birds"—the males of which dance before the females.

More Lights Requested In Glover Park Section

The Glover Park Citizens Association last night adopted resolutions asking for installation of lights in the alleys of the Glover Park section and opposing the Mapes bills.

In opposing the Mapes bills and any move to increase taxation of the District, the association held that the assessment on Washington was too high already. Myron Walker, president of the association, spoke in the interests of the campaign against hoarding.

Woman Escapes Dry Men by Leap

Destroys Store of Liquor During Raid, Police Say; Two Men Seized.

A woman last night smashed 20 pint bottles and two half-gallon jars of liquor, leaped 30 feet from a second-story window and escaped, according to members of a raiding squad. Her husband and another man were held in connection with the raid, however.

Fred Morrison, 30 years old, of 916 Ninth street northwest, was charged with illegal possession and sale of liquor, and Jack Edward Wade, 24 years old, of 1310 Rhode Island avenue, husband of the woman, was accused of illegal possession.

The raiders said they had a warrant for the Rhode Island avenue address, but before going there called Morrison and had him deliver them a pint of liquor. Then they raided the house, but were kept at bay for a short while by a locked door. While they were breaking in, they said, Mrs. Wade was throwing the liquor from a window and then leaped as they broke in. They found one pint, they declared.

Congressional Quiz Backed By Howard Alumni Group

The Howard University Law School Alumni Association last night unanimously approved the proposed congressional investigation of the activities of the present college administration. The decision was reached at a special meeting of the association, called by the president, Nathan Dobbin.

The special meeting was held to hear a report on the alleged "pay roll padding" and on certain changes in the personnel at the university, the president explained.

The association at its last meeting delegated a committee to conduct a hurried examination at the school this week as the result of charges that the present administration is not active in the best interest of the college as a whole.

The recent dismissal of A. I. Cassel, who served as superintendent of the administration of buildings at the school, was one of the points investigated by the committee.

At the meeting last night the association decided to discontinue its own investigation in view of the pending congressional examination.

M'SULLEN LIKENED TO HAURY ATTACKER IN STATION LINE-UP

Suspect in Union Plot Held to Resemble Man Who Shot Officials.

PARTIAL IDENTIFICATION MADE BY 3 WITNESSES

Others Will View Prisoners Today; Five, Including Woman, Accused.

George MacSullen, 47 years old, of 223 A street southeast, resembles the man who, on May 20, fired upon several officials of the International Union of Operating Engineers, three witnesses of the shooting said last night after viewing the suspect at police headquarters.

MacSullen is one of five persons arrested in an alleged conspiracy to assassinate the present officials of the union. None of the others under arrest was identified. All are held for investigation, and will be viewed today by other witnesses, who will arrive here from New York. These witnesses saw the shooting in the Robin Hood T Shop, on K street near Tenth street, last May, in which Frank E. Langdon was seriously wounded.

Others Under Arrest.

Others now under arrest are Walter Reed, 26 years old; Mrs. Kay Reed, 25 years old, of 223 A street southeast; Ed Johnson, 38 years old, of 919 Grant place northwest, and Bert Wilson Carpenter, 41 years old, of 1309 Seventeenth street northwest. According to Capt. B. W. Thompson, the fingerprints of none of those under arrest match those found on a food tray held by the assailant of Langdon in the T House shooting.

The group was arrested after detectives, acting on a tip, obtained information, by use of a dictaphone, of an alleged plan to take the life of Charles E. Haury, supervisor of the organization. The detective bureau is awaiting advice from the Department of Justice to determine whether any of those under arrest have criminal records.

Two Witnessed Shootings.

Those who made the partial identification of MacSullen are James and V. M. Dugan, of 905 Eighth street northwest, who witnessed the shooting of Langdon; and V. L. Insley, of 1341 Irving street northwest, who saw a man run from the T Shop after the assault. Arthur M. Huddell, who was then president of the International Union, was saved from death when a note book over his heart stopped a bullet. He later died of a heart attack.

Raichle, Arraigned, Pleads Not Guilty

Has Two Weeks to File His Plea; Leaves City for Buffalo.

Frank G. Raichle, law partner of William J. Donovan, former Assistant Attorney General, yesterday entered a plea of "not guilty" in the District Supreme Court when he was arraigned on an indictment charging him with obstructing justice and with subornation of perjury.

No lawyer formally made his appearance for Mr. Raichle, though William J. Hughes, jr., a personal friend of Mr. Raichle, accompanied him to court and made arrangements for him.

Justice James M. Proctor, before whom the arraignment was held, granted Mr. Raichle two weeks within which to file a plea in abatement or a demurrer to the indictment. The customary period is ten days, but Neil Burkinshaw, special assistant to the Assistant Attorney General, Nugent Dodds, said he did not object to a four-day extension of the regular period. With that matter settled, Mr. Raichle left for his home in Buffalo.

FOUNDLING BETTER AFTER TRANSFUSION

Baby at St. Ann's Orphanage With Pneumonia Has Fair Recovery Chance.

June had a bright day yesterday.

This was the word from Providence Hospital last night where the 18-month-old foundling is seriously ill with pneumonia and where she has lain for weeks while physicians fought the malady.

The encouraging news from the baby's bedside may have been the result of a blood transfusion given Wednesday by Mary Catherine O'Connor, welfare worker for the Catholic Charities.

June was taken in charge by St. Ann's Orphanage, a subsidiary of the Catholic Charities, when she was abandoned by her parents 14 months ago. When Miss O'Connor heard of the baby's illness and the need for blood she immediately went to the hospital and volunteered. Her blood was found of the necessary type and the transfusion was made.

Yesterday a coworker of Miss O'Connor came forward to furnish blood in case it becomes necessary for another transfusion. Physicians said that this may be needed in a few days.

Physicians said that the two volunteer donors will suffice to furnish blood for the tiny waif and that while other offers would be appreciated, they will be unnecessary.

The fight against the illness gripping June is being centered along the line of building up her resistance. Physicians believe that unless unforeseen complications ensue, the baby has a fair chance of recovery.

Hit-Run Death Inquest To Be at Morgue Today

An inquest into the death of Melvin Gilmore, 19, colored, of 146 Rhode Island avenue northeast, from injuries received when struck by a hit-and-run driver at Connecticut avenue and Devonshire place northeast early yesterday, will be held at the District Morgue today at 11:30 a. m.

Huckster of Gasoline Freed of Parking Charge

A gasoline huckster yesterday won a battle in Police Court when he was acquitted of a charge of parking a commercial vehicle in front of a private dwelling. The huckster, Jacob M. Heilman, 7109 Georgia avenue northwest, showed Judge Gus A. Schuldt that the police regulations permit a tank wagon to park for a 30-minute period between intersecting streets, outside the congested section.

The traffic law and the police regulations were conflicting upon the point, and the judge dismissed the charge.

Meningitis Fatal To Schoolboy, 11

Coroner Probing Death on Report of Accident at Bradley.

The death of 11-year-old George Diver, 1353 D street southwest, yesterday afternoon at Emergency Hospital as the result of meningitis was being investigated last night by Coroner Joseph D. Rogers.

Police reports show the boy was taken to the hospital on March 7. On March 4 he was said to have suffered a slight injury to his head when a playmate at the Bradley School shoved him against a coat-hanger. The boy complained of a headache for several days afterward and there was a slight bump on his head.

A private physician who treated the boy said he did not think the head injury had any bearing on the boy's condition.

MRS. NORTON URGES LOCAL GOVERNMENT STUDY FOR REFORM

Joint Congressional Group Would Conduct Inquiry Under Proposal.

SOME DISTRICT LAWS ARE CALLED OBSOLETE

Right of Representation in U. S. Legislation Would Be Settled Also.

Exhaustive study of the District government by a joint congressional committee, with a view to effecting reforms in laws and the form of local administration, was proposed yesterday by Mrs. Mary T. Norton, chairman of the House District committee, in a joint resolution.

The resolution provides for a committee of six, comprising the chairman of the Senate District committee, the chairman of the House District committee, two members named by the Vice President and two designated by the Speaker of the House.

Cites Numerous Petitions.

The committee would hold hearings and conduct extensive investigations during the present session of Congress, and longer if necessary, reporting back their recommendations to House and Senate. The resolution authorizes appropriation of $5,000 for expenses.

"Numerous petitions have been presented to Congress urging a modification in the form of government of the District, so as to permit a greater voice in its affairs and management by the people resident here," Mrs. Norton said.

Says Some Laws Obsolete.

She said much of the substantive law here "is obsolete and not capable of enforcement," and the committee would be authorized to bring it up to date.

The group further would determine whether Washingtonians should have the right of representation in Congress. Mrs. Norton said she has found "a great diversity of opinion" in Congress and in the District on this question, and she would like to dispose of it once and for all. She, herself, favors a "limited franchise" for the people of the District.

Hearing of Policeman In Assault Deferred

On the motion of Assistant United States Attorney Schwartz, arraignment in Police Court of Policeman Luther E. Cline and his brother, Silas, on a charge of assault with a dangerous weapon, was postponed yesterday until next week.

A taxicab driver charged that the two men displayed guns while they were in his cab Tuesday night. The policeman is free on a $1,000 bond, while his brother has been committed in default of a bond.
